IRELAND'S PROBLEMS SEEN AT CLOSE RANGE BY AN AMERICAN

Sinn Feiners Control, Yet Dare Not Mention the Names of Their Directing Heads.

OBEY WITHOUT QUESTIONING

"Murders" to Them Are "Killings Under War Conditions"—Disorders Coldly Calculated.

WHOLE COUNTRY PROSPERS

Observer Can Find No Economic Reasons for Discontent—"The Object is Patriotic."

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—I am just back from Ireland, whither I went to gather impressions of the present conditions there. My mental attitude was impartial and I shall try to report facts and opinions as I encountered them in my visit. If in transcribing my notes, made as I went along, the Sinn Fein viewpoint stands out less than the opposite one, it is because "of low visibility" on that side of the fence.

The Irish Republic is an invisible republic. Its supporters are carrying out a secret program and talking is strictly against the rules. Most of the people I met were Sinn Feiners, and they were all most hospitable and obliging to me as an American. No American who leaves controversial matters severely alone need have any fears in visiting Ireland. In fact, the person of every American is sacred, for America is now the chief cornerstone of Sinn Fein hopes. They shoot pretty freely, but shoot straight and do not often kill by accident. A typical Sinn Fein gunman would put his own brother out of the way, if ordered to do so. He would believe it was necessary for the cause and would not take his personal grief to heart provided the victim first had absolution.

Murder Domesticated.

In Sinn Fein Ireland murder has become domesticated. Indeed, they do not consider it murder at all. It is "killing." Except in cases where advantage is taken of the general laxity to pay off personal grudges, the whole business is purely mechanical. In the minds of Sinn Feiners connected with this branch of activity there is a state of war, and any patriot would shoot a traitor in the back or any other portion of his anatomy just as freely as a French or English soldier would shoot a German during the war.

In the face of this, general conditions in Ireland are peculiarly unfavorable to the kind of movement which is now at its high tide. Ireland is a relatively prosperous country. The Sinn Feiners do not admit this, and tell you that in Dublin there are 20,000 families each living in a single room. Nevertheless, Ireland, especially in the rural districts, is enjoying conditions which certainly have not existed since the famine of 1846. Land, for which there is a universal lust, has been divided or is in process of division on extraordinarily favorable terms, and whenever these terms do not seem sufficiently generous to the "have-nots" the landowners are compelled to part with their holdings by methods not usually recognized in courts of law.

As will appear later, one of the big impelling forces in the present movement is an insatiable desire among young men for land. It is estimated that the number of young men in Ireland is now about 200,000 above the normal. They did not go to war in large numbers, and were not allowed to emigrate, and now there is a hot scramble among them to get hold of land.

Catholic Ireland, which is three-fourths of the whole population, lives under precisely the same British Government as Northern Ireland, with one-fourth of the population. The larger percentage of the three-fourths is chronically discontented and at times rebellious. About the same percentage of the Belfast district, composed of the two counties of Antrim and Down, and a lesser proportion of four of the other seven counties of Ulster are reasonably prosperous and happy under these same laws and their administration.

Purpose in Ulster's Loyalty.

If Catholic Ireland had the same character and temperament as Protestant Ireland, and had accepted in the same way British rule, Ireland would probably long ago have become one of the most prosperous communities in the world. But British rule does not suit the Irish for reasons of their own. Every concession on the part of Britain has been made the stepping-stone for new demands. As some one has put it, Southern Ireland's attitude seems to be: "'Caresses have their charms,' says the mastiff in the fable, 'but the chain is there still.'"

Ulster accepts the rule that the rest of Ireland despises, works under it, prospers under it, and seems to be as happy as the limitations of that dour Scottish breed permit. Ulster plays for all it is worth her devotion to the Union, but in my visit there I formed the impression that the love of Britain was less potent with them than fear and hate of Catholic Ireland and apprehension of the results that would follow Dublin rule.

It is clear, therefore, that the demand for independence is not due to the causes which usually set off explosive popular

Argentina Foils Attempt To Smuggle Gold Here

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 12.—Custom House authorities have frustrated an attempt to take to New York $35,000 and £2,500 in gold coin in violation of the law prohibiting the export of gold.

A ship in the harbor was searched and the hidden gold was discovered by officers, who deposited it in the Bank of the Nation. An investigation has been begun.

It is assumed those who planned the operation purposed to profit by the unfavorable exchange situation, the United States dollar being 11 per cent. above par here.

HEAR IRISH WILL GET DOMINION HOME RULE

UP IN COMMONS ON MONDAY

London Believes Lloyd George Is Favorable—Cabinet Summons Irish Secretary.

DUBLIN, Aug. 13.—The Freeman's Journal announces that E. Wylie, legal adviser to Viscount French, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has presented his resignation.

Rather than accept it, the newspaper says, Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, has promised to pledge the Government on Monday to Dominion Home Rule with full fiscal authority.

Of course, comments the newspaper, the question of Ulster will be subject to discussion.

The Irish Unionist Anti-Partition League, founded last year, declared for self government in Ireland at a meeting here today, which was attended by representatives of commercial and professional men and land owners.

A resolution was unanimously adopted which said the Government's Irish bill now before Parliament was not acceptable to the Irish people ad that it should be amended so as to give full control to the Irish people over all local affairs, including taxation.

The resolution urged the Government to act immediately "as every passing month makes settlement more difficult."

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Should the report printed by the Freeman's Journal of Dublin that the Government has decided to adopt a dominion solution of the Irish problem prove correct, it will not cause much surprise here.

Mr. Wylie's resignation would be the second resignation from the Viceroy's Council, and probably for the same reason as was given by Sir Thomas Stafford, who resigned early in the week because, as he put it, the Premier has "refused to take the only step giving a chance for peace, namely, the firm and immediate offer of a form of dominion government."

The Cabinet was in session at Downing Street today discussing the Irish problem. During the counsel Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was summoned.

The movement in favor of Dominion Home Rule, with reservations concerning the army and navy and other questions, has grown with astonishing rapidity in recent months. It is generally believed to be favored by Premier Lloyd George.

Reports of the meeeting at Dublin of the Irish Unionist Anti-partition League are furnished to The London Times by influential Unionists, who were concerned with the meeting, among them Lord Castlemaine, Lord Rathdonnell, General Crosbie and Sir Charles Barrington.

A resolution passed by the meeting, the reports show, places on record the league's actions, taken in view of the strong representations which had reached those responsible for the resolution from Unionists throughout Ireland.

"While still believing legislative union to be the best form of government in Ireland," the resolution says, "it is realized that the British government has failed to secure observance of law and has lost the confidence of all classes.

"We therefore feel that our duty to the country and empire forces us to acquiesce in the only solution of the existing troubles which appears to offer a prospect of lasting peace."

The Dublin correspondent of the Times says:

"No Unionist action in recent years is regarded as so important as that taken today."

That the Ulster Unionists of all classes were never more united than now and that their confidence in Sir Edward Carson as leader of the Irish Unionist Party was never greater is the substance of a statement made today by Dawson Bates, Secretary of the Ulster Unionist Council.

The statement was made with reference to yesterday's report from Dublin of a "significant split" in the ranks of Sir Edward Carson's followers.

PONZI GOES TO JAIL; RIVAL OPERATORS ARE ALSO TAKEN

Four Officers of Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company Held on Larceny Charge.

CROWD STORMS OFFICES

NEW NOTE HOLDERS APPEAR

Creditors and Attorney General May Seek to Make Fortunate Investors Divide.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Coincident today with the surrender of Charles Ponzi by his bondsman and his commitment to prison came a descent by State officials on another company alleged to have been conducting similar operations. Four officers of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company were arrested on a charge of larceny and, like Ponzi, being unable to furnish bonds, were locked up.

Those arrested were Charles M. Brightwell, President and Treasurer; Fred Myers, Secretary and Sales Manager; his brother, Raymond C. Myers, General Manager, and Samuel Zorn of Dorchester. They were held in $50,000 bail on the charge of larceny of $500 from persons unknown.

It was stated by the officials that the Myers brothers were packing their bags preparatory to departing for New York when they were taken at Young's Hotel.

It is known that many other warrants have been issued and more arrests are expected in relation to "frenzied finance" operations centering in this city.

How much money was poured into the coffers of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company is a mystery, but it is estimated at $2,000,000. Officials express the fear that large sums have been taken out of the country.

The company was "warned" two weeks ago by District Attorney Pelletier, but was not forced to close until today, meantime establishing branch offices at Springfield, Wakefield, New Bedford and elsewhere. Criticism is heard against the officials for not acting earlier and shutting off the flow of money days ago. The company was promising profits of 100 per cent. in six months and 50 per cent. in 90 days, giving out time notes in exchange for cash.

Crowd in Frenzy.

The closing of the offices at 54 Devonshire Street caused wild scenes, as with Ponzi, the majority of the "investors" are Italians, and when the news reached them there was a rush for the office. Hundreds pushed and jammed, forcing their way inside. When they learned that they could not have their money, their frenzy increased and the crowd sought President Brightwell. Angry mutterings and cries rose up and here and there a knife could be seen.

Brightwell took refuge behind a barred door until the police quieted the crowd.

Then the company was ejected from this office. New offices were at once opened around the corner at 32 Oliver Street. This was announced to the crowd, and there was another rush to the new location. But no money was paid out and the crowd became so threatening that the office force fled, leaving the crowd in charge.

The Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, according to President Brightwell, opened a little over two weeks ago with $500 capital. Ten days ago the District Attorney issued a public warning against the company, advising against placing any money with it, but declaring "there was no law" under which he could go further.

R. C. A. Lindblad, another man identified with the company, is now on his way to Europe. Brightwell was at one time President of the Langdon Gas and Oil Company of Kansas. Raymond Myers was a former shoe buyer for a department store here. Lindblad, according to Brightwell, is an expert accountant, and expert on foreign exchange.

More Counts Against Ponzi.

Meantime, Ponzi was finding Friday the 13th an unlucky day. Late this afternoon he was surrendered by his bondsman, Morris Rudnick, who yesterday furnished $35,000 bonds. Further than this, forty additional counts, charging larceny, have been placed against the Italian. Tonight he is in a cell at the East Cambridge jail.

It is practically certain that Ponzi himself was in favor of such a move. For three days he has time and again expressed fears for his life, and his coolness and cheerfulness have deserted him completely, except at times.

He made another claim today that he is able to pay all he owes and that his debts are less than $2,000,000. His assets he insists are $2,500,000.

"I'll bet I am in my office doing business again within two weeks," he exclaimed.

The largest number of noteholders to appear were at Attorney General Allen's office today in response to his invitation to them to report.

Policemen Among Investors.

Police Superintendent Crowley and Police Commissioner Curtis are vexed at the large number of patrolmen who were Ponzi customers. The bluecoats

Tree Struck by Lightning Yields Baked Apples

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 13.—Freshly baked apples were obtained for breakfast today from a tree owned by Mrs. Annie E. Byrnes of this city.

The tree, heavily laden with early "greenings," was struck by lightning in the night and the fruit was thoroughly cooked.

EXPRESS RATE RISE OF 12½% IS GRANTED

THEY ASKED FOR 25.15%

Increase on Milk Is Allowed to Bring Tariff to That Allowed to the Railroads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Interstate Commerce Commission granted the express companies today an increase of 12.5 per cent. over the existing rates.

The companies had asked for an increase of 25.16 per cent., but, as under present contracts, half of the sum would have gone to the railroads, the commission declined to authorize this raise. New contracts with the railroads will go into effect in September, which will do away with the "fifty-fifty" split with the roads, experts said today.

The new rates granted will add $36,000,000 to the revenue of the express companies organized under the name of the American Railway Express Company. The increase, however, does not cover the recent award of the Railroad Labor Board, raising the pay of express company employes, and the companies have asked permission to file an application for another rate increase to cover the wage increase.

According to the Railroad Labor Board the wage raise amounts to $33,000,000. But the express companies assert that they will have to raise $43,000,000 in order, under their present contracts, to cover the advance and conclude their agreement with the railroads.

Shippers Pleas Are Denied.

The commission refused to grant the pleas of certain shippers who opposed the increased rates. These included shippers of bread, cake, frozen fish, live fish and laundry. The shippers of perishables said that the cost of living would be increased by higher rates. The laundrymen said the fact that laundry had to be shipped one way soiled and brought back clean resulted in a double rate in a business with a small profit.

Other shippers who said rates should be lower from "terminal to terminal" than when a wagon service, picking up and delivering shipments was included failed to make an impression on the commission. Nor did rubber tire manufacturers, who pleaded for special carload rate on their products. But the commission decided that rates on milk and cream might be equalized with those applied at the same time by railroads between the same points.

In its report today the commission, in connection with the deficit of the express companies, said:

"It appears that an allowance of $8,883,580.05, made by the Government to the four major companies in December, 1918, is not included in the figures for that year. Its inclusion would reduce the deficit to $22,646,103.80. It also is explained that the transportation expenses for 1919 have been reduced $4,000,000, representing the estimated accrual in that year's accounts for loss and damage, partially to offset under accruals during the latter half of 1918 and thereafter payable. Similar adjustments, in stated amounts, were made for the preceding two years. A further exhibit indicates that if the wage scale in effect at the close of 1919 had been in force throughout the year and it had been respondent's duty to apportion the revenues among the transportation lines the operating deficit for that year would have been $27,514,394.28.

Had Deficit in 1914.

"The exhibit from which the foregoing extract is taken discloses a deficit in 1914, amounting to $8,415,773.09, with profits exceeding $6,000,000 in each of the following two years, and a deficit of $5,473,694.78 in 1917. The gross transportation revenues steadily increased from $128,224,685.91 in 1911, with the exception of decline in 1913 and 1914, to $285,905,405.40 in 1919, while the total operating expenses increased uninterruptedly from $53,056,611.26 to $167,426,502.77 during the same period. The ratio of wages to revenues increased from 26.75 per cent in 1911 to 35.59 per cent in 1919, and concurrently the ratio of the total other expenses to revenue increase from 17.22 to 23.77 per cent. In both 1918 and 1919 the increases in gross revenues were materially lower than the increases in wages and other expenses.

"We think that the full amount of these increases should accrue to respondent and we assume that the other carriers will join respondent in so arranging, by revision of contracts or agreements, or in some other manner.

"Under the circumstances no order will be entered, and in view of the approach of the end of the guaranty period, respondent will be permitted to make such increased rates effective upon not less than one day's notice in the manner provided by the Interstate Commerce act.

"Its local and joint schedule of first and second class rates should be re-

TENNESSEE SENATE RATIFIES SUFFRAGE; HOUSE ACTS MONDAY

Vote of 25 to 4 Surprises Even Suffragists, Who Are Now Confident of Victory.

WILSON MAKES NEW APPEAL

Sends Telegram to Speaker Walker Urging Favorable Action by Representatives.

ACTION IN RALEIGH TUESDAY

North Carolina Senate Committee 7 to 1 for Favorable Report—Bickett Urges Ratification.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.—The Tennessee Senate this afternoon, by a vote of 25 to 4, adopted the joint resolution calling for ratification of the Woman Suffrage Amendment.

The Committee on Constitutional Amendment, reporting to the Senate, recommended favorable action. The Legislature has a "legal and moral right to act," the report said; "inhibitory clauses in the State Constitution are invalidated by the United States Constitution."

The minority report was tabled when an effort was made to adopt it. The vote was 23 to 10. When the suffrage resolution was brought up for passage a point of order was made by Senator McFarland that the Senate had no right to act. The Chair overruled the point and an appeal was taken. The Senate sustained the ruling by a vote of 27 to 5. Senator McFarland declared that it would be a violation of their oaths for the legislators to vote.

The House adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon without reference to suffrage and the action of the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments in deciding to delay its report until Tuesday was a disappointment to suffrage workers. But it was announced that the committee will hold hearings Monday night.

Developments this morning in the House included the naming of Representative Hanover of Shelby County as floor leader for ratification in place of Representative Riddick of Shelby County. The step was taken, according to legislators, merely in view of the fact that Representative Riddick was elected only for this special session of the Legislature and it was thought some older member should have charge of the fight.

Denial of rumors that trading of votes has been going on in the Shelby and Davidson delegations was made this morning by Mr. Hanover. He said that the Shelby delegation was still pledged for a majority vote in favor of ratification.

Following the decision of the House committee to deter action on the point resolution until Monday night propositions were heard from ratification advocates to make a fight on the floor of the House tomorrow to call the resolution out from committee to take action on it at once. No such action was, however, expected by workers on either side. It was considered doubtful that the two-thirds vote necessary for such a step could be mustered.

Majority Caused Surprise.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13 (Associated Press.)—Even the most optimistic of the suffrage forces were surprised at the large majority today in the Tennessee Senate for ratification. Seventeen votes were necessary, but most polls had listed from 20 to 22 as favorable, and the high water mark was set at 24.

The suffragists have proceeded from the beginning of the legislative session with the expectation that the real fight would be in the lower house and the Senate vote had hardly been announced before the workers were redoubling efforts to secure favorable action by the Representatives.

An hour before the Senate convened the galleries and aisles were packed with spectators, among whom the active pro and anti suffrage workers predominated. Speaker Todd had little difficulty in silencing the onlookers when the body was called to order, and throughout the two hours of debate, during which there were numerous demonstrations, was able to control the situation. But when the seventeenth vote in favor of ratification was recorded, the pent-up enthusiasm of the suffrage cohorts went beyond restraint and forced a temporary suspension of the roll call.

When the clerk resumed it was doubted whether any one outside the small semi-circle occupied by the members was able to keep a tally of the vote and knew at the end what the total was. The suffragists were satisfied to know that seventeen Senators had voted favorably. They redoubled their cheers when the clerk shouted the total above the uproar, and it was necessary for the Speaker to call upon the Sergeant-at-Arms before the chamber could be quieted sufficiently for work to be resumed upon other matters.

There were few members of the Assembly remaining in Nashville tonight, most of them having gone to their homes for the week-end and no developments of major importance bearing upon the fight to be waged in the House next week were expected before Monday.

In reply to the charge of Senator Chandler, Republican and suffrage opponent, made during debate today, that Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, had advocated intermarriage between whites and negroes,

BRITISH LABOR BARS WAR AID TO POLAND; FRANCE DELAYS ON HELP FOR GEN. WRANGEL; BOLSHEVIKI SWEEP FASTER ON WARSAW

Soviet Terms Threaten Division of Poland; Reds Also to Demand Coal and Salt Mines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—A plebiscite to determine the future of Russian Poland is one of the peace terms drawn up by the Bolsheviki coincident with the first proposal of an armistice by the Polish Government. The right of unrestricted propaganda in this territory during the year which would intervene before the plebiscite also would be demanded.

These and the other terms of peace which are believed to have been formulated for submission at the first meeting between the Soviet and Polish emissaries were received here today in official circles. While not regarded as final because of events favorable to the Bolsheviki since their formulation, the terms are accepted in Washington as illustrative of the intention of the invaders to impose peace conditions of a drastic nature.

The other terms, as received here, include the right of the Soviet Government to unrestricted transmission of all code messages across Poland between Russia and Germany; the turning over of all salt and coal mines in Poland for operation by the Soviet Government, and the right of unrestricted travel for all Soviet nationals across the Polish frontiers without the Polish visé on passports.

The granting of such demands would, in the opinion of officials here, certainly result in the loss to the Warsaw Government of Russian Poland, for all Polish national feeling in that region, it is considered, would be blotted out by the Bolsheviki propaganda.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE NOT SO FAR APART

But London Says There Will Be No Conference on Poland, Paris Expects One.

AID TO WRANGEL HELD UP

French Foreign Office Suggests New Agreement—Torpedo Boat Off to Sebastopol.

LONDON, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—It was officially stated this afternoon that no arrangements were being made for a meeting between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand as a result of France's action in recognizing General Wrangel's Government in South Russia.

"France has taken a stand and maintains it, and Great Britain has done the same thing," the Associated Press was informed. "There is no need of a conference now.

"The tension today was considerably lessened, and the countries are not so far apart as the situation yesterday seemed to indicate."

French Aid to Wrangel Waits.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—France has not yet determined to aid materially General Baron Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist commander in South Russia, as, according to an announcement from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George agreed at the Hythe Conference that such aid was not to be undertaken except in certain eventualities. It is considered that France will not act until after an exchange of views with Great Britain.

The Foreign Office today issued a denial that France had ever encouraged Poland to wage war with the Bolsheviki. On the contrary, the statement said, France has urged Poland to keep within her ethnographic boundaries, and to realize that her dangers lay westward rather than eastward.

Plans are under consideration for a renewal of the conference recently held between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand. It was said that others might also attend the conference.

Belief that General Weygand of the French Army will not accept the offer made to him by the Polish Council of National Defense to take supreme command of the Polish forces is expressed in an announcement printed by the Temps today. The General, who is in Warsaw as a member of the French Mission, the announcement adds, will remain adviser to the Polish Government.

TO SEND COLBY NOTE TO RUSSIA VIA WRANGEL

Propaganda Against Soviets Is Also Planned Through Other Channels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Steps already have been undertaken, it was said today at the State Department, to send the American note on Russia and Poland into Russia through Finland and the Baltic States, and by way of Southern Russia through the means of communication afforded by the forces of General Wrangel.

Other means also, which were not particularized, were alluded to by officials as promising the distribution of the note to the Russian people, for whom it was intended.

REDS ONLY 20 MILES FROM WARSAW NOW

VISTULA IS THE OBJECTIVE

Bolsheviki Move to Cut Off the Last Link with the Baltic.

PARIS, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Closing in upon Warsaw from the north, east and southeast, the Bolshevist posts are now within twenty miles of the capital, and little doubt is felt here that they will be in the city before the peace negotiations are concluded.

General Haller's army, holding positions along the Vistula, Narew and Bug rivers in a country offering few natural advantagese for defense, is being relentlessly pushed toward the capital by the Bolsheviki, who are speeding up their advance.

The northern Reds, according to the latest news reaching Paris tonight, had passed Pultusk and were marching southward on the capital down the valley of the Narew. Another column was advancing between the Narew and the Bug, while south of the Bug the enemy had reached and passed the line running from Tluszcz through Plivki, Dobre, Kaluszyn, Tsegloff and Latovitch to Zzelechoff. Further south the enemy had succeeded in forcing a passage of the Bug and was moving on Lublin.

The Bolshevist cavalry along the Prussian frontier has made another bound forward, and is now forty miles beyond Miawa, almost half the way to Thorn.

In other words, the Reds are advancing all along the line, except in the extreme south.

Citizens of Warsaw to the number of 100,000 have pledged themselves to defend the capital to the last breath. But it is felt here that such an unorganized effort cannot seriously affect the fate of the city. This, apparently, also is the view of the Polish Government, which is reported to be considering moving to Posen if it is satisfied there is no chance of the Soviet forces suspending hostilities at an early date.

Premier Leaves Warsaw for Posen.

WARSAW, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—The newspapers today assert that Premier Witos has left Warsaw for Posen.

Contact with the Bolshevist lines in spots is only forty kilometers (about twenty-five miles) from Warsaw, says an official communiqué issued last night.

The communiqué describes the Warsaw front along the line, Wyszkow, Tluscez, Kaluszyn and Ciechanow, as weak.

Bolshevist cavalry detachments, driving westward after the capture of Mlawa have reached the Wkra River region and the towns of Biezun and Radsanovo. They are now less than thirty miles from the Vistula River.

Preparations are being made to prevent the Bolsheviki from reaching the Posen district.

Polish successes on the Southern front, where the Russians have been pushing for Lemberg, are reported in last night's official communiqué. The Polish cavalry and infantry have ousted the Bolsheviki from Radziechoff, Lopatyn, Stanyslavezyk and Toporoff.

These towns are in the district northeast of Lemberg and to the West and Northwest of Brody, on the old Galician border.

Fighting is continuing still further South along the Stripa (in the Buczacz area).

In the North the Poles are still falling back, the statement announcing they have evacuated Mlawa and Pultusk.

The Bolsheviki are continuing their westward drive beyond Mlawa toward the Vistula with the object of cutting the last remaining line of communications with the Baltic, Poland's chief base of supplies.

The abandonment of Pultusk is considered a grave military defeat, the

LABOR ULTIMATUM ON WAR

Empowers "Council of Action" to Prevent War Against Russia.

WANT SOVIETS RECOGNIZED

DELEGATES SING 'RED FLAG'

London Papers See Threat of Revolution and Say Coercion Is Intolerable.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 14.—British organized labor issued yesterday what was virtually an ultimatum to the Government.

Practically all of the labor and trades union executives in the country have agreed to hand over their powers to the Council of Action, which was authorized to call for any and every form of withdrawal of labor which circumstances may require in order to secure a guarantee against military or naval operations against Russia, withdrawal of the Russian blockade and recognition of the Soviet Government.

The second Labor Conference, at which these decisions were taken, was presided over by W. Adamson, Chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party. In the course of his speech Adamson said: "We are not concerned with the form of the Russian Government. We have no concern about the merits or demerits of Bolshevism. What we are concerned about is an unwarrantable interference with the Governments of other peoples.

"We believe in the inalienable right of any nation to choose its own form of government."

After quoting declarations from the Soviet Government that it had no intention of interfering with the internal affairs of Poland he declared that the independence of that country never was at stake and that sinister forces had been at work to bring about war between Britain and Russia.

"We will not have war with Russia," he said amid loud cheers; "and we will take whatever steps are necessary to prevent it."

"Ready for Desperate Measures."

The resolution, moved by J. H. Thomas, indorsed the action of three representative of labor bodies in forming the Council of Action.

Thomas admitted that the formation of this Council of Action, which involved the transfer of all power into the hands of the council, was "a desperate and dangerous method," but he argued that "we believe that the situation is so desperate and dangerous that action through the ballot box would be futile in this case, and that only desperate and dangerous methods can provide a remedy.

"There resolutions do not mean a mere strike," he said. "Do not make any mistake. They mean a challenge to the whole Constitution of the country." (Loud and continued cheers.)

It was, he continued, a fight against the Constitution of our country, but I do believe that we are united in the labor movement, and much as we would regret action, much as we deplore it, we are prepared to take the risk."

Another resolution passed expressed satisfaction at the Russian Government's declaration in favor of the complete independence of Poland, and instructed the Council of Action to "remain in existence until they have secured an absolute guarantee that (1) the armed forces of Great Britain shall not be used in support of Poland, Baron Wrangel, or any other military or naval effort against the Soviet Government; (2) withdrawal of all British or naval forces operating directly or indirectly as a blockading influence against Russia; (3) recognition of the Soviet Government and establishment of unrestricted trading and commercial relationships between Britain and Russia."

The resolution also authorized the Council of Action to call for "any and every form of withdrawal of labor which the circumstances may require to give effect to the foregoing policy," and called upon "every trade union official and members in general to act swiftly and courageously to sweep away secret bargaining and diplomacy and to assure that the foreign policy of Britain may be in accord with the desires of the people for an end to war and interminable threats of war."

Robert Williams told the delegates that they were faced with a constitutional crisis. He said: "I tell you solemnly and seriously that you are infinitely more representative than the House of Commons, and you may be summoned to sit permanently as 'a committee of national safety.'

"I would rather act in an unconstitutional manner than go to war and go to hell under the forms of the British Constitution."

Robert Smillie threatened if France cut off the Russian coal supply to cut off the supply of coal to France.

The gravity of this step was raised by J. H. Thomas, M. P. In newing one of the principal resolutions he said these resolutions "do not mean a mere strike. They mean a challenge to the whole constitution of the country."

Extraordinary scenes followed the adoption of the resolutions, the delegates rising and singing the "Red Flag."

The conference ended with the singing of the "Internationale."

Chronicle Sees Revolution Threat.

The Daily Chronicle asks:

"Are we to take the results of this singular conference as meaning that labor has sworn an oath to support Lloyd George's declared policy in almost every particular up to the point, if necessary, of revolution?

"That was not an implication of the speeches, but, nevertheless, the policy which they urge, with threats, is also the policy of the Prime Minister, and the policy in favor of which the country as a whole has declared itself with unmistakable emphasis."

Then, taking up the general question of direct action, The Chronicle recognizes that "the heart of labor is sound, but not for a moment can we tolerate a proposition that labor men, as a section, have the right to decide when the country is in danger. When a situation is desperate labor men have no monopoly of just perception. They need not threaten a willing nation; they have no right to threaten an unwilling nation and to say that if their dictatorship does not prevail civilization shall be scrapped and the hazards of revolution shall be the remedy."

The Daily News suggests that the labor resolutions are the outcome of labor's suspicion of Winston Churchill and lack of belief that the present Cabinet can be trusted to carry out its own policy honestly.

"Under these circumstances, the issue raised is very different from what would have presented itself if any question of challenging the Government by direct action were involved," says the paper, adding: "That it may yet be involved must be recognized. If and when it is, the issue will have to be faced squarely."

For the present, however, the paper suggsts that "practicalities are far too urgent to permit of contentions on theories. Nothing would please the friends of anti-Russian intervention so much as that."

A False Issue, Says Spectator.

This point is well put by the Weekly Spectator, which says:

"If the labor people hope to gain Kudos by telling the country that they saved us from war, they will be disillusioned. Truth will prevail, and already the majority know where the truth lies. Lloyd George was perfectly right, when he received the deputation from the so-called Council of Action, in saying that he could not give his formal answer to them because he owed it to Parliament.

"Needless to say, the wholly false issue which labor, including the comparatively moderate elements of the Parliamentary Labor Party, the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress and the Executive Committee of the Labor Party is presenting to the country, is backed up by the usual threat of a general strike.

"What will labor do if the Bolsheviki decide after all—though judging from the assurances of the Bolsheviki we do not think this likely—to rob the Poles of their freedom? Are representatives of British labor so craven, so disloyal to the doctrine of freedom which they are always preaching, that they would look on with their downed tools lying at their feet while a country incapable of resistance had an alien tyranny thrust upon her?

"Poland, we must never forget, was expressly guaranteed her freedom in the treaty of Versailles, with the approval of labor. If British labor were guilty of such treachery it would simply mean one law for the Bolsheviki and another law for everybody else."

Telegraph Calls It Cheap Display.

The Daily Telegraph describes the Labor conference as a "rather cheap display, since the performers know well enough that it is not in the least necessary to deter the Cabinet from plunging into imperialistic or superfluous war, which is quite the last thing it can wish to do. There will be, and there can be, no new war unless the vital interests of this country are endangered. If that were to happen, which fortunately now seems improbable, the real influence of the Council of Action and the British clients of Bolshevism would be speedily and decisively tested."

Referring to French recognition of General Wrangel, The Daily Telegraph expresses the fear that "the Poles, encouraged by this powerful patronage, may decline to accept their defeat, and that the Soviet authorities may find themselves compelled to respond by occupying more Polish territory and seizing the capital and strategic railways. It is unfortunate," says the paper, "that a plausible argument should have been furnished to these adroit and agile reasoners by the action of Millerand. The French Premier, in further communication, expresses his agreement with President Wilson's note and reiterates his objection to recognizing a Government founded on negation of all principles of honor and good faith. But he may have done more to help than to hurt this régime by once more allowing it to pose as the champion of Muscovite nationalism menaced by foreign hostility.

"The sensational resolutions passed by the Labor Conference have for the time being overshadowed Anglo-French differences of policy in regard to Russia.

"Tension on this score was relieved by Paris reports that while the French Government held by its recognition of the Wrangel Government there was no intention of giving it actual military support until after an exchange of views with Great Britain.

"There are some points in regad to the labor resolutions which have to be borne in mind in estimating the real incidence. There is no need to lay stress on the gravity of the step, which is a decision by one section of the community to force its will upon the whole community by methods recognised in this country as legitimate in industrial disputes, but utterly unacceptable in questions of national policy.

"Under the present particular circumstances, however, the Labor Party has obviously taken into consideration the fact that their general attitude toward a possible war with Russia has the support of the great majority of the people of this country, irrespective of class. There is, consequently, little likelihood of labor's position being challenged merely on the principle that it is unconstitutional.

"The public generally agrees with the labor view, and it is improbable that it will seek a quarrel because of the form in which labor has put forward its decisions.

"This applies only, of course, to the immediate situation. Striking developments are considered likely once the danger of a Russian war is eliminated. The miners are threatening trouble and the direct action policy may recoil on the heads of the Labor Party if the issue is joined on a domestic question.

"For the time being labor men are exulting over what they regard as an astute political move. They will be able to proclaim that labor saved the country from another war. As a matter of fact they have been flogging a dead horse."

The Daily Mail says:

"The Labor resolution, which Thomas described as a challenge to the whole constitution of the country, as a matter of fact challenges nothing and nobody. The Labor Conference is battering at an open door. The Labor Conference wants peace with Russia. So does everybody in this country, including the Government. What need, then, for threats of direct action?"

REFUSE TO SHIP TROOPS.

Action of Seamen's Congress at Brussels Applies to Polish Conflict.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 13.—The International Seamen's Congress here last evening adopted a motion to the effect that in order to prevent future wars the seamen will refuse to transport troops and munitions.

This measure is applicable to the Russo-Polish conflict, the seamen's delegates refusing to transport troops and munitions.

MILLERAND BACKS OUR RUSSIAN POLICY

Sends Note Expressing Pleasure at "Complete Accord" with French Views.

CANNOT TRUST BOLSHEVIKI

France Will Never Deal with Instigators of Revolts, the Premier Asserts.

PARIS, August 13.—The French government is sending a note to the United States expressing pleasure that the French and American views on the Russo-Polish situation are "in complete accord," it was learned here today.

The note, which is eight hundred words in length and is signed by Premier Millerand, recapitulates the conclusions in the American note to Italy, saying that France "reaches an identical conclusion." It adds that France "never varied in its determination to support the principles so clearly formulated by the Government of the United States."

The French note says it was with these principles in mind that France recognized General Baron Wrangel (anti-Bolshevist commander in South Russia), and decided not to approve the Soviet's terms to Poland unless they conform with these principles. It concludes that France is "happy to note once again the most thorough harmony between the sentiments animating the American and French peoples when there is at stake the future of civilization."

Premier Millerand says in the note that France is "entirely in accord with the principles formulated" in the American note.

A copy of the note was given to Leland Harrison, Secretary of the American Embassy, while he was calling on Maurice Paleologue, General Secretary of the Foreign Office.

In the course of the note Premier Millerand says that the American and French Governments "cannot have official relations with a Government resolved to conspire against the institutions of France, whose diplomats would be instigators of revolts, and whose speakers proclaim they will sign contracts with the intention not to live up to them."

The French Government believes, as does the American Government, the Premier continues, in the necessity of an independent State of Poland, and desires ardently (1) to maintain the political independence and territorial integrity of Poland, (2) to support efforts to deal with the Russian-Polish armistice question without negotiations having for their consequence recognition of the Bolshevist régime and dismemberment of Poland, and (3) to help the Russian people in the future.

Washington Welcomes French Backing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Officials are awaiting with interest the receipt of the note which, according to press dispatches from Paris, the French Government is forwarding to the United States. Nothing could please the Washington Government more than to have the approval of France in the course of action that Secretary Colby outlined.

From the beginning of the present aspect of the Polish-Russian situation, with the new Polish State believed to be in danger of extinction at the hands of the Bolsheviki, the French Government has insisted that the United States should be consulted in the formation of any general program, and the French note is said to confirm that understanding of the position of France.

Although there are some points of divergence between the French and American policies of dealing with Russia, a hopeful feeling exists here that they will be harmonized in conformity with the attitude of the United States as outlined by Secretary Colby.

While at first it was supposed that the French Government, in recognizing the Wrangel Government of South Russia, intended to send troops into the Crimea to help General Wrangel in his opposition to the Bolshevist forces, the disposition now is to believe that the French attitude is not far from the contention of this Government that it would be unwise for the allied and associated powers to enter into active warfare against the Soviet armies on Russian soil.

The recognition by France of the Wrangel Government as the de facto government of South Russia seems to be viewed in a new light by officials here. At first inclined to believe that this was contrary to the American view that none of the political entities set up out of parts of the old Russian Empire should be accorded recognition by any of the Allies, the officials are now of the opinion that France construes the Wrangel Government not as a separate entity, but as a nationalistic authority designed to unite all Russia. The unification of the former Russian Empire is one of the aims of the United States. While the United States will not give formal recognition to the new government of South Russia, the cause of General Wrangel has its good wishes.

Hugh Gibson, Minister to Poland, and Warren D. Robbins of the Diplomatic Service, who is to be counselor of the American Legation in that country, left Washington today for New York, whence they will sail on the Adriatic on Saturday. Upon landing in Europe they will go direct to Paris and thence to wherever the seat of the Polish Government may at at that time.

PREDICTS BOLSHEVIST FALL.

Francis Expects Collapse in Six Months, He Tells Colby.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—David R. Francis, who was American Ambassador to Russia until the Bolshevik revolution, predicted at the White House today that the Soviet Government at Moscow would go to pieces in six months.

Mr. Francis made the prediction with confidence born of his knowledge of conditions in Russia. He said that when the Russian people understood, through the medium of Secretary Colby's note of last Tuesday, that there was no intention on the part of the United States Government to interfere with Russia's conduct of her own affairs, and that it favored a united Russia, the effect would be detrimental to Bolshevist rule.

Mr. Francis came to Washington at the request of Secretary Colby, whose personal guest he is. The purpose of his Washington visit is to give advice to the Secretary of State in regard to the Polish-Russian situation.

Mr. Francis is still nominally the American Ambassador to Russia, although he was never accredited to any of the present governments there. He said today that the policy outlined by Secretary Colby in his note of this week was similar to the policy that Mr. Francis had advocated all along, and he was satisfied that it would have a marked effect upon the Russian people. Only 10 per cent. of the Russians were Bolshevists, said Mr. Francis, and he expected the great majority of the anti-Bolshevist population to assert itself against the Lenin-Trotzky régime when it was understood that the Allies had no intention of interfering with the maintenance of Russian nationality.

During his call at the White House Mr. Francis did not see President Wilson, but it is supposed that out of the President's deep interest in the Polish-Russian situation there will be an interview between the President and the Ambassador before the latter leaves Washington.

Mr. Francis said today that the French were more quickly responsive in understanding the significance of events in Europe than we, mainly on account of their geographical proximity and their intimate concern over political moves likely to affect their welfare. For this reason he was inclined to believe that the French Government had reason to feel that the recognition of the Wrangel government was a move that would have a good effect against the Bolsheviki. In his opinion it was a step in the direction of uniting the vast majority of the Russian people in opposition to Soviet rule.

Advices here lead military officers to believe that the Bolsheviki will soon launch an attack upon Rumania, with the object of regaining the old Russian province of Bessarabia, which the Rumanians have occupied. The Rumanian Government has sent a warning to the Moscow Government to withdraw its forces from Rumanian territory, and this warning is supposed to apply to Bessarabia, where the Bolsheviki have some troops.

FRENCH FLEET COWS ODESSA BOLSHEVIKI

Forces Release of Captive Ships by Threat to Destroy the City.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12.—Bolsheviki at Odessa seized the French steamers Batavia and Eigrette, which landed Russian prisoners there from France, and refused to release them until the French battleship Edgard Quinet, with three destroyers, was rushed from Constantinople and threatened to raze the city unless the steamers were released, it was learned here today.

Four steamers under French and inter-allied flags arrived at Odessa with repatriated Russian prisoners, these advices stated. Two of the ships were permitted to leave, but the others were boarded by Bolshevist Commissars. The Bolsheviki declared that Moscow had decided to hold the ships, although an agreement had been made, it was said, that this would not be done. The Commissars overlooked a wireless set on board until an S O S message had been sent to Constantinople.

The reports received here stated that a mutiny had occurred on one of the ships before it reached Odessa, several of the mutineers having been killed when Moroccan guards made a bayonet charge.

GIVES BRITISH TERMS OFFERED TO RUSSIA

Moscow Report Says They Will be Basis of Further Peace Negotiations.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Conditions which Great Britain has stipulated as a basis for recognition of the Russian Soviet Government are given in a Moscow dispatch received here.

Cessation of hostilities is said to be the first condition, while the others are repatriation of prisoners, an understanding concerning reparation for damages to property of private citizens and acceptance by Great Britain of the Russian conditions concerning resumption of commercial relations between the two countries.

M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, adds the dispatch, has advised Leo Kameneff at London that the Moscow Government considers these conditions as the basis for peace pourparlers between Russia and Great Britain.

MAKE TREATY FOR REVOLT.

Agreement Between Turkish Rebels and Soviet Reported Signed.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 10.—Coöperation between the Turkish Nationalists and Soviet Russia in encouraging revolutions in India, Egypt, Algeria, Morocco and Tunis has been determined upon and subscribed to in a treaty between the two nations, according to Anatolian newspapers.

The treaty was signed in Trebizond by Hamid Bey and was framed there for the Kemalist. Soviet Russia officially recognizes the independence and integrity of the Ottoman Empire, the report states.

Russia, the paper says, also promises to aid Turkey in the renunciation of foreign concessions and capitulations, property of foreigners to be turned over to the proletariat.

The Russians also concede unconditional independence to all Moslems in Russian territory, including the Caucasus.

By the alleged treaty the Turks promise to adopt Soviet principles in their Government. The evacuation of Nakhitchevan by the Armenians is reported to have been made voluntarily following receipt of an ultimatum from the Soviets at Azerbeijan.

Allied intelligence reports indicate that the Kemalist offensive will probably result in a fiasco, as Nationalist troops are deserting and turning upon their former commanders, as happened in Thrace.

Anti-Red Russians here express satisfaction with the Polish reverse, saying Russia must work out its own solution of the Bolshevist problem. Allied support of General Wrangel, whom they characterize as a rallying point for counter revolutionists, they say will liberate Russia from the Red terror.

PEACE DELEGATES WILL MEET TODAY

Polish Commissioners to Set Out This Morning for the Minsk Conference.

MORE CONFIDENCE FELT

Foreign Minister Says Poland Will Not Capitulate and Cannot Surrender Arms.

WARSAW, Aug. 12 (Associated Press)—Polish commissioners, with authority to negotiate a preliminary treaty of peace, expect to leave this city early on Saturday morning to meet the Russian Soviet delegates somewhere on the road between Warsaw and Brest-Litovsk, the Foreign Office announced today. The meeting, it was said, will take place between 5 and 7 o'clock on Saturday evening.

American and British newspaper correspondents will be permitted to accompany the Polish delegates, the Bolshevist authorities having expressed a desire that they be present.

After meeting the Soviet delegates on the road the Polish commissioners will probably be taken to Minsk, where the formal peace conference is expected to take place.

The two-man mission that went to the front to inform the Bolsheviki that Poland wished to send peace delegates returned here today and there is a more confident feeling in the city than has been prevalent during the last fortnight.

High officials said they considered the fall of the city now out of the question.

Poland earnestly desires peace, but could not accept armistice terms involving disarmament in any form, Prince Sapieha declared to the correspondent yesterday.

"Poland is not going to capitulate," said the Foreign Minister. "We will fight to the last man rather than that. There is no question of disarmament. If we are disarmed with the Soviet troops forty miles from Warsaw it would be like throwing up our hands."

Responsibility for continuance of the fighting in Poland was today placed upon the Russian Soviet Government by Prince Eugene Sapieha, Polish Foreign Minister, in a telegram sent to Sir Eric Drummond, General Secretary of the League of Nations. The Foreign Minister's telegram was as follows:

"As a member of the League of Nations, the Polish Government thinks it is its duty officially to inform the League that the attitude of the Russian Soviet Government has made a cessation of hostilities impossible. This is true, notwithstanding the fact that the Polish Government's declaration to the Supreme Council on July 6 emphasized its desire for peace, and notwithstanding reiterated efforts to obtain an armistice and a just and lasting treaty.

"Under tortuous pretexts, the Soviet Government has up to the present refused to enter peace negotiations or fix armistice conditions. Nevertheless, the Polish Government has not and will not cease to do everything possible to conclude an honorable peace, but declines all responsibility for prolongation of the war, which entirely falls on the Soviet Government."

Roman T. Dmowski, organized of the Polish Democratic Party, who resigned recently as a member of the Council of National Defense and proceeded to Posen, is quoted as saying at a public meeting that the army needed not only to repulse the enemy but to restore order in Poland. The radical newspapers are accusing Dmowski of scheming against the Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Polish delegation appointed to meet Bolshevist envoys at Minsk to discuss "the armistice and preliminary peace negotiations" will cross the front line tomorrow moring en route to the meeting place, an official cable message to the Polish Legation today said.

The Polish representatives will include Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs Dombski, Chairman; Under Secretary Wroblewski, a committee from the Diet and a military staff.

Announcement of these plans followed the return to Warsaw of the Parliamentary Committee which conducted direct negotiations with the Bolshevist officials.

LITVINOFF TALKS OF NEW 'GUARANTEES'

Bolshevist Agent Denounces the French Move—Hopes for Good Relations with Us.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Maxim Litvinoff, Assistant Foreign Minister in the Russian Bolshevist Government, does not doubt that friendly relations between the Russian Government and the United States will exist within the next twelve months. He made this known today during an interview in which he touched on France's recognition of General Wrangel and the Russo-Polish situation.

After accusing the Poles of wasting three weeks "in a hide-and-seek game over an armistice meeting, in which they were probably influenced by France," M. Litvinoff said:

"We are glad France has thrown off her mask by recognizing Wrangel, who is more reactionary and unscrupulous than Kolchak and Denikin. France is only anxious to safeguard her loan, and like a hazardous gambler who has lost his fortune, she is staking her honor and very life in the hope of winning it back.

"Whatever France may do and whatever the United States may say, I am quite certain that a year hence most friendly relations will exist between Russia, Great Britain, Germany and the United States, these countries forming the true kernel of the real League of Nations. While France, if she retains her present leaders, will find herself isolated and forsaken.

"The latest French move has freed us of all our official and semi-official promises with regard to old Russia's debt to France. I am also afraid the French move may compel Russia to revise her conditions of peace to Poland and demand additional guarantees."

ANTI-TYPHUS MATERIAL SEIZED BY BOLSHEVIKI

Head of American Expedition Fears Worst Epimedic Will Sweep Poland.

WARSAW, Aug. 12.—All of the quarantine material of the Poles and the American typhus expedition, which has been co-operating with the Polish workers, is in the hands of the Bolsheviki. It is said that all possibility of protection against the typhus epidemic from Russia has been wiped out.

Refugees are flocking west of the Vistula en route to Western Poland, some of them in serious condition. The authorities admit that all efforts to combat the disease have been shattered.

Posen, where the new western army is being organized, is reported crowded by refugees to such an extent that the municipality has prohibited the entrance of any more into the city.

Colonel Harry Gilchrist, commanding the American typhus expedition, said today he expected that Poland would experience the worst typhus epidemic in the history of the disease because of the thousands of refugees who are crossing the Vistula from the East.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—American relief workers will continue to care for Polish children they have been assisting for some time, even if through the fortunes of war these children fall into the hands of the Russian Bolsheviki.

The relief administration has in Poland 20,000 tons of supplies, worth approximately $10,000,000. The greater part of these has been moved to warehouses between Warsaw and the German frontier.

The continuation of the American relief work, it was explained, will be contingent upon the giving by the Bolsheviki of satisfactory guarantees to the relief workers.

ACCUSES BOLSHEVIKI OF SAVAGERY TO POLES

Red Cross Nurse Tells of Mutilation of the Dead and Torturing Captured Women.

Miss Mary Corwin Lane, who until she left for England in 1916 to volunteer her services as a nurse in the war was a teacher in the Flushing Hospital, returned home yesterday. Since April, 1919, Miss Lane has been attached as a Red Cross nurse in Poland.

"The Bolshevist advance was characterized by more atrocities and savagery than even the great war," declared Miss Lane. "I have seen the bodies of cavalry officers without eyes, ears and hands. The Bolsheviki had gouged their eyes out. In some cases strips of flesh were cut from the legs to imitate the stripes of their uniforms.

"Nurses of the Polish Red Cross captured were tortured or killed. A Bolshevist cavalry patrol penetrating the lines some distance massacred wounded Polish soldiers in a hospital. I have seen these bodies between Kiev and Warsaw. No quarter is given to prisoners by the Reds.

"When we were leaving Poland the Bolshevist invasion was on and 240 demobolized Polish troops who were recruited in America were being sent home. These men had already passed quarantine and were prepared to sail the following day. When they saw the plight of the country they decided to reenlist.

"The evacuation of Eastern Poland before the Bolshevist advance was being carried out in perfect order and as thoroughly as Poland's limited means of transportation permitted. While the possibility of the advance of the Red troops to the Vistula was considered when we left Poland on July 26, few people had left Warsaw."

Word has just been received at Y. M. C. A. headquarters here of the killing of Captain Ucziwek, one of its secretaries with the Polish Army, by a Bolshevist spy. Captain Bernard B. Koss, another secretary, brought the story of his death. While evacuating supplies from Minsk before the Red forces Captain Ucziwek and two Polish privates were in charge of a truck. A man in the uniform of a Polish lieutenant joined them. At the night camp, Baranowice, they ate together and rolled up in blankets for sleep. While they slept the stranger arose and fired a shot into Captain Ucziwek's head, killing him instantly, also shooting one of the privates.

WARSAW'S DESPAIR TOLD BY DIPLOMAT

People Blame Pilsudski One Moment and Britain the Next for Their Plight.

GREAT ARMY OF REFUGEES

Red Troops Have Strong Cavalry Forces—Hundreds of Germans with Them, He Says.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 12.—In Swiss Government circles the present European situation is considered as grave as that in August, 1914. Refugees from Poland are beginning to arrive in Switzerland.

A neutral diplomat just arrived from Warsaw, the most exposed suburb of which already had been evacuated when he left, describes the situation there as desperate. The roads north of Warsaw are filled with a constant stream of hundreds of thousands of fugitives, chiefly women and children, many of whom fall by the wayside from exhaustion. They take as much household goods possible with them and are going they don't know where.

For some days Bolshevist airplanes have been flying over Warsaw, dropping proclamations full of enticing promises to Polish people and also photographing the city. The airplanes fly so low that the occupants can easily be distinguished. Staffs of the Red Cross missions, legations and consulates were leaving Warsaw and all the women had been sent away.

The Warsaw population is in a frenzy, exclaiming one moment that Pilsudski has sold them to the Russians, and the next moment that the British have betrayed them. Every one is blamed, in short, except the Poles themselves.

"No doubt," said this diplomat, who is very friendly to the British and Americans, "the attitude of the British War Minister Churchill and of a section of the London press did make the Poles think Britain meant to send an army to Poland, and the large sums lent last year by England to Poland further encouraged the Poles in this belief.

"It is certain," added the diplomat, "that Poland became overbearing and that Pilsudski considered himself a second Napoleon, which he is not. His march on Kiev was his undoing. Poland has much to learn, in particular to keep on good terms with her neighbors and treat justly the minority races living within her borders.

"What is fully realized in Europe, although apparently not always in Great Britain or the United States, is that the Bolshevist occupation of Poland and the Bolshevist successes in fact will mean the unsettlement and probably a rising throughout Asia. Should an armistice and peace come about, the Bolsheviki would cease to be considered above the law and superhuman beings, as they are now considered by many classes in Europe, and would be less dangerous and lose much of their present power of seduction.

"The military strength of the Bolsheviki lies mainly in their cavalry, though where they got so many horses no one knows. They certainly have hundreds of capable German officers helping them. They also have good artillery and no lack of machine guns.

"The Bolshevist leaders have no faith in the mediation of England, and the only hope for Poland and world peace is for the United States to offer mediation, which the Bolsheviki would gladly accept."

The National Zeitung of Basle says:

"The next few weeks will decide whether the World War was merely the first act of an incomparably greater drama. The situation is strained to the breaking point, but we may still hope."

FINDS RUSSIAN STARVATION.

Observer Says the People Curse the Reds, but Obey.

TERIJOKI, Finland, Aug. 11 (Associated Press).—Development of the Soviet Government in Russia has been such that today the vast Russian territory from the Pacific to the Baltic is divided into three distinct sections in the attitude of the people toward Bolshevism.

In a recent 4,000-mile trip across the entire country, all the way from Vladivostok to the Finnish border, the Associated Press correspondent observed that Soviet support diminishes with increasing distance from the capital at Moscow, where the supreme fiats for ironclad militarism are issued.

In the remote Eastern section of Siberia the Bolsheviki admit failure to establish their system and are seeking to create a buffer State known as "the Far Eastern Republic."

Siberia proper, from Irkutsk to the Urals, where eight months ago Bolshevism was welcome as a relief from the Kolchak regimé, is ready for another change to anything which will bring economic betterment.

Proceeding farther westward the traveler finds European Russia like a great mobilized army, in starvation circumstances and cursing the Reds, yet executing their orders passively.

The apportionment of food, as well as the relative proximity to military headquarters, apparently is a vital factor in maintaining Soviet support. Everywhere through Siberia one hears stories that the peasants are refusing to plant their fields or raise stock because of repeated requisitions. Throughout the Central part of this Eastern region, where the military opposition has been largely eliminated, efforts are being made to establish card systems for the exchange of manufactured goods in return for agricultural products.

From Samara, on the Volga, to Moscow the traveler from Siberia passes through hundreds of miles of wheat fields which, at the height of the harvest late in July, were filled with countless aged peasants, women and children.

PARIS PRAYERS FOR POLAND.

Cardinal Asks Special Petitions in All Churches Tomorrow.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Prayers for Poland will be said in all Catholic churches in the archdiocese of Paris on Sunday, Assumption Day, in accordance with the orders of Cardinal Amette as contained in a pastoral letter sent to all parish priests today.

"Poland is in danger," says the letter. "We ask for the salvation of Poland, always a stanch friend of the Church of France."

VENIZELOS DECLARED NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Bullet Extracted from Greek Premier's Shoulder—Is Expected to Leave Hospital Soon.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Premier Venizelos of Greece, who was wounded here yesterday when fired upon by two young Greeks, spent a good night in the hospital to which he was taken and is in no danger, it was announced by physicians today. The bullet which lodged in his left shoulder was extracted this morning.

Drs. Desmarest and Ledoux-Lebard, who are attending the Premier, issued the following bulletin:

"A ball which was broken into four parts and lodged in the muscles of the rear wall of the armpit has been extracted this morning under the X-ray.

"The condition of Premier Venizelos is very satisfactory, but absolute rest is necessary."

It is expected that, if no suppuration takes place, the Premier will be able to leave the hospital in about three days.

Georges Thyriakis and Apostolos Iserppis, the assailants of Premier Venizelos, acted through purely personal motives, according to a statement issued at the Greek Legation. After the fall of former King Constantine, they were removed from the Greek Army and Greek Navy by the Venizelos Government because of their open pro-German sentiments, it is said.

Police officials have searched the men's rooms and found documents in Greek, German and French, which will be examined by the Magistrate. As a special precaution, Premier Venizelos went to the station an hour before his train was to start, and entered through the baggage room, but Iserppis learned of the arrangements casually from a Greek newspaper correspondent assigned to report the departure of the Premier.

UNRAVEL DOUBLE SUICIDE.

Maryland Tragedy Sprang from Girl's Admiration for Educated Man

Special to The New York Times.

EMMITSBURG, Md., Aug. 13.—An infatuation arising from her resemblance to his own daughter, whom he had not seen for years, and an insane jealousy prompted by fear of losing his new companion, are believed to have brought about the suicide pact between J. Ford Thompson, 52 years old, a wealthy scholar, archeologist and artist, and Miss Mary Anne Sneeringer, 16 years old, waitress in a local hotel, whose dead bodies were found near here yesterday.

Miss Sneeringer's beauty was often remarked by the tourists who visited the hotel kept by her aunt, Mrs. Anna M. Slagle.

Thompson, according to the story told by relatives of the dead girl, first saw her about a year ago. He told the girl of his estrangement from his wife, whom he left in Paris, and of his 14-year-old daughter. He had given her presents, saying that she resembled his daughter and that he was afraid of losing her, too.

The aftermath of the double suicide revealed that the middle aged scholar and man of the world had completely fascinated the young country girl, of romantic nature and desirous of an education. Miss Sneeringer, according to her aunt, worked at the hotel so that her four younger sisters might be educated. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sneeringer, who live at Waynesboro, Pa., were ill, it is said, and could not afford to send her to school.

AMERICAN BUSINESS CANVASSING EUROPE

Agents of Financial and Commercial Houses Flocking to London.

HUNTING FOR INFORMATION

They Go to the Continent and as Far as Czechoslovakia Laying Their Plans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The keen interest which is being taken by American financial and commercial houses in England and Europe in general as a field for exports is shown by the marked influx there has been in the past fortnight of business men. Most of them, THE NEW YORK TIMES learns, are interested rather in studying conditions than in immediate sales, and a considerable number of them come from the investigation departments of large concerns.

They arrive armed with questionnaires concerning conditions over here, which they present to such institutions as the American Chamber of Commerce for answer, and they are particularly anxious to be posted on such matters as the labor situation, the income tax, excess profits and the duty.

A great many of them go out to the Continent and Czechoslovakia is attracting much American attention just now. Germany also causes many inquiries and business men are asking continually about the British system for handling commercial accounts between the two countries and the position American exports is likely to be in on account of the inconvenience of the technical state of war with Germany.

On the other hand, its July figures show a distinct drop in British exports to America as compared with June, and this is considered one of the causes contributing to the recent slump in the exchange.

Soviet Treaty with Armenia Reported

CHESTERTON DECRIES FLURRY OVER MANNIX

British Novelist Thinks His Government Acted Foolishly in What He Calls a Gigantic Farce.

Copyright, 1920, by Cross Atlantic Newspaper Service.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—G. K. Chesterton has written the following comment on "the Mannix affair":

"The whole Mannix affair is a gigantic farce in which the British Government has played an extraordinary part. What surprises me most is that the newspapers, except the labor papers, have applauded and backed the Government's amazing example.

"Anyhow, why worry about Archbishop Mannix? What harm is one man going to do in Ireland? Denounce the British Government to a million Irishmen? Why, those million Irishmen are spending all their time denouncing the British Government to the rest of the world.

"The only point that could be raised is against the Archbishop's moral theories. How could he stand in the pulpit and plead in support of murder and cold-blooded assassination?

"Meanwhile the British Government has acted a sort of miracle play to the intense amusement of the rest of the world, playing Herod to Mannix's John the Baptist. Such a thing could never have happened in the eighteenth century, when, had Mannix lived, he might easily have been hanged or assassinated or something equally horrible happened to him, which would never have been advertised.

"Most of the Irish Roman Catholics take little interest in the political opinions of their priests; therefore let Mannix alone. His cordial reception in America was due partly to the large number of Irish-Americans, whose welcome was naturally vociferous, and partly because the average American is brought up to believe that England is a tyrant. This idea needs removing to foster the Anglo-American brotherhood.

"There are many reasons why there should be such a brotherhood. Chief among them is the fact that America and England understand liberty in the same way. Prussia doesn't and never will. But all talk of Anglo-American unity being the chief tie between the countries is twaddle.

"It will take time to make America believe that England is not a tyrant, but it can be done, though history has nasty things against England, and history is strengthened by the tyrannical treatment of Archbishop Mannix."

Poles having defended the city with more determination than any position since the retreat began from the Beresina.

Soviet forces are creeping along the Prussian frontier and gradually working their way westward toward the Vistula River. The Soviet armies are also making an effort to reach the river just west of Warsaw from Ciechanov. The advance along the northern frontier has suggested to observers that the Bolsheviki plan to strike the Vistula near Vlopslavek and other points.

Observers believe the Bolsheviki plan to bring up artillery to the battle line in the event they fail to cross the Vistula in force.

State of Seige in Warsaw.

The Soviet forces having reached a point twenty-five miles from Warsaw, a state of siege has been declared here by the Military Governor. Civilians are not permitted on the streets after 10 o'clock at night and cafés must close at 9 o'clock.

Warsaw hummed last night with military activity, but only soldiers and officers were allowed in the streets. Preparations for the defense of Warsaw were being discussed. The terms and until late in the war offices and the Foreign Office, where affairs of state were being discussed. The terms and conditions to be carried by the Polish delegates who will meet the Soviet representatives on Saturday to discuss peace preliminaries were also being drafted.

Soviet Reports More Gain.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The capture of Mlawa and Pultusk and the occupation of Siedlce are announced by the Russian Soviet military headquarters in today's official statement. The communiqué says:

"We captured Mlawa Aug. 10. We have occupied Pultusk. We occupied Siedlce Aug. 10. We have occupied a number of points eight miles east of Lukoff (southeast of Siedlce).

"In the Cholm region we crossed the Bug and debouched on the high road between Wlodawa and Cholm and occupied a line of villages north of Cholm.

"In the region of Vladimir-Volynsky (east of the Bug near the Galician border) we occupied Grubiesgoff and Kryloff.

"Along the river Dniester and the shores of the Black Sea there is no change in the situation."

Poles Shortening Their Front.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Latest official information concerning the Polish situation was summarized in the following bulletin issued by the State Department today:

"The Polish troops operating east and north of Warsaw have drawn in their advance lines so as to form a more compact defense within a shortening radius from the capital. They had withdrawn on Aug. 10 from the town of Siedlce, which is approximately sixty miles east of Warsaw. In the direction of Modlin, westward from the Wkra River, the military activities between the Polish forces and their Bolshevist enemy have not been made known at Warsaw. There was no news of importance from that section of the fighting area when the American Legation filed its report to the Department of State on Tuesday.

"There is a disposition in Warsaw to believe that the Bolsheviki are planning to break communication between the Polish capital and the country to the west by crossing the Vistula River and cutting the railway lines west of the city."

IRELAND'S PROBLEMS SEEN AT CLOSE RANGE

movements. There is neither general poverty nor dire oppression. Losses of life in the late war were not suffered to any ruinous extent by the element now rebelling. On the other hand, war profits, mainly drawn from agriculture, were large.

At the time of the open rebellion at Easter, 1916, which was the genesis of the present big movement, none of those conditions seemed to exist which ordinarily arouse passions and invite rebellion. The Home Rule act had been passed and was on the statute books, to be put into effect after the war. Response to the call for voluntary enlistment had been meagre, popular sentiment was largely pro-German, and conscription was impossible. Britain was facing almost insuperable difficulties in the World War. There was the old, undying hatred of her, but it was latent.

How Rebel Calculations Succeeded.

I found in Ireland an almost universal opinion that the organizers of the present movement saw in these conditions the long-awaited opportunity to strike for Irish freedom and went deliberately to work to produce the necessary ferment throughout the country. What was lacking was some fresh action on the part of the British Government that would set aflame the smoldering antagonism.

This was a new method of calculated planning in Irish rebellions. Plans were made carefully and cold-bloodedly and systematically carried out. The object was to draw the Government, never tactful nor wise in handling Ireland, and now sorely perplexed by its war difficulties, into some stupid blundering which, to the Irish, would wear the aspect of British tyranny and thus rouse the people to action.

If, as is believed, this was the purpose for which the rebellion of 1916 was launched, it succeeded almost beyond their expectations. It is undoubtedly true that those who engaged in that rebellion were boys and young men brought in from the country to Dublin, who had not the slightest idea up to the last moment of what they had come for. It seems clear that there was no notion in the minds of the leaders of immediate success of the rebellion as such, but they got what they wanted.

A series of blunders by the deeply preoccupied Government in London supplied the needed issue of fresh tyranny, and from that time on the Republican movement has grown in extent and intensity.

Like methods have been pursued consistently ever since. Power has been concentrated in the hands of a few men, and nobody can be certain who these men are. Invisibility is strictly maintained. Every move bears the stamp of cold calculation and well considered planning. At last Irish politics is controlled by an organisation on the general lines of Tammany Hall.

Dare Not Mention Names.

I noticed in Dublin that no one dared to mention names in connection with this omnipotent secret power. Everybody knows and discusses the nominal heads like De Valera, the figurehead "President," and Arthur Griffith, "Vice President and acting President." It is known that there is a Dail Eireann, who the members are of this Irish Parliament, that they have their secret meetings, and that there is an active going Ministry.

Everybody, regardless of religion and politics, lives in a state of mental servitude so far as the program of killing is concerned. Men are dragged from street cars in the centre of Dublin and shot to death. No passenger on the car, nobody in the crowded street, will move a hand to interfere. Not one will go near the victim or inform the police or give testimony in court. All elemental instincts are paralyzed by the certainty of punishment that will be visited upon any act that might compromise the secrecy and efficiency of the program now being put into effect.

Executives of the organization give an order; it reaches those who are to carry it out through channels far removed from the source, and the thing desired is done with mechanical sureness.

Nothing succeeds like success. What is ordinarily called moral sense is in a state of stupefaction and there is little audible protest.

Members of the constabulary and others are marked for destruction in accordance to their value to the Government and with an eye to "getting the nerve" of the whole body of the police and bringing home everywhere a realization that resistance means sure and swift punishment.

How Assassination Is Defended.

The constabulary are nearly all Catholics, but that makes it worse for them because they are regarded as traitors. "We are at war for our country," runs the argument, "and traitors must be disposed of without mercy."

The deadly efficiency with which the program is executed, with hardly a single setback from the British Government, has had the effect reckoned upon by the leaders of the movement. There is a temporary suspension of moral forces which usually check such methods.

Nobody will or can specifically defend shooting in the back, but one hears in highly respectable quarters that while the methods are violent and brutal the object is patriotic. This is war, and war is always hell, they say.

And so the movement has progressed and thrived from week to week. It is stronger now than ever. Neutrals are constantly being drawn into the Sinn Fein ranks and many originally antagonistic are becoming neutral.

The Catholic hierarchy and priests, who were at first aghast at the violence, are less and less outspoken in condemning it, and when they do speak their condemnation is more general and equivocal.

I have roughly outlined the state to which Ireland has been brought, but before a balanced judgment can be formed on the situation there are other matters to be considered. What shall be said of the British Government, which has permitted things to go from bad to worse? If one searches for excuses there are plenty of them. Lloyd George's political difficulties at home are of a kind to enfeeble him in dealing with Irish conditions. If he adopted strong measures, it may be doubtful whether he could hold together the parliamentary coalition upon which he depends for his official existence. There are so many and such conflicting opinions on Irish settlement that any Home Rule bill seems sure to be reduced to impotence by discussion and compromise.

Suppression by force is a policy repugnant to the Prime Minister's instincts, as it is to the instincts of the general British public. And so there has been the policy of drifting. If there had been nothing else to do but handle Ireland, Downing Street would probably have handled it. But probably no Prime Minister in history has ever been confronted at one time with so many dangers and perplexities. It is not alone in Ireland that the British Empire is threatened. It is threatened in the Near East and India. There are signs of conflict and difference of opinion and interest between Britain and its closest ally, France. There is the question involving inevitable differences of how to bring the war to an end and set Europe again on the path of industry and prosperity, and the chief responsibility for this solution lies with the British Prime Minister.

These are but the chief burdens which rest upon the shoulders of the man who has been carrying greater responsibilities for a longer time than any other Government head. For four years there has not been a single moment when a serious mistake by him might not have meant disaster and ruin to his own country and to the world. But the fact remains that the Irish situation has been neglected and mishandled and opportunities for settlement wasted. Lloyd George has recently, in the labor situation presented to him as a part of the Irish quesaion, boldly asserted the character in which he has in so many other things shown in the last four years that he is at home and can be strong. From this starting point he may find his way to the solution of the present problems in Ireland.

This is the first of a series of articles by Mr. Grasty on Ireland. The second will be published tomorrow and others on Monday and Tuesday.

French Officials Tell of Rapid Negotiations Going On Near the Border.

German Radicals and Reactionaries Are Working Together Against Poland.

SILESIA PLOTS EXPOSED

German System for Propaganda and Military Action Against Poles Shown in Document.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Negotiations are in progress between the Bolsheviki and Germany which involve German recognition of the Soviet republic politically and the Soviet guarantees to do its utmost to bring the Treaty of Versailles to naught. This was the sensational announcement made by the French Foreign Office today. Officials here declare that the German Independent Socialists are responsible for part of the facts on which this statement is based.

According to one of their leaders, Herr Breitscheid, von Simons told him in conversation that the Germans would give the Soviet political recognition if it could be done without infringing the Treaty of Versailles—presumably in a manner at which the Allies would take umbrage—or arousing allied suspicions, and that the Soviets in return would refuse to accept the Treaty and would endeavor to get different conditions made regarding certain assignments of former Genman territory.

The French add that pourparlers between Germany and the Bolsheviki have been conducted by a Soviet envoy to Berlin, Victor Kopp, that von Simons has been in constant communication with Moscow the last week, and finally that two Bolshevist special delegates arrived in Berlin yesterday to conduct the deal to a finish.

Nor is this all. The French are grievously disquieted by the conduct of the German militaristic party, which for its own purposes appears for the moment to be playing the game of the Bolsheviki. I have referred to the German militarist plots in East Prussia and Upper Silesia in a previous dispatch. There follows below a summary of documents and proofs on the subject in the hands of the Allies.

Conference at Grajevo.

Meanwhile the French state that the notorious Red leader, Dr. Kaufenberg of Hamburg, has passed from East Prussia to Grajevo, in the section of Poland occupied by the Bolsheviki, accompanied by two persons, who are supposed to be high officers of the German General Staff. They are understood to be trying to arrange material aid to the Bolsheviki against the Poles from East Prussia in order that the Red army may wipe the hated "Polen korridor" off the map as soon as possible.

Simultaneously German officers in the Bolshevist army are reported to have crossed into East Prussia and to be carrying on similar negotiations at the towns of Ortensburg and Johannisburg.

A strong Poland as a counterpoise in the East against Germany is the keystone of the French policy in Eastern Europe. Deserted by England and with America aloof the anti-Polish activities of East Prussian and Silesian militarists running parallel to the advance of the Bolsheviki are enough to stiffen France into action, even if it involves a "divergence" from England.

The character and extent of the anti-Polish and reactionary movement organized by the German militarists in Upper Silesia are clearly established by documents—secret orders, letters, reports, maps, &c.—that have fallen into allied hands. These documents show, first, the existence of a conspiracy on a centralized and military basis to retain Upper Silesia by force. Second, that the scheme has the tacit and in some cases active official support of Berlin. Third, that all efforts are made to avoid rousing the suspicion of the allied commissions, of the Poles or even of Germans who are unsympathetic to the movement. Fourth, that forces at the disposal of the conspirators consist of regular military groups camouflaged under various innocent sounding names. Fifth, the existence of stocks of concealed arms and munitions. Sixth, the existence of elaborate military plans and preparations and a system of mobilization and distribution of arms. Seventh, the creation of a vigorous anti-Polish and anti-Ally propaganda and espionage system.

Article 88 of the treaty of Versailles concerning the status of the prebiscite zone of Upper Silesia lays down that "all military or semi-military societies formed in said zone by the inhabitants of this region shall be immediately dissolved. Members of these societies not domiciled in said zone must evacuate it."

Nothing could reveal the intentions and aims of the German militarists in Upper Silesia more effectively than the fact that such societies have not only not been dissolved but augmented steadily in number and influence. Far from endeavoring to dissolve them, the German authorities have fostered their growth and given them all possible support.

The most important of these organizations are, first, the Free Association for Upper Silesian Defense. The second is the Associated Societies of Patriotic Upper Silesians. The third is the Upper Silesian Struggle Association.

The purpose of all these three is the formation of bands or gangs, comparatively small in number, furnished with arms, to terrorize the Polish population and where possible the allied representatives. On several occasions they have caused riots and bloodshed, notably on May 3, the Polish national holiday, when Polish processions were attacked an dispersed.

There are also the Anti-Strike Technicians and the Sicherheits-Polizei. Both of these bodies are nominally directed again labor troubles, but, as in the rest of Germany, they have become an instrument of military conspiracy. A sixth association is made up of former war prisoners. The seventh is the Army Demobilization Department, which acts in co-operation here as in East Prussia with the league for settling ex-soldiers on land. The machinery of the demobilization depots is "double actioned." Names of the men demobilized and the localities where they are settled are carefully noted and when the time comes the whole machine goes into reverse and acts as a mobilization bureau, the permanent staffs of the depots calling up and forming units according to prearranged plans.

A Guiding Hand for All.

The threads of all these various organizations are joined in a central body called the Silesian League, whose headquarters are at 24 Wilhelmstrasse, Breslau. Its President is a prominent reactionary, Herr Lukaschek, Prefect of Rybnik, and its representatives inspire and control the activities of the local organizations throughout the disputed area. Its importance may be judged from the fact that at the headquarters meeting on April 13 there were present representatives of the German Government's Foreign Ministry, Ministry of the Interior, the Reich Commission for Public Order, as well as Prince Trachenberg, the German Plenipotentiary for Upper Silesia, and delegates of other German public bodies.

The report of the proceedings of this meeting shows that subjects under discussion included pro-German propaganda, open and secret, the possibilities of playing the English and Italian commissions against the French, the desirability of putting forward proposals for Silesian autonomy, which though unwelcome to German sentiment caused the Poles even greater embarrassment; the necessity for the creation of a central office in Berlin to act as a liason office between the various Ministries and obtain funds, and whatever else was required for the furtherance to the German plans in Silesia.

Military Plans Worked Out.

Among the documents that have fallen into allied hands relative to the militarist conspiracy in Upper Silesia there are maps—of which fasimiles are before me—showing the organization of different "Kreise," or centres of volunter formations for various districts; a system of telegraph, road and rail communication between them for rapid mobilization, defensive lines of cannon and machine-gun emplacements already selected and points for strong posts, and the location of arms depots in various districts.

In this connection it is worth mention that in a depot described in a letter seized by the Allies "small" Germans had hidden 7,000 rifles, 400 automatic pistols, 4 minenwerfer and a quantity of grenades. Other letters refer to caches of arms in cellars of hospitals, "where the Poles will never think of looking," and recommend transfer by night in farm wagons, in order to avoid detection.

The list of incriminating letters, maps, reports, &c., collected by the Allies numbers over two score. Many are in cipher or conventional code, of which I have photographic facsimiles. The letters are in most cases signed "Friend," or by conventional names, such as Stock, Schultz, Bitta, &c. The same plan is adopted to designate various corps—Spielverein, Sterbekasse, Notwehr, &c.—as well as espionage centres, such as Wanderer, Pantaleon, Felicitas, &c.

Text of Two Letters.

I will quote two of the most interesting letters as examples. The first is written in code and is addressed to the "Command" at Breslau. It is dated Stettin, May 21, 1920, and signed "Zentralleitung."

"The Zentralleitung has learnt that the spirit of the Silesian comrades is not of the best. Especially the comrades from Breslau show a dangerous impatience so that there is risk of a serious check if these persons cannot moderate their zeal. There is still lots of work to be done. We consider it necessary to begin with the organization of troops for Upper Silesia. It is a question of 12,000 men with 72 cannon and 200 machine guns, who, joined to the Reichswehr forces in civilian dress already constituted in Upper Silesia, ought completely to root out Polish propaganda. Colonel Bauer—one of Ludendorff's chief henchmen—is named as their commander-in-chief and Major Trettau as his chief of staff. Headquarters will be established at Brieg, where detachments of airmen also will be stationed.

[Full arrangements have been made by conspirators for aviation and wireless stations.]

"Major Trettau will go to Upper Silesia in the second week of June to get into touch with the comrades and familiarize them with their duties, which will consist chiefly, as soon as the signal for attack has been given, in seizing thoroughly the railroads and post offices, then to protect the mines as well as to arrest all Polish leaders, indicated as such by our agents, and take them to Halle Prison. We expect there will be no individual or unauthorized action in any matter whatsoever, in order that all decisions may remain absolutely secret."

The letter bears a stamp with the Latin inscription: "For Emperor, freedom and Fatherland."

The second letter is addressed from Berlin to headquarters of the Fifth Army. It is addressed in cipher, dated May 17, and signed Hoffman—General von Hoffmann, well-known militarist reactionary who, with General von Luttwitz of Kapp "Putsch" fame, is known to have taken active part in the Silesian conspiracy. The letter runs:

"In accord with the central direction of the League of Upper Silesians faithful to the Reich, I have made the following disposition: (a) Regiment of riflemen of Reichswehr No. 16, Colonel Heck; (b) infantry regiment No. 11, Colonel De Marlowski, and (c) cavalry regiment No. 7, Colonel Thaer, should all hold themselves ready to march at any moment to enter Upper Silesia as soon as they receive orders. Arms necessary for the equipment of the volunteers should be furnished by the High Command of Glatch, which has been so instructed. (e) regiments of light artillary 2 and 4 will be moved to the frontier regions. The necessary munitions will be furnished by the High Command of Glatz Fortress. (f) Major Busze will form the troops already in Upper Silesia into bands and will hold them ready for an offensive against Upper Silesia. Among other duties they will have that of arresting all chiefs of the Polish movement and taking them to prison at Breslau. There also should be imprisoned all leaders of workers and workers' corporations, together with corporation officials. (g) It is an absolute duty for every comrade to give the central direction information regarding all dispositions made by the Poles as well as by the troops of the entente."

Other letters refer to transport of arms, bombs, &c.; explain the difficulties that occurred and how they are to be avoided, and insist on the utmost secrecy to escape detection by the Allies or the Poles. Others discuss the methods of propaganda, open and secret, against the Entente and against the Poles. Constantly there is an insistence on the danger of an offensive or provocation of action until the signal is given. There also is frequent mention of support from Berlin as "I intend to collaborate with all the old comrades of the Baltic army."

Strict orders are given to avoid rousing Entente suspicion. For instance, the chief of the demobilization service in Berlin enjoins that when allied control officers visit the depots military titles of officers and men should be omitted from demobilized lists, and as far as possible all persons at and around the depots should wear civilian costumes.

MORE LONDON GIRLS DRINK.

Woman Police Chief Thinks War Work Formed Habit.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—"A girl of 15 who appeared in the police court the other day confessed she sometimes went home drunk. Is this an isolated case or does it illustrate a common tendency?" was the question put today to Mrs. Stanley, chief of the offical women police. Her reply was:

My impression is that young people, in increasing numbers, are forming the habit of getting together in the evening and having a glass of port and a biscuit together. I think the habit began during the war among girls, particularly those who were working hard during the day and who had plenty of money to spend in the evening. Port and stout are the favorite drinks. I have never seen spirits taken by these young people."

An officer whose work for the Salvation army takes her into all sorts of places confirmed the opinion that drinking among young people is on the increase, especially among young girls.

HARDING ASKS PRESS TO LEAD IN MORALS

America Needs a Baptism in Righteousness, He Tells Delegation of Ohio Editors.

BELIEVES IN PARTY PAPERS

He Sees Great Lapse in Honesty Since the War, Which Must Be Combated.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 13.—A plea for the American press to lead the country back to the paths of old standards of honesty was made by Senator Harding this afternoon, addressing a delegation of Ohio Republican editors and publishers.

"America needs a baptism in righteousness and a new consecration in morality," he told today's front porch pilgrims, and emphasized his declaration by calling attention to the unprecedented losses security and bonding concerns have sustained through broken obligations and trusts betrayed.

The smaller peculations, he said, might be due to increased living expenses and stagnant salary scales, and instances of large thefts he ascribed as a "reflex of the moral degeneracy of war." But with needless expenditure and conscienceless robbery of the Government during the war, Senator Harding continued, it "is not surprising to find a reflex in offices and counting rooms."

The Senator showed the benefit of his three days of golf during the week. There was an alertness in his bearing that had been gradually lost during the three wearing weeks of conferences without exercise since his notification ceremonies.

Thinks Partisan Papers Best.

Senator Harding said in part:

"The passing years have wrought great changes in the newspaper business. The prolific inventors of printing machinery and other appliances have borne their share in it; the free rural delivery, the advance in education, bringing new multitudes of readers, have all had their influence in the developments and evolutions which have followed.

"The changes have been great, but I question whether they have all been in the nature of improvements. The old-time paper—going back to the last half of last century—was usually a real journal of opinion. It reflected the convictions as well as the opinions of its owner and editor, and it was a real molder of opinion in its influence upon its readers and the community it served.

"The editors were not always great writers, but they were generally patriots and honestly desirous to render service. And they were generally partisan and they preached party gospel and believed in it. Sometimes it seems to me that the transition from the party organ to the 'independent' newspaper, so called, has not been an unmixed blessing. The partisan newspaper, in its editorial expression, uttered the considered views of a large element of our citizenship, while the 'independent' paper is often the organ solely of its owner, or it is colorlessly neutral.

"There is a temptation today to blend shop talk with politics, because I know how inimately you are thinking of the problem of news print, the cost of which has added so excessively to the expense account of every newspaper. Men speak of immediate relief, but the problem is too big for that.

"Permanent and ample relief must come by going to the underlying causes. It is obvious that we must have a forest policy which shall make us self-reliant once more. Forest conservation is a necessary accompaniment to printing expansion, and a matter of common concern to all the people.

Urges Lead in Morals.

"But I want to turn your thoughts to a service in our columns. There is one service for the American press, not partisan, but patriotic, for which there is a call today such as we have never known before. America needs a baptism in righteousness and a new consecration in morality.

"It was stated the other day that a reflex of the war has been so revealed in broken obligations and betrayed trusts that the bonding companies are called upon to meet such losses that the whole schedule for fidelity policies must be rewritten. If my information is correct, the security companies have never been called upon to meet so many and such heavy losses in all the history of that business.

"Call it reaction if you like, we need the old standards of honesty, the lofty standards of fidelity. If I could call for but one distinction, I would like ours to be known as an honest people. We need the stamp of common, every-day honesty everywhere.

"If Governments and their diplomats in Europe had been honest, there would have been no war. If everybody concerned had been rigidly honest, peace might have followed the armistice within ninety days. If we could only be genuinely honest with one another, we could put an end to industrial and social unrest; and if we were only honest with God, we would become a moral and religious people again.

"I suppose some people will say I am 'looking backward.' But if we may look backward to clear our vision, we may look forward more confidently and lift our gaze above and beyond the sordid and selfish things and the baser side of life so horribly revealed when passions are aflame.

"Engineering is a scientific pursuit and a very accurate one. It has been my fortune to witness some railway surveys, and I never knew an engineer who did not turn his transit to his backsight to make sure of his line by which he was to move on.

"Something has been said lately about looking to the sunrise of tomorrow, not the skyline of the setting sun. Every hope in life is of tomorrow; we could not live yesterday again if we would. But the glory of ten thousand morrows was wrought in the wisdom gleaned on yesterday. Mariners and planters and harvesters all study the sky.

"No one agency can render a greater service in holding to the charted way than a conscientious and patriotic American press. But it must remain free, utterly free, along with freedom of speech, freedom of religious belief and the freedom of righteous pursuit; it must be honest, and it ever must be rejoicing in American nationality, which is our priceless possession."

Greets Old Editorial Friends.

Two hundred members of the Ohio Republican Editorial Association and Harding for President Newspaper Club came from all parts of the State to pay their respects to Senator Harding. It was like old times, the Senator remarked, as he greeted by name the editors whom he had met at similar gatherings when he was active in the affairs of The Marion Daily Star.

John Hopley, editor and publisher of The Telegraph, of Bucyrus, a town just north of Marion, introduced the Senator to the delegation. Shaken with palsy and leaning on his stick, his notes trembling in his hand, he was cheered whole heartedly by his associates as he addressed Senator Harding.

"Senator Harding," he said, "we are here today, your friends and colleagues, to tender you our sincerest and heartiest congratulations. We, who have known you so intimately for so many years, well know that in the exalted position you will be called upon to fill, you will be found equal to every emergency in the future, as you have been in the past.

"In 1896 some of those present here today, and the fathers of many others who are here present, visited another of Ohio's great sons, the beloved William McKinley, at Canton, and on that occasion my respected father, on behalf of the Republican editors of Ohio, tendered their congratulations and best wishes. A quarter of a century has passed and today that veteran editor's son, himself now almost a veteran, on behalf of his colleagues is here to wish you godspeed and success in the coming contest, and when November comes we will find, as we did in 1896, that Ohio has added another star to her Presidential constellation, and that new star will be our friend and colleague, Warren G. Harding."

Just returned from the home of William Jennings Bryan, Congressman Simeon D. Fess spoke to the editors at their luncheon in the Masonic Temple before they marched to the Harding front porch.

"I have just come from Lincoln, Nebraska," he said, "and can definitely state that the country is with Senator Harding. This is not only my judgment, but was conceded by one of the leading Democratic statesmen only yesterday in a conversation with me."

OUSTED SOCIALISTS WILL RUN SEPT. 16

Democrats and Republicans Arranging for Fusion Except in Brooklyn.

The five Socialists expelled from the New York Assembly last Spring will run again in the special election which Governor Smith has called for Sept. 16 to fill the vacancies before the opening of the special "housing" session of the Legislature on Sept. 20, it was announced yesterday at the Socialist headquarters following the announcement that the Republicans and Democrats had agreed upon fusion candidates to beat the Socialist candidates in their strongholds.

Julius Gerber, Secretary of the New York County Committee of the Socialist Party, said the Socialists were so much stronger in every district since the Assembly's action that the party was confident all five would be re-elected. Each of the ousted Socialists—Charles Solomon, August Claessens, Samuel Orr, Louis Waldman and Samuel De Witt—will take the stump in his district, it was said, and conduct a vigorous campaign.

Should the five Socialists be returned to the Assembly it is likely they will again be expelled. At least, that is the plan of the Republican State leaders, who are confident that another ouster resolution would be passed without the necessity of a new trial. Speaker Sweet, who was mainly responsible for charges being brought against the Socialists, will be in control of the Assembly during the special session.

It is said the Socialists already have moved to prevent a second possible expulsion by changing certain parts of their party constitution and propose to eliminate the requirement that Socialists elected to public office must refrain from voting for a military or naval appropriation and that they must give their blank resignation to the party.

Although fusion between the Republicans and Democrats in the Manhattan Socialist districts has already been arranged, and is contemplated in the Bronx districts, it is likely that no such action will be taken in Brooklyn. Charles Solomon, one of the five Socialists, is seeking re-election in the Twenty-third or Brownsville district. The Socialist vote in Brooklyn is strongest in this district and, with a divided opposition, a victory for Solomon is believed to be certain.

Republican County Leader Jacob A. Livingston said last night that the Governor, in his call for a special election, had overlooked the Nineteenth District in Brooklyn, where there is a vacancy caused by the death of Assemblyman James A. Damico, a Republican.

Judge Gustave Hartmen, Grand Master of the Independent Order of Brith Abraham and President of the Israel Orphan Asylum, sent a telegram to Governor Smith requesting him to change the date of the primary election this year, as it falls on a Jewish holiday, the day of the Jewish New Year.

PLUMB CAMPAIGN FAILS.

Unsuccessful So Far in Defeating Opponents of the Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Early primary returns indicate that the Plumb Plan League, working for tripartite control of the nation's railroads, has failed thus far in its threat to defeat candidates for the Senate and House who refused to support the proposed system of control of carriers.

First on the list to be fought by the league was Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, co-author with Representative Esch of Wisconsin of the Transportation act. Senator Cummins was nominated and Republican leaders here assert he will be re-elected by a big majority.

The Plumb Plan League sustained another defeat in the failure of Representative Thetus W. Sims of the Eighth Tennessee District, to win the Democratic nomination. As former Chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, Mr. Sims stood sponsor for the Plumb plan, and presented a minority report.

Labor leaders in the Third Virginia District have put forward one of their own number to enter the primary against Representative Andrew Jackson Montague, who opposed the Plumb plan. The district includes the city of Richmond. Late reports seem to show that Representative Montague will be renominated by a wide margin.

In other States, where the labor sentiment is more deeply intrenched, Plumb advocates claim they will be able to bring about the downfall of several members of the House Committee.

WOMEN TO FIGHT THOMPSON

Mrs. Dobyns Demands Republicans "Clean House" in Illinois.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—A powerful organization of women is to take its place in the fight throughout Illinois against the Republican machine headed by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, Chairman of the Illinois Republican Woman's Committee, will lead such a movement to be started in every Congressional District of the State, it was announced today.

Mrs. George W. Reinecke, former Executive Secretary of the Woman's Division of the Republican National Committee, it was announced, has left the national organization to join Mrs. Dobyns in this work.

"I am accepting the Chairmanship of this committee because I believe the women of Illinois should make their influence felt in this crisis of affairs in the Republican Party," Mrs. Dobyns declared.

"Thompsonism," she added, "is the greatest menace to the party and to good government that Illinois has ever seen."

Mayor Thompson, speaking at Waukegan tonight in behalf of his State slate of candidates, attacked Congressman William B. McKinley, candidate of the anti-Thompson forces for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, because "he voted to conscript the American boys into the hell of war."

He added that the Congressman "failed to vote to conscript the munitions and supplies required to protect and support them."

GAMBLERS INFEST BOHEMIA.

Carlsbad Report Says Vast Losses Cause Many Suicides.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 12, via Geneva, Aug. 13.—According to a Carlsbad report, gambling houses are infesting all the fashionable Bohemian watering resorts, especially Carlsbad and Marienbad. During the last few weeks, numerous foreigners are said to have committed suicide after losing enormous sums.

BRYAN FAVORS COX, COMPARING LEADERS

Suggests Both Parties Agree to Accept Treaty Referendum Result as Binding.

SAYS EACH BIDS FOR WETS

Declares Harding Would Go "Back to Normal," While Cox Wants to Go Forward.

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 13.—In an editorial in The Commoner, signed by William J. Bryan, made public today, Mr. Bryan compares the acceptance speeches of the candidates for President and generally concludes in favor of Governor Cox. He finds both Cox and Harding bidding for the support of the wets on the liquor question, and to avoid the country falling into the hands of the wets he is beginning a campaign to pledge candidates for Congress on the liquor question.

In his comparison Mr. Bryan says:

"The Presidential campaign of 1920 is formally opened. The acceptance speeches are before the country. The candidates have interpreted the platforms upon which they are running, each endeavoring to support his party's declaration as strongly as possible.

"Of the two speeches Senator Harding's is more sonorous, while Governor Cox's address is more direct and emphatic. Both favor woman suffrage and express the hope that one more State necessary for ratification will soon be secured. Senator Harding spends a little more time on the subject, but Governor Cox puts his views a little more forcibly.

"On the subject of universal military training both are silent, although either one might have made more votes with a single sentence on this subject than he could have made with the same number of words on any other subject.

Thinks Cox Will Please Labor More.

"On the labor question both speak strongly for the wage earner, but the tone of Governor Cox's utterances on this subject will probably please the wage earners more than the tone of the Senator's remarks; but neither of them spoke with sufficient definiteness in behalf of the general public. Both hope strikes may be avoided.

"On the subject of profiteering there is little difference between the positions taken by the two candidates, just as there is little difference in the positions taken in the two platforms. Governor Cox is a little more emphatic than Senator Harding in his denunciation of profiteering—just as the Democratic platform is a little more emphatic than the Republican platform—but neither presents a remedy. The public is expected to exercise faith, each partisan relying upon his own party to do the things necessary, although both parties have lacked either the intelligence to devise a sufficient remedy or the courage to announce it.

"On the railroad question there is a difference as to the treatment of the railroads during the war, but agreement as to treatment now. Senator Harding condemns the Government's management of railroads during the war, while Governor Cox defends the Government administration of railroads. But there is nothing in the language employed by either that would frighten the most greedy railway magnate or give confidence to one who is anxious that the rights of the patrons of the road shall be jealously guarded.

"On the subject of Mexico Governor Cox uses language calculated to please those who oppose intervention, while Senator Harding employs a larger number of words with less definiteness as to purpose. He says: 'It would be simple to have a plain and neighborly understanding with Mexico.' But he does not make plain or understandable the policy he has in mind.

Sees Little Difference in Liquor Views.

"On the liquor question there is little real difference between the positions taken by the two candidates. They are both strong on law enforcement. Senator Harding considers it 'unthinkable to evade the law,' while Governor Cox spurns the very idea that a President would violate his oath of office by failure to enforce the law. Governor Cox declares that 'it would seem quite unnecessary for any candidate for the Presidency to say that he does not intend to violate his oath of office,' adding, 'any one who is false to that oath is more unworthy than the law violator himself.'

"But while Senator Harding wants it distinctly understood that he will enforce the law while it is a law, he holds out to the wets an alluring hope, when he says, 'modification or repeal is the right of a free people whenever the deliberate and intelligent public sentiment demands.' Governor Cox is equally considerate of the sensibilities of the wets and injects a ray of hope into this part of his speech by suggesting that 'the legislative branch of Government is subject to the rule of the majority.'

"A little later on he throws in another morsel of encouragement, seemingly without any connection with the subjects that envelop it. He says 'morals cannot easily be produced by statute'—a beautiful and euphonious half truth which has probably been used more by the liquor traffic than any other one phrase. The friends of the saloon construe it to mean that prohibition is a failure. What they mean is that the wets should get busy and elect a wet Congress.

"There is one interesting contrast that can be drawn between the two speeches. Senator Harding wants to go 'back to normal'; Governor Cox wants to go forward. The former regards the war as a distriction and seeks to restore the conditions that previously existed. Governor Cox urges a forward movement to meet new conditions and responsibilities.

Questions on the Treaty.

"I have left for the last the subjects which both candidates put first, namely, the treaty. Both consider this the paramount issue, and both are hopeful. Each contends that the solution lies in the triumph of his party.

"Both are too well acquainted with politics to ignore the fact that neither party can hope to secure two-thirds of the Senate as a result of this election, and both of them are too well acquainted with partisan politics to have much confidence in either party accepting the result of the election as a mandate. Too many issues enter into the campaign to make the defeated party accept the election as a mandate on any particular issue.

"If we are to have a referendum, why not an agreement between the two parties to accept the result as binding? Will Senator Harding pledge the Republican Senators to accept and carry out the Democratic policy on the treaty question if Governor Cox wins? Will Governor Cox pledge the Democratic Senators to accept and carry out the Republican policy if Senator Harding wins?

"Otherwise what assurance have we that we will be any nearer to a settlement of the question after the election than now?

"What we really need is a change in the Constitution so that a majority can ratify. We have shamed our nation before the world; we have blocked the world's road to peace; we have suspended pressing domestic questions—all because we are not willing to trust the fundamental principle of democracy, namely, the right of the majority to rule. And now the campaign promises to result in a further deadlock."

Will Aid Congressional Candidates.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Representative W. A. Oldfield of Arkansas, has been selected to take charge of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Headquarters in New York. The New York office, while assisting Congressional campaigns in its district, will serve to keep the Congressional Committee in touch with the National Democratic Committee.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILS REPUBLICAN POLICY

Declares Stand on Suffrage and the League Is as "Clear as Mud."

ST. PAUL, Aug. 13.—Declaring the Republican attitude on suffrage and the League of Nations "is as clear as mud," Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, tonight expressed wonder as to how the Republican attitude on "every other public question can possibly maintain business confidence."

His address tonight at the Auditorium here followed a noon address in Minneapolis, when he declared Senator Harding "will be trying to syndicate the Presidency," a condition under which, he said tonight, "a few of the Old Guard crowd would get in on the ground floor."

Referring to divergent interpretations "two great Republican dailies in New York" placed on Mr. Harding's attitude to the League of Nations, Mr. Roosevelt said: "Apparently the Republican offer is this: 'You can pay your money and take your choice."

"If that attitude is carried out in regard to our foreign relations we shall still be at war for years hence," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt left tonight for Sioux Falls, S. D., where he speaks tomorrow. He will also talk at Mitchell and Salem, S. D., returning here Sunday and going to Fargo, N. D., for an address Monday.

Attacks Harding's Suffrage Record.

In his address tonight Mr. Roosevelt spoke in part as follows:

"I am pleased with the news that came this evening of the ratification of the women's suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Senate.

"This seems a peculiarly appropriate moment to call attention to the record of Senator Harding on suffrage and on almost every other important piece of legislation in his whole public career.

"In his reply to the declaration of suffrage made on June 24, 1915, he gave this answer: 'Believing as I do in government through political parties, I had much rather that the party to which I belong should make a declaration than to assume a leadership or take an individual position on the question.'

"A few months later he again told the suffragists that it would be presumptuous for him to dictate to his party. In 1917 he said: 'I shall do the thing when the final test comes which best answers my conviction of the righteous attitude.'

"In April, 1918, Senator Harding said that he had given his pledge to vote as Ohio decided, and that as Ohio had voted twice against suffrage he felt that he should also do so, but he qualified this statement by adding: 'I feel that many things have changed since the vote was cast.'

"It must be remembered that at this time the House of Representatives had already passed the suffrage amendment. Things went on in this way till in 1918. He was absent and did not vote except through a pair when an amendment came before the Senate. I want to emphasize that it was not until the final successful ballot was taken in the Senate on June 4, 1919, that Senator Harding finally climbed on the band wagon and voted yes.

Cites Wavering League Stand.

"A record of this kind speaks for itself. All the rest of his record while in the Senate follows this example. The distinguished Senator from Ohio is one who is careful to wait until the last moment before committing himself to any definite policy. This is borne out by his stand on the League of Nations question during the past year and a half. He was supposed to be in favor of mild reservations. He was then supposed to be in favor of the Lodge reservations. He was later supposed to be in favor of the Republican platform as adopted at Chicago, but no one knew what this meant until his speech of acceptance. The result of that speech is shown by the absolute divergence of opinion as to what it meant by Republicans and others all over the country.

"An effort is being made to persuade business men that Senator Harding is safe and sane and will restore something known as normal conditions. I wonder very much how an attitude of mind as exemplified in his past record on suffrage and the League of Nations and every other public question can possibly maintain business confidence."

After referring to the pay of school teachers, Mr. Roosevelt continued:

"I want to emphasize the real danger before the country before the influx of population from farm to city. Unless the nation is to suffer from higher prices and a curtailed production of food supplies, definite assistance must be given by the Federal Government to restore the balance between the farm and city life.

"As Secretary Lane has so ably put it, the slogan shall be not 'Back to the farm,' but 'Forward to the land.'"

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 13.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, entering the Northwest today on his campaign trip to the Pacific Coast, urged that the food supply of the country be placed on a national or international basis.

Speaking to a crowd which taxed the capacity of a downtown theatre, shortly after noon, Mr. Roosevelt promised that if a Democratic Administration is returned to power "we shall view these problems in the large."

Conditions of farm life must be made more attractive, he said, and this "means better roads, more comforts on the farm, not only for farm labor, but for the farmer's wife and family as well."

Alluding to remarks attributed to Senator Harding, the Republican Presidential candidate, that the "tariff issue is a prominent feature of his [Harding's] campaign," Mr. Roosevelt declared the tariff issue was taken out of politics seven or eight years ago, "to everybody's satisfaction."

TO FOLLOW ROOSEVELT.

Theodore Will Cover Territory Over Which Cox's Running Mate Travels.

Senator Harry S. New, in charge of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee, has arranged to have Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt follow Franklin D. Roosevelt in the latter's campaign across the country. The Republican managers are afraid that voters out West will get the impression that the Democratic Roosevelt is really the son of the late Colonel Roosevelt and that the progressively inclined will rally to his support. To offset this Lieut. Col. Roosevelt will start soon from Chicago and cover virtually the same route that is being taken by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was announced at the Republican headquarters that former Governor Frank B. Willis of Ohio will campaign in Maine in September. On Aug. 18 there will be a gathering of all the New England Republican clubs at Riverside, Me., at which Governor Coolidge will preside, with Governor E. P. Morrow of Kentucky as the chief speaker. F. H. LaGuardia, President of the New York Board of Aldermen, will speak in Maine on Sept. 3.

Thomas W. Miller, Eastern director of the Republican Speakers' Bureau, announced that Miss Mary Stewart, connected with women's activities in former campaigns, will be in the Speakers' Bureau at the New York headquarters in charge of the women's activities and will also take part in the speaking campaigns.

STRAITJACKET OFF, GOV. COX DECLARES

Ready Now, He Says, to Discuss Campaign Issues One by One.

PLANS 'FIGHTING SPEECHES'

Nominee Opens Stumping Tour Today With Two Addresses in Wheeling, W. Va.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13.—The big fight which it is hoped by Democratic leaders will drive Senator Harding from the seclusion of his "front porch" campaign and get him out in the open will be under a full head of steam tomorrow when Governor Cox carries his campaign into West Virginia.

"My straitjacket is off," Governor Cox said tonight, referring to the fact that he had delivered his speech of acceptance, prior to which he had hesitated about discussing the great issues in detail, and had attended to the preliminaries of the campaign, such as his address to the soldiers at Camp Perry yesterday.

"Now I shall take up the issues of the campaign one by one and make it very plain to the people just where I stand," he added.

The Democratic nominee indicated that "fighting speeches" might be expected from this time, with the speech of acceptance as the basis of the stumping tour which is to carry him into every State that is not considered surely Democratic, the Governor indicated that it was his intention to go into the issues in a manner which would assure the people knowledge in advance of what they might not only expect but be certain of in the event of his election.

Governor Cox will go by automobile to Wheeling, W. Va., tomorrow morning—a run of 125 miles. The people of Zanesville, St. Clairsville and Cambridge, Ohio towns through which the Governor will pass, have arranged to get crowds out and demand speeches. It is probable that Governor Cox will make short informal talks at these points.

His first "fighting speech," in which he will get down to the big issues of the campaign "with his coat off," will be made tomorrow afternoon before the Democratic State Convention of West Virginia. He will make a second address at a mass meeting on the waterfront at Wheeling tomorrow night.

Governor Cox had felt, prior to the delivery of his speech of acceptance, that he was bound not to make important utterances on the issues of the campaign. The meeting at Camp Perry yesterday, where he presented the Governor's cup to the winner of the rifle competition, had beeen arranged before his nomination and the Governor was hesitant about turning it into an open political meeting, but now, he said, there was no handicap on his efforts in the future.

Governor Cox's schedule after the meetings in West Virginia, as now revised, calls for the next important speech before the Democratic State Convention in this city on Aug. 17. On Aug. 19 he will make an address before the Indiana Editorial Association at South Bend, Ind., and on Aug. 21 will speak at the Cox Day celebration at Canton, Ohio.

On Aug. 25 there will be an address at Evansville, Ind., an on Aug. 26 a night address in Pittsburgh, Pa. From Pittsburgh Governor Cox will hurry to New Haven, Conn., and on Aug. 28 he will make an address at the Police Field Day at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y. A few more addresses may be included before the long swing into the West begins the first week in September.

Governor Cox spent today going over mail and preparing for his speeches tomorrow. He refused to comment on the statement made in New York by National Chairman George White concerning the question of prohibition, and it is believed that he will not inject the wet and dry issue into the campaign, simply standing by such reference as he made to law enforcement in his speech of acceptance.

Arrangements are being made for a big time on Aug. 17, when the State Committee will meet in Columbus. Secretary of War Baker has accepted an invitation to speak, and there will be several other addresses by prominent leaders.

MISSING MINISTER RETURNS

Jersey Pastor Has No Memory of Two Weeks' Wanderings.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The Rev. Walter H. Woolfe of Crosswicks, N. J., missing for two weeks, was reunited with his wife this morning. When asked about his wanderings he said he remembered nothing.

It was not until yesterday that he remembered his wife. He wrote her a special delivery letter addressed to her sister's home in Camden, thinking she was staying there, as she was, and designated a corner in this city where he would meet her.

Mrs. Woolfe and a friend hurried to this city. Woolfe while waiting collapsed on Market Street. He was taken to Jefferson Hospital and thence to the Rescue Mission. His wife and her companion waited in the rain and returned to Camden.

The Rev. Thomas of the mission recognized Woolfe as a man who had been attending meetings there for more than a week. Woolfe made his identity known and the evangelist sent for Mrs. Woolfe.

TELLS OF JEWISH WANT IN EASTERN EUROPE

Stockholm Rabbi Criticises American-Jewish Relief at Carlsbad Conference.

CARLSBAD, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 13.—Half a million children in Russia and Ukrania are absolutely without any schooling, Dr. N. Ehrenpries, Chief Rabbi, of Stockholm, today told the delegates attending the Jewish World Relief Conference here.

Dr. Ehrenpries made this statement in an address primarily devoted to criticism of the work of the Joint Distribution Committee for American-Jewish Relief. Advocating greater efforts to fill the "spiritual wants" of East European Jews, he declared that conditions similar to those in Russia and the Ukraine existed in Salonika and other parts.

The speaker asserted that in Switzerland Jewish academicians were pawning their diplomas in order to stave off starvation. In Prague, he said, 2,000 out of 3,000 university students are Eastern Jews who are nearly starving and whose homes are the parks and railroad stations.

He declared that in Vienna 92 per cent. of 7,000 students were from Eastern Europe and that 18 per cent. of them were suffering from tuberculosis and 43 per cent. from malnutrition. These students, he said, were making their sleeping quarters on canal bridges, in cafes, and in side streets.

Dr. Goldberg, one of the delegates representing Lithuania, reported a distinct movement among Lithuanian Jews to take up agriculture. He said nearly 1,000 Jewish families had applied to the Lithuanian Jewish National Council for places on farms.

It was announced at the meeting today that the conference is planning to send a sanitary expedition to the Ukraine to combat conditions of disease.

TURKS OBSERVE DAY TO MOURN TREATY

Constantinople Draped in Black, While Newspapers Denounce "Harshness."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12.—Today was designated here as a day of mourning in Turkey because of the alleged unfavorable character of the Turkish Peace Treaty. The observance had been poorly advertised and was not general.

In Constantinople the street cars were stopped for five minutes at noon, newspapers appeared with black borders and a few flags were displayed draped in black. Some of the shop windows, decorated in black, displayed newspapers in which the "harshness" of the treaty was denounced.

One journal said:

"It is always darkest just before the dawn."

The censorship is so strict, however, that the newspapers were unable to print a frank statement of Turkish opinion, which is said to hold that the Bolsheviki will assist in nullifying the treaty.

Damad Ferid Pasha, the Grand Vizier and Foreign Minister, whose illness several days ago was believed to be slight, is known to be seriously ill from a nervous collapse, and he has been unable to sign papers or receive callers.

SPECIAL SESSION CALL SENT TO LEGISLATORS

Speaker Sweet and Republicans Expected to Confer Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—Formal notices were sent out today by the clerks of the Senate and Assembly calling the legislators back to Albany on Sept. 20 for the extraordinary session which has been called by Governor Smith.

It is expected that Speaker Sweet of the Assembly will be in Albany early next week to confer with Republican leaders and map a course of action to be followed when the extra session opens.

The few leaders here agree that the calling of the extra session gives them a chance to make a little political capital.

After he issued the call Governor and Mrs. Smith left Albany. They spent yesterday and today at summer camp of Charles M. Winchester, on Lake George, and will go tomorrow to Bluff Point on Lake Champlain, where they will remain until the middle of next week. By going away the Governor avoided many persons who would otherwise call on him and demand that he incorporate many things in his message to the Legislature. No constitutional amendments can be considered at this session and the changes that are made will be statutory ones.

The Republicans will not permit anything to go to the credit of the Governor if they can help it. They have a close fight in the State this year and a new Senate and a new Assembly is to be chosen. The calling of the five special elections in the districts which elected socialists last year will add to the complexity of the situation. State officials said they saw no reason for fusion of the Democrats and Republicans in the five districts, in the hope of defeating the Socialists. But until Speaker Sweet gets to Albany no one can tell just what the plan will be.

EXPRESS RATE RISE OF 12 1-2% GRANTED

issued, conformably to the foregoing finding, the second-class rates not to exceed 75 per cent. of the corresponding first-class rates.

"For the time being respondent is hereby authorized to file a special blanket supplement or supplements to its current commodity tariffs to make effective the approved increased commodity rates; but within ninety days after the above effective date, unless otherwise authorized, those tariffs shall be reissued.

"In computing the increased rates fractions of less than ½ cent shall be discarded and fractions of ½ cent or more shall be treated as 1 cent, except that in computing increased commodity rates which apply per pound fractions of a cent may be retained or discarded, but shall not be treated in any instance as 1 cent.

"Rates on milk and cream may be made equal to those contemporaneously applied by the railroad lines between the same points. If there are no competing railroad rates between the same points, respondent's rates may be increased 12.5 per cent.

"This report does not take into consideration the award of the United States Railroad Labor Board, handed down as this goes to press, awarding increased wages to respondent's employes, and as to which respondent has suggested the necessity for a further application for increased rates, after study and analysis of the award."

The application for an increase in rates has been before the commission for some time. Extended hearings were held and while no general objection was filed to the demand of the express company certain State representatives offered arguments that the increases should be applied less vigorously to specific zones.

HOUSING CRISIS LAID TO TAX EVADERS

Otto H. Kahn Tells Senate Committee Revision of System Would Cure Many Ills.

TAX-EXEMPT BONDS BOUGHT

Capital Thus Is Withdrawn from Production; State Loans Favored for Temporary Relief.

Tax-dodging by the idle and retired rich, in the form of investment in tax-exempt bonds, is an indirect cause of the housing situation and various social and business evils, because of its withdrawal of capital from more active and productive channels, according to Otto H. Kahn, who testified yesterday before the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, of which Senator Calder is Chairman, at its meeting in the Engineers' Building.

Clyde B. Aitchison, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, also a witness, produced figures to show that the demand for freight transportation this year had been greater than ever before and that during the first five months, despite strikes, more freight had been handled than during the same period of any year except 1917.

The effect of the surtax schedule on driving capital into tax-proof investments was described by Mr. Kahn, who advocated a sweeping revision of the taxing system. One of his suggestions was that of putting a special tax on excessive expenditure for luxuries by discriminating between income reinvested and constructively used and income dissipated in costly living. For example, he suggested that a man who received $200,000 a year and spent $50,000 on living, putting the rest to economic and productive use, should be taxed substantially less than the man who received an income of $200,000 and spent $200,000 on his living. He suggested also the taxing of various "non-necessities."

Favors State Loans for Building.

Mr. Kahn favored State and city loans to promote housing, in default of other effective plans, despite his opinion that city and State lending was "economically unsound," in normal conditions.

"Economic soundness must be subordinate to immediate necessities," he said. "If lending money by the communities for the stimulation of building will produce immediate results, and nothing else will, I would say to do it, notwithstanding the economic unsoundness involved."

Mr. Kahn was against exempting mortgages from the taxation, on the ground that it would lead to still further tax-dodging. Senator Kenyon of Iowa called attention to the fact that England was now paying a bonus of £50 a room to encourage building.

"I am sure that is not needed here," Mr. Kahn said. "I am not sure it is needed in England. What is needed here is to enable the builder to get his money. Set the flow of capital in motion again, which is now clogged, and if it cannot be set in motion quickly enough by private enterprise, then it is up to the State and cities to see that means are forthcoming."

Reasons for His Attitude.

Mr. Kahn summarized and gave these reasons for his attitude on the tax system:

"Most of the causes contributory to the existing era of economic disturbance and high prices are so manifest and have been so frequently and exhaustively discussed, that they are well understood by the people. But the influences of faulty taxation are more subtle, less easily discerned and are generally avoided by the public speaker as a topic of discussion, because to elucidate them means to make one's self the vehicle for pronouncing some unpopular truths.

"I am convinced that the effect of the faultiness of our system of taxation is all pervasive, that you find it as a basic influence wherever you look for the true causes of our economic troubles. I believe that it is as harmful as any other single factor now at work in affecting the prosperity and well-being of the people and especially the people of small and moderate means.

"The cure for inflation and certain other after-effects of the war, which afflict us, is a slow process. The remedy, however drastically applied, needs considerable time to produce its effects. Moreover, in some respects the remedy must not be applied too drastically. For instance, we must not permit the remedy of deflation to be used so rigorously as to bring on an excessive stringency in the credit and money market, and thereby further cripple production.

"But the cure for the evils flowing from the errors of our taxation system can be effected at once.

Not a Rich Man's "Squeal."

"To those who take the view that criticism of our existing surtax schedule is necessarily the 'squeal' of a rich man, or affected by the bias of greed, I would point out that the rich man has little to 'squeal' about on the score of taxes, provided he will join the ranks of the idle rich. All he has to do is to turn his back on work, risk, and constructive effort, and place as much of his capital as is, or can be made liquid, into tax exempt securities—and to the extent that he does so, all direct taxation ceases to trouble him.

"Experience has demonstrated that the excess profit tax and the high surtaxes are in effect nothing less than disguised and inflated consumption taxes. The ideal tax is one that rests where it is laid. That is to a considerable degree attainable in the case of reasonable and moderate taxes but only in that case Grossly excessive or palpably unsound taxes are avoided or passed on to a greater or lesser extent.

"You see, therefore, that a man in the higher super-tax classes, beginning with those earning incomes of say $70,000, actually makes an investment yielding him from 10¼ per cent. to 24 per cent. if he puts that part of his income which is subject to the maximum tax (and that is much the largest part) into a 5¾ per cent. tax-exempt bond, as compared to putting it to work in his business or investing in ordinary bonds or in mortgages."

Says System Must Be Revised.

Mr. Kahn said no remedy for the present economic situation could be effective unless the taxation system were revised. He did not think such a revision difficult. "For a country as immensely rich and intrinsically as little burdened as ours" the money needed for government could be raised "without causing any serious economic disturbance whatever."

"And that," said Mr. Kahn, "should be feasible without in any way impairing the fortunate and desirable circumstance that in our country those of small or moderate means are taxed far less, both in direct and indirect taxation, than they are in any other of the leading countries."

The witness then placed these suggestions before the committee:

"The excess profits tax should be abolished or essentially modified and some other method devised to tax corporate profits. At the same time, the extreme scale of surtaxes, which actually defeats its own purpose, should be revised downward.

"The principle of a progressive individual income tax and of a tax on corporate profits should be retained, but it should be applied, not vindictively or recklessly, but according to the rule of reason and experience. Surtaxes must not be so extreme that they cripple production, discourage or prevent normal enterprise, and preclude that accumulation of business and investment funds which is an indispensable prerequisite for material progress and prosperity. And in fixing the scale of surtaxes, account must be taken of the fact that billions of tax-free securities are available and cannot be abolished, and that, therefore, the scale of supertaxation must be kept at a level which will not drive capital to seek the refuge of tax-exempt securities.

Taxes Should Be Equalized.

"The abolition of the generally condemned excess profits tax would not accomplish the general purpose in view, unless at the same time individual surtaxes are revised downward. Moreover, to do the former without doing the latter would mean that corporations would be given an enormous advantage over individuals engaged in business, because corporate earnings are, of course, free from supertaxes. As near as possible, corporations and individual firms should be taxed to equal effect.

"Careful investigation should be made of the question whether means should not and could not be found to prevent further issues of tax-exempt securities, or at least to limit such exemptions, say, for instance, to the normal Federal tax and State taxes.

"Much can be said for a small tax on sales, say one dollar for each hundred dollars. Whether that should be a tax on commodities only or whether it should include other objects and also services, whether it should be a tax on gross turnover or whether it should be a tax confined to sales to the ultimate consumer, or in what other form it should be imposed is a debatable question on which I am not yet prepared to express a fixed opinion. Nor, indeed, am I quite prepared as yet to advocate definitely the enactment of a sales tax, except in a limited sense.

Opposes Federal Inheritance Tax.

"Inheritance taxation by the Federal Government should cease as soon as conditions permit and that source of revenue left for the use of the States, which are now hard pressed to find sources of revenue. Incidentally inheritance taxation should be imposed not on the estate, but on the individual recipient. Under the present Federal system an estate bequeathed to one descendant is taxed at the same rate as an estate divided among say six descendants. That is manifestly unfair and socially undesirable.

"Consideration should be given to the question whether there should not be a revision of the theory of taxation in the sense of basing it not merely on income, but also on the social use made of income. It seems to me worthy of careful thought whether a sharply marked distinction should not be made between such portion of a person's income as is used constructively in savings, investments or enterprises and such portion as is spent on his scale of living."

Mr. Kahn said that recovery from the shock of war necessarily was slow. He added that the sooner the country was freed from "bureaucratic impedimenta" and governmental interference the better it would be. Hard work, thrift, self-restraint and teamwork still were household remedies for economic ills that had "by no means lost their virtue." But we also should "diligently seek and open-mindedly try new remedies which justify hope of relief."

Coal Priority Order Defended.

Mr. Aitchison defended the coal priority as a measure required by an emergency. When asked if the commission had considered an order forbidding the exportation of coal, he said that embargoes of this kind were questions of too large national and international significance to be dealt with in traffic orders of the commission. He said that the departments of Government more directly concerned with the general subject were opposed to such an embargo. He added that he considered an embargo unnecessary.

Mr. Aitchison was asked if the plan had been considered of grading freight in relation to its necessity, putting food and fuel first and luxuries and nonessentials next. Automobiles were mentioned as "luxuries."

"Leaving for the moment," he said, "the claim of the manufacturer that his product is essential, it does not seem to me that the Congress has attempted to make us a commercial dictator of the policy of the United States.

"If we can forbid the manufacturer of automobiles the use of cars, because we consider them non-essential, there is little we can't do. If we can forbid the export of coal to Europe on the ground that its export is having a bad effect on prices at home, we can forbid the exportation of wheat on the ground that the price fixed in Liverpool has a bad effect on the domestic market. To do so would be an assumption of power to deal with large questions of international policy by an administrative agency which nowhere in the law is charged with that duty."

BILLS BY HUNDREDS PREPAREDFORASSEMBLY

Measures Dealing with Every Phase of Housing Situation to be Submitted.

Hundreds of bills dealing with every phase of the housing situation, some being almost diametrically opposite in their purposes, will be urged on the special session of the Legislature next month, according to the advocates of housing measures who see the problem from different angles.

The plans which appeared to have the most general support were those exempting mortgages on housing properties from the operation of the State income tax, legislation discriminating against commercial building in favor of house building and some form of State and city aid. Champions of both tenants and landlords agree on the mortgage exemption and on State and city aid, while they are at swords' points on nearly every other feature of the problem.

The tenants want stricter laws against profiteering and stronger safeguards against eviction, while the real estate and landlord interests are planning to make a vigorous campaign against the present limitations on rent, stays of proceedings and other restrictions.

Because of the stagnation of house building under the present laws, it will be asserted that the bad effects of drastic curbs on th elandlord is proved and efforts will be made to convince the legislators that the tendency toward multiplying laws on the subject is increasing the timidity of capital and keeping building at a standstill.

Call Timely, Says LaGuardia.

Opposition from general real estate interests and from the building trades unions is expected to call efforts to repress office and factory building as an indirect stimulus to home building. President F. H. LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen said yesterday:

"The call for the special session of the Legislature is indeed timely. It surely shows that Governor Smith has his ears close to the ground and is keeping in close touch with the needs of the residents of this city.

"I hope the Legislature will have the courage to pass sufficiently vigorous laws to take care of distress cases and properly deal with profiteering landlords, as well as enact sufficiently constructive measures to encourage immediate building. I shall again urge Senator Abeles and Assemblyman Sol Ullman to re-introduce the bill drafted by me to authorize the city to provide for building during the present emergency. I do not believe that a Constitutional amendment is necessary to make my bill effective."

The Lockwood Legislative Committee on Housing will have a program calling for bills exempting mortgages from income taxation, discriminating in favor of home building against other kinds of building and revising the present landlord and tenant laws to make them surer in [illegible] prevention of profiteering and more uniform in their action.

The Mayor's Housing Committee will ask for a bill relieving new housing of taxation for eight years and giving such control to the city over building operations as will enable it to repress shop, factory and office building in favor of apartment houses and tenement houses. Secretary E. J. Doyle of the Mayor's Committee said:

"Money that can now obtain 6 1-3 per cent. by investment in Government securities at the present price and 7½ per cent. on railroad and industrial securities is not going into real estate mortgages, which are limited to 6 per cent., and do not yield 5 per cent. net. Money must be available before building can proceed. That is the grim fact which must be faced."

VORONOFF GRAFTS GLANDS AT A CLINIC

French Scientist Demonstrates Theories at College of Physicians and Surgeons.

DETAILS ARE KEPT SECRET

Those Present Refuse to Affirm or Deny Report That Dogs Were the Subjects.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, Director of the Laboratory of Physiology at the College de France, who has been conducting a series of experiments in the transference by surgery of glands from old animals to young, yesterday morning lectured and gave a practical demonstration of his theories at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University's medical school. Only members of the faculty were present.

Although Dr. Voronoff has been in this country nearly a month and has received thousands of requests for lectures, demonstrations and interviews he consented only a few days ago to perform an operation for the benefit of teachers of medicine. Whether this will be his only clinic before his return to France could not be said even by his wife, who has been his official spokesman.

About the clinic, held at the surgical department of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in West Fifty-ninth Street, surgeons who were present rigidly observed the professional rule of silence. No official statement was issued either by Dr. Voronoff or by Dr. Sidney R. Burnap, associate dean of the college, who is in charge of the institution in the absence of Dean Walter R. Darrah.

Scraps of information available here and there pieced out the brief information of Dr. Burnap that the Paris physician had given a demonstration of his theory and methods of operation. Dr. Voronoff was at the institution a few minutes more than three hours and it was learned that the greater part of this time was spent in the surgical rooms of the college, where instruments and animals had been provided for the operation.

None of those present would even so much as affirm or deny the report that dogs had been used in the demonstration. In most of his experiments in Paris Dr. Voronoff has been using goats grown especially for the purpose. In only one of his tests has a human being been the subject, according to Mme. Voronoff. In that test a chimpanzee's glands were transplanted. Mme. Voronoff also said that in about three years' experimenting more than 100 successful operations had been performed on animals.

Dr. Burnap would only say that Dr. Voronoff had been invited to the college as one of the foremost surgeons of France, and that he had accepted the invitation after it had been represented to him that his demonstration and the giving of first hand information on his theories and methods would tend toward the advancement of medical science in this country.

It has not yet been decided by the members of the faculty whether any report on the clinic could be made later with the consent of Dr. Voronoff. Under the rules observed by members of the French Academy of Sciences, of which Dr. Voronoff is a member, reports are submitted to that body and publication is delayed at least three months.

CANTU OFFERS TO QUIT POST IN DECEMBER

Mexican Government, However, Is Not Inclined to Accept His Conditional Proposal.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—Estaban Cantu, the Governor of Lower California, is willing to abandon his rebellion against the Government if he is permitted to remain in office until December, when he agrees to surrender office to the successful candidate, according to advices received by the Government.

His proposition, it is believed, will not be accepted, because it would give him a chance to benefit from the export taxes on the new cotton crop and from the salmon and gambling concessions.

Cantu has desisted trying to compel Chinese and Japanese to join his forces, fearing the displeasure of the United States, it is stated in reports.

A chartered steamer, the Mexico, and the Mexican gunboat Progreso are en route from the east coast to Mazatlan by way of the Panama Canal, permission for their transit through the waterway having been obtained from the United States Government. The boats will carry the second expedition against Cantu from Mazatlan and will probably debark the troops at Ensenada.

Five paymasters carrying 300,000 pesos have left Mexico City to pay off followers of Francisco Villa, the former rebel leader, according to the agreement with him by the Government, it is officially announced.

A personal escort of fifty men will be given Villa, the soldiers being paid by the Government.

WARNS JAPANESE IN MEXICO

Envoy Orders Them Not to Assist Cantu in Rebellion.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—The Japanese Chargé d'Affaires spent two hours with President de la Huerta yesterday discussing the situation of Japanese in Lower California, and he said that he had ordered them under no consideration to take part in the Cantu rebellion. They were also advised not to pay the money demanded by Cantu.

The Chinese colony is said to have been forced to pay a loan of $100,000 on orders of Cantu for his campaign.

General Calles, Minister of War, stated that as yet he had not asked permission of the United States to pass Mexican soldiers through American territory, but if the necessity arose the request would be handled through the Foreign Office.

Nearly 200 officers, Captains and Lieutenants, have been discharged from the Mexican Army, effecting a monthly saving of over 70,000 pesos. A number of Generals have also been discharged from the forces in the State of Vera Cruz.

DE LA HUERTA NOT RUNNING.

Embassy Declares He Will Not Seek Election Against Obregon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President de la Huerta of Mexico is not a candidate to succeed himself and has no intention of postponing the date for the election of his successor.

This means that Mexico will elect a new President the first Sunday in next month, and according to all signs Alvaro Obregon will be the successful candidate, according to an official statement by the Mexican Embassy today.

JENKINS COMING TO REPORT.

Will Advise Washington on Alleged Kidnapping in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—William O. Jenkins, former United States Consular Agent at Puebla, Mexico, soon will visit the United States for the purpose of reporting to the Government on his alleged kidnapping by Frederick Cordoba, the Mexican bandit chieftain, according to a dispatch from Puebla.

The Mexican Supreme Court has decided that the Jenkins case comes under the jurisdiction of the Puebla District Court. Jenkins is charged with perjury.

TWO PASSENGERS HURT IN WRECK ON CENTRAL

Five Cars Derailed on "Buffalonian" Near Little Falls in Early Morning.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Two persons were injured when three Pullman cars and two coaches of train 33 on the New York Central Railroad, known as the "Buffalonian," were derailed at 5:40 o'clock this morning at East Creek, near here. The accident, said to have been caused by a broken rail, delayed passenger traffic for a time.

The injured, Manuel Antonio Fereria, bound for Madesso, Cal., who was said to be hurt internally, and George Rundell, a Utica detective, who sustained fractured ribs, were brought to the Little Falls Hospital. Fereria's wife and two children escaped injury.

The "Buffalonian," which left this city at 9:30 o'clock last night for Buffalo, comprised ten cars. Three Pullmans for Oswego, Syracuse and Watertown, and two coaches in the rear were derailed. Immigrants filled one of the derailed coaches, the other being "deadheaded."

An official report issued here said that the passengers, three of whom suffered from shock, were transferred to another train at 6:35 o'clock and resumed their journey.

CHINESE SHOT MR. REIMERT.

Details Learned of Missionary's Murder by Soldiers.

Further news has just reached the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America, 25 East Twenty-second street, regarding the murder of the Rev. William A. Reimert, pastor of the Yochow Reformed Church, China. The American missionary was killed June 16 last by Chinese Northern Government troops under Gen. Chang Chin Yao at the sacking of the Yochow Reformed Mission.

"It appears that soldiers appeared in the vicinity of the mission station on Saturday, June 12," says yesterday's Intelligencer, the official organ of the denomination. "Every effort was made to send away the scholars of the school, and a large number did escape in time. On the day following, Sunday, June 13, the actions of the soldiers made the people seek refuge in the compound.

"Soldiers came and tried to force their way in. Mr. Reimert went to the gate and forbade their entrance, and was immediately shot down, dying instantly. The quarters of the Chinese teachers were looted in search of money, which the soldiers stated was all they wanted.

"Mrs. Reimert is now waiting to take a steamer back home."

EXPECT ORDER TO GERMANY

Infantry at Camp Dix Undergoing New Program of Intensive Training.

CAMP DIX, Aug. 13.—Hikes, short forced marches, field manoeuvres and intensive rifle practice that usually precede an order into active service form a new program for the infantry regiments now at Camp Dix. The 57th Infantry is on an overland march to Sea Girt, where it will occupy the National Guard camp for several weeks to complete target practice. The 45th Infantry will move to the Camp Dix range on Sunday.

The 57th Infantry is at Lakewood tonight. There was much speculation among the men over the possibility of being ordered overseas as replacements to relieve American troops in the Army of Occupation in Germany. Officers and men are anxious for this experience.

A big crowd of visitors witnessed the last dress parade of West Point cadets at 5 o'clock. The cadets and their officers were guests at a farewell dance given by General Hale, camp commander, at the gymnasium this evening. The cadets will leave camp next Wednesday.

New York National Guard cavalrymen staged a novel field day before General Hale and his staff this afternoon. They will break camp here on Sunday.

NEW ZEALAND SHIP IN PORT.

White Star Liner Here with Cargo of Frozen Meat for England.

The White Star liner Zealandic arrived yesterday from New Zealand via the Panama Canal on her way to Liverpool with 3,000 tons of frozen beef and mutton, including 150,000 carcases of sheep and Canterbury lamb. The ship also had 2,000 tons of wool, 1,050 tons of cheese and 200 tons of butter.

The officers said that the Zealandic took out 1,500 soldiers and their wives who belonged to New Zealand. She is an emigrant ship and has very little cabin accommodation. There were four passengers on board, booked for Liverpool.

The officers said that New Zealand was run entirely by the labor party and the majority of the unions only worked six hours a day and did not work really hard then. The crew were surprised to hear last night that although they were British, an ally of the United States, they could not go on shore to see the city.

20 OVERCOME IN SHIP FIRE.

The Ontario Reaches Boston with Cargo Bursting in Flames.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—About twenty persons, including members of the crew of the Merchants' and Miners' line steamship Ontario, as well as longshoremen and city firemen, were overcome by smoke while fighting a fire in the forward hold of the steamship today. Eleven were taken to hospitals.

The Ontario arrived last night from Baltimore and Norfolk with ninety-nine passengers and was tied up at South Boston, the fire, which is believed to have started during the passage from spontaneous combustion, was not discovered until preparations were made to discharge the cargo today.

The hold was filled with cotton and general merchandise. It was believed the loss would be heavy although there probably would be little damage to the ship.

END INQUIRY AT NEWPORT.

Committee on Vice Squad Hearing to Go to Portsmouth.

NEWPORT, Aug. 13.—Captain Edward H. Campbell, former commanding officer of the Naval Training Station; Lieut. Commander Murphy J. Foster and Police Inspector James J. Palmer were witnesses today before the subcommittee of the United States Senate, now looking into the charges made against the activities of a naval vice squad here early last year.

With the hearing of these witnesses the committee concluded its session here, and Senators Ball and Keyes with Secretary Wick left for Boston this afternoon, and will go to Portsmouth, N. H., where tomorrow they will interview various naval prisoners.

The condition of Senator King of Utah, who is ill at Hill Top Inn, was greatly improved today, and he now has every hope of joining the other members of the committee in New York the first of the week.

Oneonta Prisoner Not Bergdoll.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The man arrested near here yesterday by State troopers is not Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the wealthy draft evader, a Department of Justice official declared today after seeing the prisoner. The man, who says he is George Lenno of Buffalo, will be taken to Governors Island, however, for further examination.

ARREST G. W. WASON IN HOSPITAL THEFT

Broker Confesses He Spent $10,000 in Wall Street, Prosecutor Says.

IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Lewis Investigating Affairs of Another Institution of Which Wason Was President.

Charges made by officers of the Samaritan Hospital, Brooklyn, that the Treasurer of the institution, George W. Wason, was short in his accounts, culminated yesterday in the arrest of Wason and, according to District Attorney Lewis, a confession that he had stolen about $10,000 and spent it in Wall Street speculation. After his alleged confession Wason was arraigned in Adams Street Court and held without bail for action by the Grand Jury.

Wason, who is 44 years of age, formerly lived at 940 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, but recently he has lived with his wife and two children at Mountainview, N. J. He gave his occupation as a stock broker, and said he had an office at 72 Trinity Place, Manhattan. Wason is well known in Brooklyn as a Baptist church and charitable organization worker.

Wason had been connected with the Samaritan Hospital for several years. He received no salary. The institution is supported mainly by contributions from members of the Baptist Church. The shortage was discovered by Dr. A. H. Smith, President of the hospital. Wason assured him everything would be all right.

When the charge was made publicly against Wason he made a statement saying the report was due to a row among the officials of the hospital over the election of a Treasurer to succeed him.

The matter was later brought to the attention of District Attorney Lewis by Dr. Smith and Dr. Clifton Bogardus of 537 Fifty-third Street, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, who was elected Treasurer to succeed Wason. Mr. Lewis was told that Wason intended taking a long Western trip.

Wason, when brought before the District Attorney yesterday morning, at first denied his guilt, but finally broke down, Mr. Lewis said, and confessed. He is said to have stated that the thefts covered a period of nearly five years and were the result of his fondness for stock gambling. The hospital funds were deposited in a trust company, subject to his withdrawal, and he simply drew checks payable to himself and pocketed the money. Mr. Lewis said the checks were all for $1,000 each, except one for $2,250. The District Attorney announced that he would investigate the financial affairs of another Baptist church organization of which Wason was at one time President.

LORRILLARD SPENCER HURT FLYING IN FOG

Air Commuter from New York to Newport Trapped in a Field in Rhode Island.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 13.—Major Lorillard Spencer of New York, who uses an airplane in traveling between New York and his Summer home here, met with an accident when flying home for the week-end this afternoon. He left New York early in the afternoon and upon nearing Newport ran into a fog bank.

For a while he was lost. Later he made out the island of Rhode Island and, flying low, saw what seemed to be a convenient landing place on Reginald Norman's farm, on the East River, Portsmouth.

The field was small, but by skillful manoeuvring he was able to get down nicely. He decided to fly again and land nearer town, but his machine bumped a fence and he was thrown out and at first thought to be seriously injured.

At the Newport Hospital Dr. Stewart found that no bones had been broken, but that the Major's hand had been injured and that he had suffered bruises about the body and face. He later went to his home.

Mr. Spencer was accompanied on the flight by his mechanician, who was not hurt.

FREIGHT DELAYS MAYOR.

Hylan Waits Half Hour at Crossing and Police Are Investigating.

The police of Hunter's Point precinct have been investigating conditions at the Greenpoint Avenue crossing of the Long Island Railroad in Long Island City since midnight Thursday, when Mayor Hylan was delayed for more than half an hour by a freight train that blocked the crossing. After waiting five minutes the Mayor sought out the two special railroad officers who guard the crossing and told them who he was. He wanted to get through the gates and find out the cause of the delay. When the officers would not permit him to pass he called for a policeman. There was none in the vicinity. So the Mayor returned to his car and waited until the crossing was cleared.

The residents of the Blissville section, who are often delayed as the Mayor was on Thursday night, have been petitioning for a viaduct at this point for years.

Fifth Plague Death at Beaumont.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Aug. 13.—City health authorities stopped a negro funeral here today and, after examination of the corpse of a seven-year-old boy, announced he had died of bubonic plague. This is the fifth death from the plague here out of twelve cases of infection reported.

The Case of Ponzi

So the marvelous scheme of making money quickly and without the hard work, the thrift, the wise investing and patience required of all those who found lasting fortunes, has come to naught.

Patience builds more fortunes than are ever reared by genius. The real fortune builders are the patient men and women who lay the foundation for their future, bond by bond, year in and year out.

But what about the men who have put the savings of a lifetime with Ponzi? What about the rest of us? Have we learned the great lesson that high interest rates indicate doubtful security, and that it does not pay to neglect the old-fashioned considerations of safety?

Careful investors are starting their fortunes every day by placing their funds in an investment which, without any sacrifice and security, brings them 6% year in and year out.

Can you afford not to investigate such a security? We have prepared a booklet which outlines an ideal conservative investment and we will send it to you without obligation on your part.

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

The high cost of living is the principal question before the people, thinks Senator Boies Penrose, discussing the big issue of the presidential campaign in The Book Review and Magazine Section of The New York Times tomorrow. George White, Chairman Democratic National Committee, thinks it is the League of Nations and Progressivism.—Advt.

How R. R. Rate Increase Will Touch Family Purse

No one can hope to avoid paying his share of the railroad worker's wages and the cost of new railway extensions and improvements, by merely refusing to travel. "Every pound of food eaten, every ton of fuel burned, every garment worn and every stick of timber entering into the construction of homes will contribute its share" to the gigantic total, reasons the Washington Post, which estimates that it means a per capita tax of $12.00 on every man, woman and child in the country for higher freight rates alone, and perhaps $15.00, when all the increases are taken into consideration. In view of such estimates THE LITERARY DIGEST believes it worth while to gather for its readers the views of leading authorities in various important industries on the precise effect of the new rates in their respective fields. In some cases the statements were found in newspaper interviews, in others they come in response to direct telegram and telephone queries. At any rate, this summary of opinion has been incorporated in an interesting and instructive article in THE LITERARY DIGEST for August 14th, 1920. You will wish to read it.

CROWN PRINCE ALSO CALLED FOR PEACE

HE WARNED OF DISASTER

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—How near the world was to peace in the Summer of 1917 has been shown by documents already published in THE NEW YORK TIMES. What is most surprising is that even the German Crown Prince, who was generally thought to be an advocate of war to the bitter end, had written to the Kaiser in July of that year to advise him to negotiate with the Entente, owing to the growing weakness of Germany—"if Germany doesn't get peace before the end of this year the danger of revolution will be imminent."

Although the Crown Prince probably didn't foresee the extent of the Russian collapse which gave Germany a new lease of life—indeed, almost victory—in 1918, his prophecy was justified, and before the end of that year he and the dynasty of the Hohenzollerns were exiled fugitives. The letter written July 17 from the Crown Prince's headquarters at Charleville runs:

"The time has come to examine our position and compare it with that of our enemies in order to appreciate exactly what food reserves and what military reserves our country can dispose of, what are actually these military reserves, and what munitions, arms and material it can actually produce. Certainly we are much weaker than our enemies. But material position is nothing beside moral position.

"The state of mind of the people after the immense sacrifices to which German families have been forced to agree is deplorable. Misery is increasing, despair being shown more openly.

"It is always most disquieting in times pregnant with revolution to see women lose hope. It is the case with the women of Germany, generally so courageous. Infantile mortality is increasing in alarming proportions and contagious diseases are spreading.

Sees Revolution Imminent.

"If Germany does not get peace before the end of this year danger of revolution will be imminent.

"Austria is in the same situation, or, rather, life in Austria is even less bearable than in Germany. Emperor Charles is certainly one of our faithful friends, but if he has to choose between the utter ruin of Austria and means of saving her by abandoning us, his duty toward his people bids him sever himself from us.

"Bulgaria and Turkey cannot continue the struggle.

"The hope that has been based on submarine war is vain. The Admiralty keeps repeating 'Give us a few weeks more and we will be saved.' Let these few weeks pass and see what the results are. If they don't justify expectations let us seek resolutely to obtain peace.

"It is no longer a question of victory, aggrandizement of Germany or of glory. It is a question of the life of the German people. Nothing should be dearer to us than that.

"Will our dynasty be in danger? Naturally, that is for you and me a great misfortune, but it is nothing beside the disaster which threatens the German people.

Would Give Up Belgium.

"Let us speak frankly. Let us think no more about keeping Belgium. Let us renounce all annexation, even in the East.

"It is necessary that we open pourparlers with our enemies. Remember our great ancestor Frederick, who was conquered by coalition, but whose name remained great before history."

It is a tragic thought that this letter, had it been published in August, 1917, instead of 1920, would have saved hundreds of thousands of lives and billions of dollars of treasure.

Briand's Letter Made Public.

The text of the letter in which ex-Premier Briand informed the French Government of the German proposal in 1917 that peace negotiations be undertaken secretly through M. Briand and the Belgian Premier, de Broqueville, has been obtained here. It reads:

"Paris, Sept., 20, 1917.

"To M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

"My dear President:

"In confirmation of conversation which we had today with Premier Painleve, I am writing you that I consider there should be reserves on which the desired conversation should take place.

"First, there can be no question of breaking the solidarity between France and the Allies. The cause of France cannot be separated from that of the Allies. The pact of September, 1914, remains intact.

"Second, whatever the issue of the proposed conversations, no official peace negotiations can be engaged in before evacuation of allied territories at present occupied by enemy armies.

"Third, from the French point of view the only admissable basis of peace is the integral restoration of Alsace and Lorraine.

"Fourth, restoration of art objects removed from French soil is a sine qua non of peace, as well as reparation for damage under a reserve formula to be found which excludes all idea of penalty.

"Fifth, the question of guarantees admitted in principle remains, as far as their character and scope is concerned, to be debated.

"On the other hand, sixth, all possibility of putting in question the ownership of the left bank of the Rhine should be excluded.

"Seventh, complete peace, economic as well as political, must be aimed at. The German people cannot accept any hindrance to their economic expansion or their power to work.

Explains German Motives.

"From diverse explanations which have been given me I have deducted that the suggestion which has been made has been inspired by the following considerations:

"German leaders are very desirous of peace, but they do not see any possible solution by direct contact with the Governments. Their armies occupy Belgium and part of our territory; they understand that even the commencement of official negotiations is unacceptable to us, since its consequence would be that our soldiers would lay down their arms.

"On the other hand, German leaders have to count with public opinion in their own country and especially with the attitude of pan-Germanists. They cannot publish their war aims, based on more or less extensive concessions, without being certain in advance that these concessions will be accepted, at least in principle, and will serve as a basis for other negotiations which may result in peace. They are of opinion that the way ought therefore to be paved by unofficial conversations."

M. Broand suggests that as ex-Premier and not as a member of the Government, he is best qualified to begin these conversations. He adds that he has laid the proposal before the Foreign Minister entirely for the repose of his conscience, and that it shall be understood that if proposals are acted on the French Government will be officially ignorant.

"I take on myself," the letter continues, "all the risk, and shall be only too happy if it is possible for me to serve the interests of my country and the Allies by advancing by a single day the end of the terrible drama through which we have lived in the last three years."

This letter was never sent to the Allies, M. Ribot contenting himself with advising them what propositions had been made through M. Briand, and that he had pointed out to him the peril of any such negotiations through irregular channels. This attitude was approved by the Allies, and the chance of making peace at the juncture and ending the slaughter came to a definite end.

PONZI GOES TO JAIL; RIVALS ALSO HELD

were among the early investors and hundreds, apparently, have been making nice profits.

The Ponzi Creditors' Association announced today that it would take legal action to force all those who have received "profits" within the last four months to turn them back to the authorities. Major James F. Winston, U. S. A., of Winthrop, today handed the Attorney General a check for $100 which, he said, represented the "profit" in his $200 investment with Ponzi.

BOSTON, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—The belief was expressed at Attorney General J. Weston Allen's office today that it will be possible to compel persons who cashed their Ponzi notes with interest previous to the crash to return the money for pro-rata distribution among all the creditors. Representatives of the Attorney General are making a study of this angle of the situation, working on the theory that the money distributed by Ponzi was stolen and so can be pursued and recovered anywhere, it was announced.

An examination of the Federal bankruptcy laws today revealed that they state specifically that all creditors of a person petitioned into bankruptcy who have received money from the bankrupt within four months previous to the filing of the petition are liable to be sued for the recovery of such money. Funds thus recovered, the laws provide, are to go into a general fund for redistribution later among all creditors at such rate as the referee in bankruptcy determines.

The total amount of Ponzi's liabilities is still undetermined. Edwin L. Pride, the Federal auditor, said today that although his work was not finished, he had found liabilities totaling $8,000,000 and that Ponzi had told him that his assets amounted to $4,000,000.

The Attorney General also is endeavoring to find legal means for proceeding against Ponzi's agents, of whom he believes there were hundreds employed in various parts of New England. Information has reached the Attorney General, it is said, that even Ponzi's chauffeurs acted as agents, taking the opportunity to interest curious persons who flocked about their employer's big car whenever it stopped.

Bank Commissioner Allen expressed the opinion today that depositors of the Hanover Trust Company would lose nothing. "I believe the assets of the company together with the liability of the stockholders will produce a sum sufficient to pay every depositor in full," he said.

Legal steps to protect Ponzi's noteholders continued to be taken today. In the Federal court another bankruptcy petition was filed. Two similar actions already are pending.

Other Offices Ordered Closed.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 13.—The branch office of the old Colony Foreign Exchange Company of Boston, which opened in this city last Thursday, has been ordered closed by District Attorney Joseph C. Kenney. Police today were guarding the office of the company to prevent any further acceptance of notes.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 13.—Police Chief Quilty said this afternoon that he would take immediate steps to close the local offices of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company and similar concerns that in his opinion bear a striking similarity to the Charles Ponzi concern.

Announcement was made today at the Holyoke branch of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company that no more money would be accepted for investment.

TWO ARRESTS IN PROVIDENCE.

Agent of Boston Office and Assistant Held.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—James R. King, agent for the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company of Boston, with local offices at 236 Butler Exchange, was arrested this afternoon on charges of conspiracy and obtaining money under false pretences with Arthur W. Thompson of Boston, who is said to have acted as assistant.

Chief Inspector Maguire stated tonight that the office had been in operation here since last Wednesday, and as far as can be learned business to the extent of about $1,[illegible]00 has been done. King advertised that the company was doing a business in international reply coupons, guaranteeing 50 per cent. profit in forty-five days, according to Assistant Attorney General Capotosto. King claims to be a graduate of Boston University Law School.

REFUSED PONZI ACCOUNT.

One Hartford Bank Returned a $500,000 Check.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 13.—Charles Ponzi tried to make deposits in two Hartford banks, the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company and the Riverside Trust Company. The latter bank accepted his account, but it has been closed.

The Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company was first approached. About three months ago Ponzi sent a check of about $500,000 to this bank as a first deposit for opening an account. Officials of the Trust Company investigated his methods and refused to open an account with him.

Some persons here who held Ponzi notes were paid recently by checks drawn on the Riverside Trust Company.

TRUTH KEPT FROM MRS. PONZI.

She Entertains Friends, Unaware Husband Is in Jail.

LEXINGTON, Mass., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Charles Ponzi sat in the drawing room of her pretentious home here tonight, entertaining visitors, unaware that her husband had been surrendered by his bondsman and taken to jail. To her guests she apologized for his absence, saying that he had telephoned her that he was staying in Boston for the night, as he had to go over his books with the auditor.

Her friends found her smiling and reiterating her confidence in her husband. They went away without disclosing the truth.

From the East Cambridge jail Ponzi was permitted to telephone to the guards stationed about his house. He instructed them to allow no newspaper men to visit the premises and to keep all newspapers away from the house.

"Mr. Ponzi is still boss around here," said one of the guards.

TALES OF RICORO

A True Fish Story

OPINIONS differ as to just who discovered Ricoro Cigars," declared the executive, "but I've always handed the palm to a fellow I met on a trout fishing trip.

"I was wading near the bank, and in the excitement of a 'bite' I stepped into a hole—and went clear over my head. I scrambled out, reached in my pocket for cigar solace—only to find my expensive Havanas dripping wet!

"Just then this other chap came along, and saw my plight. He unslung a well-filled trout basket, sat down beside me, and gave me a cigar.

"'That was a lucky ducking!' I remarked, as I inhaled the soothing fragrance of the obviously expensive cigar he had given me. 'I'll wager that only a favored few have been privileged to smoke this excellent private brand of yours'.

"—'Only a favored few million,' he laughed. 'Ricoro is a private United Cigar Stores brand —they sell this size for 15c.'

"'Fifteen cents!' I gasped in astonishment. 'You certainly are a genius at getting the most and the best for your money! And now—just tell me brother, where you bought your fish!'"

LEMONS.

Somebody in California wrote to Senator Harding something about lemons, and he instantly telegraphed a sympathetic reply. "Kindly as we may feel toward our allies," our markets "cannot be surrendered to foreign producers." So in the kindest way imaginable, with a heart fairly overflowing for Sicilian and other lemon growers, Senator Harding would do his best to ruin them by prohibitive duties.

This is an old story. Say "lemons" to a protectionist and he immediately begins to think about making the tariff higher. The connection between lemons and Republican protection is, indeed, historic. One of the Insular cases decided by the Supreme Court after the Spanish war turned on an invoice of lemons. The point at issue was whether they should pay duty, whether the tariff followed the flag, or always kept a little in advance of it. In the course of the Court's learned discussion of the law and precedents the original objects of the litigation fell out of sight. This led to the famous question of Mr. Justice Dooley at the end of his review of the judicial decision, "Who got the lemons?"

To be asked this question now gives many sensitive Republicans pain. They think that the reference is to the Chicago Convention. They know too well who got the lemon there.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

In Paris and London there is insistence that the Entente is not disturbed by the divergence of policy toward Russia; that a mere incident like this does not shatter the unity of the Allies. Perhaps this is true, but when the two nations take opposite courses on the most important question of the time one cannot help feeling that diplomatic unity is, for the present at least, somewhat disturbed. That England and France want to work together, realize that they must work together if there is any possible way to do so, is undeniable, but they are not working together just now.

British interest is, or seems to be, in peace and trade. France has a powerful interest in the maintenance of a strong Poland, and another in the payment of the old Russian debt. It may be conjectured that Wrangel's offer to pay the debt was the chief reason for his recognition. As for Poland, France still needs her to offset Germany. England can afford to disregard Germany; the menace to England lies under water off Horn Reef and at Scapa Flow. But France still has to think of Germany, and a disarmed Poland will be a liability rather than an asset in future Franco-German differences.

Which policy is right must be decided after we know the intentions of the Bolsheviki. If they are really going to give reasonable terms to Poland, the British attitude is sensible and the French recognition of Wrangel somewhat too hasty. If the Bolsheviki, as the French believe, are merely killing time with peace talk in hopes of either a complete military conquest of Poland or the forcing of a Soviet Government upon the Poles, then the British policy is futile and the French are wise.

The peace envoys seem to have met at last, after a series of delays and confusions which each side attributed to the treachery of the other, but which seem to have been accidents of transit and communication. Making peace by wireless in Eastern Europe seems to be almost as difficult as making a luncheon engagement by telephone in New York. The report from "semi-official sources" in Moscow that the Bolsheviki demand that the Polish "workers" be armed as a "guarantee of the rights of the proletariat" is ominous. The proletariat, in Bolshevist usage, is the right-thinking proletariat—the Bolshevist proletariat. If this report is authentic, Lenin is virtually demanding the disarming of the Polish Government and the arming of the Polish Bolsheviki. This would be annexing Poland in another form.

We need not assume the worst just yet. When the French urge the Poles to refuse the terms of the Bolsheviki because they endanger Polish independence they fail to consider that the Poles are likely to pay the penalty if they take this advice. If the Russian terms really do destroy Polish independence, the Poles can do nothing but fight to the last, but it is a little early for the French, who are not going to have to do the fighting, to bid the others sell their lives dearly. Meanwhile Mr. Millerand informs the American Government that he is entirely in accord with the principles which it set forth, and British labor gets together in convention for a purpose which the usually tame J. H. Thomas describes as more than a "mere strike."

DEMOCRATS AND PROGRESSIVES.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt's Chicago speech was mainly addressed to the Progressives. He reminded them that the Republican Party is again in the hands of the hidebound hunkers against whom the younger and the more generous Republican voters rose with such passion in 1912 under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt. They were the majority of the party then. If Colonel Roosevelt had lived, his nomination couldn't have been prevented this year. In the absence of that overshadowing personality, his old foes have played the old game, forced upon the Republican Convention the candidate of their clique, and resolutely set their party against the hopes and the convictions of millions of Republicans.

The Republican machine against progress: That is the situation. By its record of constructive progressive measures, by its national and international program, the Democratic Party recommends itself to liberal and independent Republicans. It marches forward while the Republican Party marches back. The policies represented by Cox and Roosevelt are progressive. By voting for them Progressive Republicans can "make possible in the future," as Mr. Franklin Roosevelt says, "a restoration of the "Republicanism of Lincoln and "Roosevelt."

GORGAS AND THE SCIENTISTS.

The signal honors paid to General Gorgas in England have occasioned a widespread interest in the discovery of the relationship of the mosquito to malaria and yellow fever, and in the campaigns that have done so much toward controlling both diseases. In a recent issue of The Times Colonel Sir Ronald Ross, whose discovery of the life history of malaria parasites laid the foundation upon which all subsequent workers have built, gives a history of a brilliant feat of medical science. As is almost universally the case, the final triumph was based upon the labors of many men in many lands; and in this instance the story goes back into history almost twenty-four centuries.

The ancients connected malaria not only with marshes, but with insects in the marshes. It is said that about 450 B. C. Empedocles delivered the Sicilian town of Selinus from malaria by drainage. In 1717 Lancisi, in Rome, studied mosquitos with reference to the disease, and also employed drainage. In the late nineteenth century similar researches were carried on in many fields, especially in Italy, England and the United States. In 1895-97 Ross tried to develop the parasite of malaria in the Culex, and also in the Stegomyia (later found to be the bearer of yellow fever), but without result. In 1897, however, he developed the parasite in the sub-family Anophelina, thus really proving the mosquito theory; but his investigations, which throughout his life have been individual and voluntary, were cut short by routine professional duties. Meantime his results were indirectly confirmed and extended in America by the discoveries of MacCallum and Opie. In 1898 Ross returned to his researches. Not having the means of working with human malaria, he experimented with the malaria of birds, producing the disease by the bite of mosquitos and exhaustively recording its phenomena. Again he was interrupted by professional duties and again his work was carried on by others—this time by Italians.

It was by building upon the results obtained with regard to malaria that the Americans, Reed, Lazear, Carroll and Agramonte, proved in 1900 that yellow fever is carried from man to man by Stegomyia, as malaria is carried by Anophelines. Meantime the knowledge thus acquired had been applied in several tropical localities. In 1901 General Gorgas, under orders from Leonard Wood and with his hearty co-operation, began the work which has done so much to free Havana and the Canal Zone of both malaria and yellow fever.

In conclusion Sir Ronald draws a striking contrast between the English indifference to research and American efficiency. "I have never been employed by my countrymen in an "executive capacity to give effect "to my own suggestions. Gorgas "worked with the whole support of "the American State behind him. "Right well did he do it; and we are "all glad that the King recognized "his achievement before he died." All Americans will recognize with equal gratitude the originality and the brilliancy of the individual pioneer in England.

VENIZELOS RECOVERING.

It is good news that the injuries inflicted on Mr. Venizelos by would-be assassins are only slight, and that his early and complete recovery is expected. He has done an enormous work for his country, not only in enlarging its importance in the world, but in reorganizing and rejuvenating its interior life. If he should die now, it would be hard to find a competent successor.

The two officers who shot him came, it is reported, from Switzerland, where Constantine lives in exile. A previous conspiracy was traced back to the encouragement, if not the active participation, of friends of the ex-King. No direct proof has yet been offered that Constantine has personal knowledge of these murderous plots, but they come from very close to him. His propagandists are still at work, in Greece and in America. There is evidence, however, that they are having no great amount of success. The facts are against them.

The would-be assassins in Paris said that they wanted "to free Greece from the oppressor." The "oppressor" in ten years has almost quadrupled the territory and population of his country; has created in a wide and growing section of his countrymen a breadth of view which is making Greece in the intellectual sense a world Power; found Greece friendless abroad and in the slough of political despond at home, and successively achieved almost every one of the national aspirations and won the friendship and the timely help of the most powerful nations of the earth. The "oppressor" is the target of the slanders and the bullets of those who serve a man who broke a treaty, disregarded twice the expressed will of his people, and surrendered Greek troops and fortresses to the traditional enemy.

THE PONZI LESSON.

Reports of Ponzi's debts and assets deal so liberally with multiples of millions that there can be no precision before the official balance sheet. But there were liberal payments of "profits" before the collapse came. It is now clear that all such payments were made out of larceny—that is the official charge by Massachusetts—and that all who retain more than they paid to him are receivers of stolen goods. Why should not those profits be recovered to lessen the loss of those unpaid creditors who are neither less nor more partners in this illicit enterprise than those who drew out earlier?

The custom is to punish only those who sell "green goods," but it would do more to stop the game if those who bought green goods also were sometimes punished as accomplices. Those who invested with Ponzi had no intention of helping him to swindle others, but their acts have had that effect. The least recompense they can and should make is that they should disgorge their profits, or possibly should be compelled to share ratably in the loss which ought to be proportionate for all the partners in the enterprise.

No doubt this is an unusual view to take, but the Attorney General of Massachusetts is said to be considering such action. It is suggested here only because of the utility of an object-lesson that there is an element of misconduct on the part of those who allow themselves to be partners in such duplicity. Even against Ponzi it is difficult for many to feel proper resentment. It is true that he showed unusual capacity in his fraud and courage in facing the music. He has qualities which ought to be useful to himself and to society. That is what made him such a dangerous deceiver and renders it necessary to turn his experience into an object-lesson. The losses of his dupes excuse them only in proportion that his excuse him. A little hardening of the heart toward losers would be of more public benefit than excess of indignation toward those who lead them into loss. We know what to think of people who buy goods so cheap as to show that there is something crooked about the price.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Public feeling and the imperative necessity of building more houses have led Governor Smith to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature on Sept. 20 to consider measures for housing relief. The statutes passed by the last Legislature in regard to the relations of landlord and tenant were merely palliatives; they didn't and couldn't affect the real evil. There is a lamentable scarcity of apartments and houses. Somehow they must be built. It is to be hoped that practical plans will be completed before the Legislature meets. There is a host of schemes and proposals. It should be possible out of a multitude of suggestions to devise a policy just to private capital and to the taxpayers, feasible, and that can be carried out fruitfully. The situation gets worse every day. The more quickly a sound plan can be put on the statute books the better.

Governor Smith shows his wonted fairness and sense of justice in proclaiming special elections to be held on Sept. 16 in the five Assembly districts in New York, Kings and Bronx Counties whose Socialist Assemblymen were expelled. It is right that those districts should have a voice in the session which is to discuss a matter of such interest to them; but there should be nothing merely sentimental or vindictive in the choice of those Assemblymen. Just as the Republicans and Democrats are combining in certain Congress districts against the Socialists, and have arranged fusion in certain State Senate and Assembly districts, they should combine in these five Assembly districts formerly represented by the Socialists. It is as easy and as necessary to unite for the elections of Sept. 16 as for those of November.

No matter what may be the individual Republican's or Democrat's view of the wisdom or unwisdom of the measures against the Socialists passed by the Legislature and vetoed by Governor Smith, a sense of the public interest and security should bring about the union of all believers in the American system of government against men who seek to destroy it. Not the "vindication" of the Socialist Assemblymen, but the "vindication" of the American polity against its enemies, is the duty of the voters in those districts who adhere to that polity. It is better to be unjust, if there has been injustice, toward the excluded Socialists than to be unjust to the State of New York and the United States.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Income and Wealth. The story of the 14,000 or 23,000 war-made millionaires, which furnished ammunition to radical propagandists, was absurd enough at the time it gained currency. In the first place, it was based on arbitrary capitalization of certain incomes, and, moreover, it took no consideration of the fact that a man whose income this year is $50,000 might have made $45,000 last year. In that case, according to this very often inaccurate capitalization, he was worth $900,000 a year ago; but because his income increased $5,000 in a single year—an increase largely wiped out by the tax—he was called a "war millionaire."

Officials of the Treasury Department, according to a news article published yesterday, now admit that it is often incorrect to call a man who has an income of $50,000 a year a millionaire. He may be making huge profits on a business representing small capital. On the other hand, the Treasury Department quite accurately points out that many men whose capital totals a million or more have it invested very largely in tax-free securities bearing a low rate of interest. Yet the balance is probably the other way; that is, there are fewer actual millionaires than income millionaires.

This suspicion is strengthened by the statement that two men in the United States admit incomes "in excess of $3,000,000." That is a loose term, and the two incomes may be widely apart. It will generally be supposed that one of these men is John D. Rockefeller. It may plausibly be conjectured that the other is Henry Ford. What the relative size of their incomes may be nobody knows outside of the Treasury Department, but it is a pretty safe guess that Mr. Ford gets a good deal larger percentage on what might, by any computation, be described as his capital than does Mr. Rockefeller.

The Fault in the Stars. It is to be feared that the British Government does not subscribe for the bulletins of the "Astrological Research Bureau" of Washington. Otherwise it would have learned from the latest issue that "the planets, rather than political agitators, caused the Irish troubles." This was clear to the Astrological Bureau last April, when it printed the following plain warning:

"The solar eclipse of May 18, which occurs in the ruling sign of Ireland, falls in the English Government's house of secret enemies and clandestine performances, with the revolutionary Uranus nearly at the meridian and directly opposed by the conservative and reactionary Saturn. This most strongly presages drastic overturnings, with momentous consequences to the Government."

The inference is obvious. Instead of sending more troops to Ireland or passing coercion bills or talking about Dominion Government, Lloyd George should add to his Cabinet an expert star-gazer.

Edison and His New Invention. Not only in the field of science is Mr. Edison the most original of Americans. A Tribune reporter, who was present at a ceremony commemorating the forty-third anniversary of his invention of the Ediphone, brought away the blueprint of a scheme to undercut the high price of shoes. Seventeen and eighteen dollars a pair is what his usual dealer asked, and the shoes all had absurdly pointed toes. Now, at both ends Mr. Edison requires scope for his understanding; so he hiked down to Cortlandt Street and there in a cellar found a pair of square toes for six dollars. After a year's service those brogues had only just given out at the soles, and Mr. Edison recounted their history as he took them off and pared away the loose leather with his jack-knife.

It is the way of political candidates to reveal themselves pictorially in homely, heroic attitudes—making up the front page and even playing golf with no nineteenth hole. The prohibition candidate showed the extremes of his devotion to water in a collection of pictures showing how he did the family wash. Mr. Edison asks no office, but he goes them all one better. Many who are otherwise politically incorruptible might be tempted to vote for a man who would impart the secret of bringing down current costs by 66 2-3 per cent.

Easier to Make Than to Find. Reference was made in this column recently to Sir Walter Scott's habit of fixing tags of poetry to the chapters of his novels, many of which he was supposed to have composed himself, though attributing them to "Anon" or "Old Play." The subject came up in connection with the discovery that the lines about "one crowded hour of glorious life," long thought to be Scott's, were written by another and "taken" by Scott quite in Molière fashion. But the matter had previously been dealt with in "Queries and Answers" of The New York Times Book Review of June 6. There the following passage, worth reprinting, was given from Lockhart's "Life" of Scott:

"It may be worth noting that it was in correcting the proof-sheets of 'The Antiquary' that Scott first took to equipping the chapters with mottoes of his own fabrication. On one occasion he happened to ask John Ballantyne, who was sitting by him, to hunt for a particular passage in Beaumont and Fletcher. John did as he was bid, but did not succeed in discovering the lines. 'Hang it, Johnnie,' cried Scott, 'I believe I can make a motto sooner than you will find one.' He did so accordingly; and from that hour, whenever memory failed to suggest an appropriate epigraph, he had recourse to the inexhaustible mines of 'Old Play' or 'Old Ballad,' to which we owe some of the most exquisite verses that ever flowed from his pen."

BRYCE ON TREATIES HERE.

An Explanation That Proved to be a Prophecy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I inclose herewith an excerpt from Bryce's "American Commonwealth," third edition, published 1896. The excerpt is particularly interesting and prophetic in respect to the action of the Senate in relation to the Versailles Treaty.

P. W. HABERMAN.

[Inclosure.]

(From Bryce's "American Commonwealth," Third Edition, 1896, Vol. I., Page 108.)

The Senate may and occasionally does amend a treaty, and return it amended to the President. There is nothing to prevent it from proposing a draft treaty to him, or asking him to prepare one, but this is not the practice. For ratification a vote of two-thirds of the Senators present is required. This gives great power to a vexatious minority and increases the danger, evidenced by several incidents in the history of the Union, that the Senate or a faction in it may deal with foreign policy in a narrow, sectional, electioneering spirit.

When the interest of any group of States is, or is supposed to be, against the making of a given treaty, that treaty may be defeated by the Senators from those States. They tell the other Senators of their own party that the prospects of the party in the district of the country whence they come will be improved if the treaty is rejected and a bold, aggressive line is taken in further negotiations. Some of these Senators, who care more for the party than for justice or the common interests of the country, rally to the cry, and all the more gladly if their party is opposed to the President in power, because in defeating the treaty they humiliate his Administration. Thus the treaty may be rejected and the settlement of the question at issue indefinitely postponed.

It may be thought that a party acting in this vexatious way will suffer in public esteem. This happens in extreme cases; but the public are usually so indifferent to foreign affairs, and so little skilled in judging of them, that offenses of the kind described may be committed with practical impunity. It is harder to fix responsibility on a body of Senators than on the Executive; and whereas the Executive has usually an interest in settling diplomatic troubles, whose continuance it finds annoying, the Senate has no such interest, but is willing to keep them open so long as some political advantage can be sucked out of them. The habit of using foreign policy for electioneering purposes is not confined to America. We have seen it in England, we have seen it in France, we have seen it even in monarchical Germany. But in America the treaty-confirming power of the Senate opens a particularly easy and tempting door to such practices.

Governor's Good Road Record.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am in hearty accord with The New York Times editorial article on Governor Smith in a recent issue, in which it is stated that "his record is sufficient reason for his re-election." I am a Republican and voted for the Governor two years ago and I shall vote for him again next November.

Governor Smith's appointments to office have been excellent. One of the best men whom he named is Frederick S. Greene, who was placed at the head of the Highway Commission. Colonel Greene is a type of officeholder of whom there are few. Men of his size are needed in public office, for they are big enough to grapple with questions with which the entire people are concerned.

The Democratic State Convention indorsed the way in which the Highway Commission has handled the good roads question. The praise given the administration of that department is well merited. Colonel Greene has divorced politics from his department and his action has proved of benefit to the taxpayers of the State.

As administered by Colonel Greene the Highway Department has been freed of conditions that have been a scandal since the department was created ten years ago. No longer are road contracts awarded to the highest bidders among political leaders. Roads are being built to last for years. Competent engineers are in charge of all roads. Graft, waste and extravagance have been eliminated from all public work. Honesty and efficiency have been substituted for dishonesty and incompetency, and the people are getting highways that will last for years instead of paper roads. The Highway Department will be a splendid asset to Governor Smith in the campaign.

When the Case Is Lost.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The iteration by many of the Republican newspapers of late that Governor Cox's stand on the League of Nations question is equivocal, evasive, a "straddle," &c., reminds me of the bad manners of a disputant who has no case. When the plain facts are squarely against him he then resorts to what may be termed "gong-beating" along with general vituperation against President Wilson and the whole Democratic Party. To such a pass has come the formerly self-lauded party of moral ideas!

IN MEMORIAM.

William C. Gorgas,
Late Surgeon General, U. S. A.

I saw him borne through the city
Wrapped in his honor shroud,
The flag that he left as sunshine
Where the souls of men had bowed,
Weighted down with terror
Bred by the fever-cloud.

He, who with clear eyes shining
Wrestled with horror's spell,
Who pitched his lone headquarters
In the outer lands of Hell,
Knew many things that beggared
Clean death by bursting shell.

To others pomp and clamor,
To him a mild acclaim;
Theirs is the flaunting glory,
His is a gentler fame;
But the faces of mothers smiling
Are stars for the Gorgas name.

And the sound of mothers praying,
Glad that their sons draw breath,
Will hover above and bless him,
The green sod underneath;
Yea, mothers of men are his mourners:
A soldier of life, not death.

BOLSHEVISM AND ISLAM.

"A Strictly Oriental Movement" That Can't Be Cured by Talk.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May it be permitted to wonder whether the denunciations of Bolshevism by such partial critics as Mr. Bertrand Russell and Prince Kropotkin have taught our parlor Socialists and demi-radicals any lessons in humility? Are sundry Americans of alleged light and learning any less certain that your true Leninist is like Artemus Ward's once famous kangaroo, an "amoosin' little cuss" whom the good Oberlin professor once imagined could be best controlled by "moral suasion"? Does the present crucifixion of Poland carry also the slightest lesson to Western statesmen, and especially to those of the far-flung British Empire, who have seemed so anxious to have their St. George slay his dragon by plenty of "economic conferences"?

In truth there seems nothing amazing nor unprecedented in the expansion of Bolshevism to students of the strange enthusiasms and fanaticisms which have repeatedly sprung out of the East. Modern methods of communication, however, make it possible for bizarre movements, after they have won their first success, to forge ahead more quickly than of old. The vast centralization of political control in the old Czardom also rendered it far easier for a revolution to master a great empire, by seizing a few seats of authority, than in former days of petty kingdoms and tribal barriers.

That Bolshevism no more resembles genuine Marxianism than cubist art is kin to Raphael's Madonnas, will be denied by few Americans, even of the more "liberal" brand. There remains not the slightest chance that the general success of Leninism will be followed by any such Utopia as that whereof our Western radicals dream. Bolshevism has merely stolen certain catch words and cant phrases from socialism, just as Mohammed borrowed many stories in the Koran from the Hebrew and Christian Scriptures, but the essence of Islam is as far removed from that of the older religions as the East is from the West. It is a very like case with the Sovietism of Russia.

Leninism has been with us long enough now to admit of a clear diagnosis. We are dealing again with a pretty strictly Oriental movement which has fastened itself upon the least westernized of all the European nations. Zoroastrianism, Manicheism, Mohammedanism, Mahdism—these are only a few of its famous predecessors. The annals of Russia abound with records of queer sects which not tyrannically the Government had to suppress lest they menace not the public orthodoxy, but the public order. Today human interest seems, indeed, to have shifted from the future world to the present. The newest fanaticism is quite naturally concerned with expropriating mansions in Moscow rather than in the New Jerusalem. But the essential spirit of Bolshevism differs not one whit from that of the robust "comrades" of a former day, who swung their scimiters while announcing "Choose between Islam and the sword!"

The statesmen of Europe have stood dumbfounded as well as horrified before recent developments in Russia, just as once the statesmen in Persia and Christian Constantinople, in the seventh century, stood bewildered before a strange movement advancing out of Arabia. They have acted as if the Soviets were an ordinary government, to be influenced or coerced by the methods suitable for persuading the old-line political powers, when one does not wish to wage capital war against them. They have used coercion amply sufficient to make an average kingdom listen to reason, but utterly insufficient to swerve from their path a band of fanatics whose worst enemies do not deny their desperate sincerity.

It is all very well to say the Bolshevists are a small minority, possibly not over 600,000 in a nation of 170,000,000. Russians, like other Easterners, have always been accustomed to the rule of small minorities, once these have been ensconced in power and are pitiless in their methods of keeping it. Rameses II. and his taskmasters were undoubtedly a small minority in trembling Egypt. Only a very limited fraction of Mohammed's early converts were in the least convinced of the truth of his gospel until put in mortal peril of their lives. Such has ever been the way of the East—which has supplied the world with many theories, ignoble or noble, but few examples of democracy.

Today, by a vast accumulation of evidence, this Oriental movement has declared implacable war upon Western democracy, the one human system which (whatever its frailties) has been making orderly progress toward a better day. Bolshevism is about as likely to be stayed in its attack on Western liberty by moral appeals and economic arguments as the first Moslem invaders of Christian lands were to be halted by theological dissertations from the horrified monks and bishops. Come what may, we cannot claim that the leaders of the Slavized or Turanian East have dissembled their purpose. Almost have they used to us the language of Achilles of old, flinging his defiance at Hector: "As between men and lions there is no pledge of faith, nor wolves and sheep can be of one mind, so for me and thee can there never be friendship, neither shall any pledge be between us until one or the other shall have fallen."

Doubtless it can be no grateful task for Mr. Lloyd George, or any other Western statesmen, to tell his war-weary people that Hohenzollernism was not their last mortal enemy, but wherein now lies the gain in dissembling? In the words of Mr. Bertrand Russell, Bolshevism, "if made universal, would submerge civilization for a thousand years." And today this evil thing is marching on.

Not by polite conversations with the urbane M. Krassin and similar suave, blood-smirched "commissaries", did Charles Martel and his northern axemen fling back the hordes of a less destructive fanaticism on a stricken field at Tours.

Irish Publicity Fund.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Answering your editorial article in this morning's Times on "The Irish in Our Politics," may I ask, in this connection, just why it is a misdemeanor for the Irish to appropriate funds for publicity and quite the right thing for the English to appropriate funds (many times in excess) for a similar purpose? It seems to me to be the same old cry of one rule and one standard for the Irish and another for the English.

Your article is what one might expect from The Times regarding anything connected with the Irish cause—always hostile. While I am a constant reader of your paper and agree with you on many subjects, this one I always have to discount; for hostility and unfairness permeate every word written in connection with this Irish question. It is too bad that you cannot see the fairness of the whole subject—that Ireland is a distinct nation with distinct traditions, and the sooner England and British subjects recognize this evident fact the sooner the empire will be able to resume that much needed construction and constructive period so necessary after the war period.

ART PRIZES FOR PUPILS.

Metropolitan Museum Makes Awards for Best Compositions by Visitors.

Announcement is made at the Metropolitan Museum of Art of a prize contest in the high schools of Manhattan and Bronx in connection with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the museum. At the suggestion of President Robert W. de Forest the Trustees offered to each high school a prize for the best composition written by a pupil of the school on the topic: "A Visit to the Metropolitan Museum," or some nearly related subject. The prizes, photographs of objects in the museum, will become the property of the schools.

The decisions of the judges have been rendered and the actual awards will be made at the opening of the school year in September by Mr. de Forest. In the meantime the prize pictures have been hung in Class Room B of the museum. They vary in subjects, two are of Greek marbles, the museum's famous pieces of sculpture, the "Young Horseman" and "Athlete's Head"; the great Vandyke, "James Duke of Lenox," has been reproduced, and a Corot among others. For the pupil writing the best composition among all the competitors there is a personal prize, also a framed photograph. This is of the museum's lovely little Vermeer, "Woman at the Casement." There were eight schools competing.

B. R. T. TO INCREASE SERVICE

More Cars and More Trains Promised on Subway and Elevated Lines.

Responding to a demand by Deputy Public Service Commissioner Donnelly the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company agreed yesterday to increase and improve the service on its lines. Investigations convinced Mr. Donnelly that more platform men were needed at many stations, that the men were not sufficiently informed concerning the movements of trains to enable them to direct passengers, and that passengers were permitted to ride on the front platforms of trains, thereby interfering with the safe operation of trains.

The company will hereafter run four-car instead of three-car trains on the Fulton Street and Brighton Beach lines, and another car will also be added to trains on the Myrtle and Lexington Avenue, Broadway, West End, Sea Beach and Culver lines. More trains will be operated and the increase in service on all of the lines will range from 33 to 40 per cent. More and better platform men are to be placed on duty at the Canal, Fourteenth, Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Street stations in Manhattan and at the Dekalb Avenue, Pacific and Bridge Street stations in Brooklyn.

PAPER SHORTAGE CONTINUES

Conservation Still Necessary, Says Publishers' Association.

Despite importation of German and Scandinavian paper in small quantities and the fact that domestic factories are being constructed, the shortage of newsprint is still acute and can only be combated by strict conservation, according to a statement issued last night by the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

The practice of conservation in the last few months, however, the statement said, has been reflected in current quotations of the spot market, which have declined to about 11 cents a pound, with occasional futures quoted at 10 cents.

"For variously assigned reasons certain manufacturers are offering less paper for contract next year than they sold to American publishers this year," the statement continued. "Several mills under course of construction that were supposed to be in operation soon have been delayed in completion."

4,195 OFF FOR EUROPE.

Will Sail on Three Liners of I. M. M. Company and a Cunarder.

Three liners of the International Mercantile Marine Company leave today for Europe with 555 first, 690 second and 2,050 third class passengers.

Among the 340 first cabin passengers sailing on the White Star liner Adriatic for Cherbourg and Southampton are Hugh Gibson, United States Minister to Poland; Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Major Sir George A. and Lady Dolby, Miss K. A. Dolby, Mrs. H. W. Harms, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Allen, J. W. Isherwood, inventor of the Isherwood system of ship construction; H. S. Morgan, Mrs. A. Samson and the Countess Castelli Solenas. The Red Star liner Kroonland for Antwerp and Southampton has 75 first, 230 second and 450 third class, and the American liner Mongolia for Hamburg has 140 first class and 1,100 in the steerage. She will leave late in the afternoon, as the third class will be loaded on the two other liners first.

The Cunarder Kaiserin Augusta Victoria leaves at noon for Liverpool with 250 first cabin and 650 steerage passengers.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS 443,083

Gained 12,511 in Population in the Last Decade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—New Hampshire's population is 443,083, the Census Bureau announced today. The State's growth in the ten years was 12,511 or 2.9 per cent., its 1910 population having been 430,572. For the ten years ending with 1910 the State showed an increase of 18,984, or 4.6 per cent. more than the population for 1900.

New Hampshire ranked as thirty-ninth State in point of population in 1910. The State had its largest growth in the decade ending with 1800, when the increase was 41,973, or 29.6 per cent. Its growth declined each decade until that ending with 1850, after which declines again were shown for two decades, with a decrease of 7,773 in population for the ten years ending with 1870.

Other figures announced were:

Austin, Texas, 34,876; an increase of 5,016, or 16.8 per cent.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, 19,333; an increase of 3,790, or 24.4 per cent.

St. Cloud, Minn., 15,873; an increase of 5,273, or 49.7 per cent.

Bicknell, Ind., 7,635; an increase of 4,841, or 173.3 per cent.

Ranger, Texas, 16,205 (incorporated since 1910).

MAKE 860 MILE FLIGHT.

Two Aviators Travel from New York to Kentucky Without Stop.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 13.—The longest continuous airflight ever made in this part of the country ended today, when Captain W. E. Beaver, of the Royal British Air Force, who has been stationed in New York, landed here with his mechanic, W. Burton, of New York. They made the trip from New York, halting once at Cleveland, in eleven hours. The distance is about 860 miles.

The airmen made the journey from New York without mishap until they reached Lexington. As they circled above that city a heavy rain and electrical storm came up and drenched them. They tried to run for shelter and saw the only safe landing place was at the Kentucky Jockey Club in the eastern suburbs. They flew for that spot, but were not familiar with the city and at several places narrowly missed the tops of houses, and at one place almost descended in a residential street.

The men finally landed unhurt, however, and were interested at finding they had made such a long flight. They go from here to Barboursville, Ky., where a flying school has been established.

NEW WAR COUNCIL BEGINS ITS WORK

Secretary Baker at Its Head, Pershing and March Also in It.

PART OF GENERAL STAFF

This Body Also Reorganized, Being Divided Into Four Divisions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The War Council created by Congress at its last session was formally organized today, with Secretary of War Baker at its head, the other members being General Pershing, Major Gen. March, Chief of Staff, and Assistant Secretary Williams. The Council is a part of the General Staff, the reorganization of that body having been announced this afternoon by Secretary Baker. As reorganized the Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all military subjects, and he is charged with the planning, development and execution of the army program.

The Assistant Secretary, in addition to his other duties, is charged with the purchase and lease of all real estate, the purchase of commodities, equipment and supplies, the disposition of all supplies, equipment, factories, land or other property, the settlement of all claims due to the cancellation of contracts and the determination of the rights to inventions which are of value to the military establishment.

The General Staff is now divided into four divisions, each under the immediate control of an Assistant Chief of Staff. These are the Operations Division, the Military Intelligence Division, the War Plans Division and the Supply Division. As a whole the General Staff is charged with the preparation of war plans, including the mobilization of men and material resources.

The Operations Division has charge of the assignments, promotion, transfer and discharge of the officer as well as the enlisted personnel of the army, the National Guard, the organized reserves, the Officers' Reserve Corps and the Enlisted Reserve Corps. It also has supervision over enemy aliens, prisoners of war, conscientious objectors, supervision over recruiting and mobilization, determination of policies relative to the award of decorations and supervision over research and development work.

The Intelligence Division is charged chiefly with the collection, valuation and dissemination of military information for the use of the Secretary and the Chief of Staff and has numerous other duties. In case of the establishment of a military censorship the director of this division shall act as the chief military censor.

The War Plans Division is charged with those duties of the General Staff pertaining to organizing and training the military forces for the national defense. It is specifically charged with formulation of plans for the national defense and for the use of the military forces for that purpose, separately and in conjunction with the naval forces, including plans and regulations affecting the organization, distribution and training of the National Guard and the organized reserves and supervision over the training of the army.

The Supply Division is charged with those duties of the General Staff which pertain to the supply of the army in peace and in war.

PRINTERS REJECT DISUNION.

Convention Negatives Proposal to Allow Locals to Call Strikes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—A strike proposition introduced by Delegate Cassidy of New York, a member of "Big Six," was defeated in the convention of the International Typographical Union. Mr. Cassidy spoke against arbitration and conciliation and insisted that a "halt should be called on the pacifist movement in labor." He declared that arbitration tending to eliminate strikes took away the only weapon of the laboring man.

It was ten minutes before the hour of adjournment when the subject was brought up, and the convention promptly defeated the plan of Delegate Cassidy and adjourned on time. Had the plan been adopted each local union would have the power to strike without sanction of the International.

Alexander Philpot of The Boston Globe urged that charters be granted to news writers' unions. The proposition was referred to the Executive Council.

The Laws Committee rejected a proposition which would have aligned the union against Mexican labor, and another calling upon the union to demand that the United States protest to England and calling for recognition of the Irish republic.

A resolution endorsing the "Vacation" of 4,300 printers in New York last Winter was beaten by a vote of 145 to 76. The delegates refused the floor to Leon Rouse, President of "Big Six" of New York, who was to present the side of the men in the "Vacation" walkout.

Later tonight Mr. Rouse and his friends gathered in Union Hall, where the speech was made. It was decided not to give union cards to veterans who were trained in Government schools. The 44-hour week negotiated by President Scott at Chicago was ratified.

The convention ended tonight.

HYLAN CITES SCHOOL CRITIC

Asks Education Board to Investigate Backward Pupils.

Mayor Hylan yesterday sent a letter to Anning S. Prall, President of the Board of Education, and each member of the board calling attention to a recent criticism of the public schools in New York by W. J. Shearer, an educational expert of Elizabeth, N. J. The critic declared that twice a year 200,000 pupils in the city's schools failed of promotion because of deficiency in one or two studies, and that this meant that 400,000 pupils must be carried over for an additional term at a cost of $10,000,000 to the city.

The educational expert also said that 700,000 pupils were held back each year because they could not keep pace with brighter pupils, which also meant an approximate cost of $10,000,000 to the city. In his letter the Mayor wrote:

"Would it not be possible to have a report made by each Principal of the city of the number of children that have not been promoted for the last five or six years, and in what particular studies the child is deficient?

"If a progressive policy could be inaugurated in our public schools the bright children would finish their school course earlier than now, and those that are backward in possibly one or two subjects could be given some special consideration so that they would move forward instead of standing still or going backward, congesting the schools unnecessarily."

WILSON WRITES HONDURAS.

Captain of the Cleveland Carries Recognition Note, It Is Said.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Aug. 13.—A dispatch from Honduras says that the Captain of the United States cruiser Cleveland, accompanied by several subordinates and the American Minister, has visited President Lopez Gutierrez to deliver to him personally an autographed letter by President Wilson recognizing the present Government of Honduras. The members of the party were quoted as saying they were bringing special greetings from the Secretary of the United States Navy.

The Captain and crew of the Cleveland have recently been the guests of honor at a number of demonstrations.

MISS PERKINS TO MARRY ECUADORIAN

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Perkins Engaged to Senor Luis A. Pensherrera.

HE IS LEGATION ATTACHE

Miss Gertrude Wells, Professor's Daughter, Betrothed to Danford Barney, Poet.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Perkins of New York and Genoa, Italy, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Argenta Beard Perkins, to Señor Luis Antonio Pensherrera, who is attached to the Legation of Ecuador.

Miss Perkins is with her parents at Spring Lake, N. J., where the marriage is to take place, on Aug. 28, at the Essex and Sussex Hotel. She is a granddaughter of the late Colonel Oliver Thomas Beard, and a niece of Anson McCook Beard of this city and Tuxedo Park, and of William Mosgrove Beard of this city. Her sister, Olive Perkins, married in January, 1919, Marchese Stefano d'Amico, in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins spend much of their time in Genoa, and have spent several Winters in Washington.

Wells—Barney.

Professor and Mrs. H. L. Wells of New Haven, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Wells, to Danford Barney, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Newton Barney of Farmington, Conn.

Miss Wells was engaged in Red Cross work in New York during the war, and has since been a student of landscape gardening.

Mr. Barney was graduated from Yale, class of '16. He went overseas in August, 1917, as photographer to the Yale Field Unit. He is the author of two volumes of poetry, and has contributed to English and American periodicals. He is a member of the Authors' League.

Pfluecke—Haig.

The marriage is announced of Miss Ethel May Haig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haig of 461 West 140th Street, and Albert Richard Pfluecke of Rochester, N. Y., which took place last Saturday in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in West 142d Street. The Rev. David Petry officiated.

THRONG AT 'OLD WHITE' BALL

Col. and Mrs. Robert E. Lee Lead Grand March at White Sulphur.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 13.—One of the most interesting social events in the history of this resort was the mid-Summer german, held at the "Old White" last night. The dancers were visitors from all over the country, and ranged from 14 to 87 years of age. Many are well known in the social world.

There was a patriotic touch to the affair. The famous old ballroom, upon whose floor four Presidents, many statesmen and diplomats and two heirs to the British throne have danced, was decorated with patriotic colors. The women carried silk American flags.

The grand march was led by Colonel and Mrs. Robert E. Lee. The first figure group was led by Miss Anna Louise Warmack of St. Louis and Colonel Gene Kelly of Atlanta. The second was headed by Miss Mary Taylor of Richmond, Va., and William Keyser.

Among those present were former Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, Colonel John T. Lumkin, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Hinsman, Atlanta; Miss Stella Benedict, New York; Miss Elaine Sherer, Summit, N. J.; Miss Carroll Smith Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ripley, New York; Willoughby Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn of New York.

PASTOR HAS RABBIT'S FOOT.

Couple, Seeking to Dispel Friday the 13th Jinx, Wed on a Rock.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—To dispel the Friday the 13th jinx, Miss Jennie B. Robinson, of New York, and Frank G. Lenox of Sheepshead stood on a rock located at the boundary of three States today to be married. The Rev. A. A. Walker, holding a rabbit's foot in one hand and a prayer book in the other, performed the ceremony.

The rock is located in the Delaware River at Port Jervis, where New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey come together.

A. Pezzi Comes from Italy to Wed.

Amadeo Pezzi, a member of the firm of Pezzi & Co. of Milan, the largest hat manufacturers in Italy, arrived in New York yesterday on his way to Los Angeles to marry Miss Renée Canet, the daughter of a wealthy merchant, a native of France, who settled in California many years ago. Mario Pezzi, brother of the bridegroom-elect, arrived with him from Italy and will be best man at the wedding. After the ceremony the couple will leave for Italy via England and France.

Benefit for Soldiers' Rest Aug. 18.

A benefit entertainment for Soldiers' Rest, a convalescent farm in Virginia, will be held Aug. 18 at the home of Alfred M. Hoyt, Southampton, L. I. Miss Ethel Barrymore is to speak, and John Charles Thomas, Romaine Simmons, Marian Kirby and Nonette will also appear on the program. Mrs. Francis Rogers is Chairman of the affair, and many society women of Southampton and Easthampton are acting as patronesses.

Mrs. Ignatius Radley Entertains.

Mrs. Ignatius Radley entertained at dinner last night at the Astor, prior to sailing today on the Vestris for a trip of several months in South America. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Heller of this city and New Canaan, Conn., and Hugo Vogel will accompany Mrs. Radley on the trip, returning late in December. Mrs. Radley is the daughter of the late William C. Muschenheim.

Their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Six sons, five daughters and thirty-three grandchildren will attend the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Max Sincoff, which they will celebrate today at Bedford Mansion, Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. Sincoff reside at 23 Broome Street, Brooklyn.

85 TRACTION MEN STRIKE.

Entire Force of the Manhattan & Queens Line Quits.

Sixty motormen and conductors and twenty-five shopmen, the entire force of the Manhattan & Queens Traction Corporation, struck last midnight and the car which left Fifty-ninth Street and Second Avenue, Manhattan, at that hour was the last to pass over the road. The strike was decided upon at a meeting in Long Island City after a fruitless conference with W. B. Duncan, general manager for the receivers.

The men demanded an increase of 11 cents an hour and Duncan offered 5. They refused to compromise.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, who was to have sailed this week for Europe, has delayed her trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Musgrave Hyde have taken the Charles J. Gould house at 35 East Sixty-third Street for their Winter home.

Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer and her son, H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., who have gone to Newport for the season, are visiting in Boston at the Hotel Somerset.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry, who are at Saratoga, entertained at dinner on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Edward W. Robinson has as her guests her sister, Mrs. Joseph M. Gazzam and J. M. Gazzam, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Thomas H. Howard will spend the Winter in New York, having taken Mrs. George Jarvis Geer's residence at 23 East Sixty-fourth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus F. Kountze are touring the West, and are spending August at the Broadmoor, Colorado Springs.

Washington.

The President and Mrs. Wilson took a ride late yesterday afternoon in a touring car, spending two hours motoring through Rock Creek Park and some of the picturesque roads in that vicinity.

The Argentine Ambassador, Dr. Lebreton, left yesterday for New York, where he will spend the week-end.

The Minister from Norway, Mr. Bryn, is spending a few days in Washington and will return to Skyland, Virginia, to join Mme. Bryn and their children early next week.

Mrs. Ormsby McCammon and her son, Joseph McCammon, 3d, returned to Washington yesterday from Beverly Farms, Mass., where Mrs. McCammon has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter for the last six weeks. Her son has been at North Adams, Mass., and joined her there for the trip home.

Lenox.

One hundred of the younger society set in Lenox and Stockbridge attended Friday, the 13th, informal dance at the Lenox Club last night. Among those who gave dinners before the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frothingham for their daughter, Miss Helen Frothingham, and Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson, Jr., who have Miss Elizabeth Thorndike of Boston as their guest.

Chauncey M. Depew, who is at the Aspinwall Hotel, spoke to an audience of 400 men and women at the Park Club in Pittsfield last night on "Controlling Influences of Life." It was his sixth annual address there.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana De Peyster Whipple of New York are staying with Mr. and Mrs. José V. Onativia at the Aspinwall Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pearsall Field of Short Hills, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. Hotchkiss, Jr., of Rye, N. Y., also are there.

Harrison Follansbee of Boston is the guest of Yates Satterlee at Sunny Ridge in Lenox.

Mrs. William V. Draper and son, John H. Draper of Fishkill, N. Y., are guests of Mrs. Kingsland Bradford in Lenox.

Misses Laura P. Curtis, Grace Bristed and Anna R. Alexandre are in charge of the Lenox end of the Salvation Army drive to raise $35,000 for a new army home in Pittsfield.

Newport.

The Summer colonies of Jamestown and Narragansett Pier were more prominent in both the morning and afternoon tennis gatherings at the Casino yesterday than on the previous days of the tournament. A luncheon party was given at the Casino Grill by Mr. and Mrs. Webster K. Wetherell of Philadelphia who have a Summer home at Jamestown.

Following the morning matches the players were the luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James on board their yacht Aloha. There was plenty of other entertaining yesterday in which the tennis players figured prominently. Mrs. Frank W. Frueauff gave a luncheon at her Summer home and Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge had a large party of luncheon guests at the Muenchinger White House. Gustav J. S. White gave a luncheon party at the Clambake Club.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice gave a dinner last night at Miramar, Mr. and Mrs. William Fahnestock gave a dinner at Gravel Court and Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Taller gave a large dinner party at Honeysuckle Lodge, numbering among their guests the Italian Ambassador and Baroness Romano Avezgana.

A great number of the dinner guests later in the evening went to the Elms where Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Berwind gave their first ball of the Summer. This was a brilliant affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Harriman and Mr. and Mrs. R. Horace Gallatin were also among those who gave dinner parties last night, as did Mr. and Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames and Mrs. W. Watts Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rhinelander 2d., who arrived yesterday morning for a stay at Hill Top were present at tennis yesterday.

Registered at the Casino yesterday were Lieut. R. C. Adams, U. S. N., Percy Kirland, John H. Prentice, C. H. Stevens, S. N. Conly, T. S. Havemeyer of New York, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Lammers, R. H. I. Gammell, Lawrence Smith Butler 2d., and Daniel H. Morris, Jr.

A mixed doubles tennis tournament has been started and in the opening round Mrs. Lorillard Spencer and F. C. Baggs beat Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Mahan, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. L. G. Morris and Richard Hinckley beat Miss Florence Loew and Hugh Kelleher, 4—6, 7—5, 6—4; Mrs. William Goadby Loew and C. M. Bull, Jr., beat Mrs. Nathaniel Niles and Major E. B. Harran, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. Barger Wallach and Commander C. C. Gill beat Miss Baldwin and Harold Godshall, 6—4, 4—6, 6—4.

General Jeaquin Castree and his wife and Guzman Blanco of Venezuela are at the New Cliffs.

Bretton Woods, N. H.

W. A. Tilden, who lately won the tennis championship at Wimbledon, England, visited the Mount Washington Hotel at Bretton Woods, coming from Bethlehem, where he will pass some time, and is looking for tennis players here for a match on the Mount Washington courts. A tennis tourney starts today at the Mount Washington and many are arriving here and at Bethlehem for the annual golf tournaments to be held at the Bretton Woods Golf Club and the Bethlehem Country Club on Aug. 17.

Mrs. Harsen Rhodes of New York, who is spending the Summer at the Profile House, has been joined at the Kimball cottage by her father, David P. Kimball of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Robinson of New York are spending the season at the Profile.

The Waumbek Golf Club at Jefferson announces its annual open championship for Aug. 23 to 28, preceded by a farmers' dance for the visiting golfers.

Miss Louisa Tilton of Mount Vernon has joined Mr. and Mrs. William S. Tilton at the Crawford House. A masquerade ball on the evening of Aug. 21 will mark the zenith of the Crawford season. New Yorkers at the Crawford are Mr. and Mrs. George Field, Mrs. Harriet Stewart and Miss I. Arnold.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippincott of Riverton, N. J., are entertaining their nephews, Edward and Richard Lippincott, at their cottage at Jefferson.

Mrs. J. Sturdivant Read of Brooklyn will arrive this week at the Mount Washington Hotel, where Dr. Read will join her later.

Albert C. Bedford, President of the Standard Oil Company, who paid a short visit here earlier in the season, will return this week accompanied by Mrs. Bedford to spend some time at the Mount Washington. Miss Florence Bronson of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Sayles of Irvington-on-the-Hudson are of the week's arrivals.

Fritz Achelis of New York has joined his family at the Mount Washington Hotel.

Gerald C. Cudahy of Chicago is spending a few days here.

TENNESSEE ASKED BY WHITE TO RATIFY

DOREMUS MANAGES IN WEST

Lansing Offers to Go on Stump for Ticket—Roosevelt Headquarters to be Opened Here.

The Democratic National Committee is strongly in favor of the Tennessee Legislature ratifying the Suffrage amendment and through its Chairman, George White, has sent a telegram to Seth Walker, Speaker of the House of Representatives at Nashville, congratulating the Senate upon voting for the amendment and urging the lower house to do the same. The telegram read:

"It is most pleasing to the Democracy of the nation to know that the Senate of the old volunteer State of Andrew Jackson has by such an overwhelming vote ratified the Suffrage Amendment. As Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, I urge you, as Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Legislature of Tennessee, on behalf of the Democrats of the nation to express to the Democratic members of the House the sincere hope that they will vote for the ratification of this amendment, thus bringing success to this great movement and enfranchising the women of America."

It was announced yesterday that former Representative Frank T. Doremus of Detroit has been selected to manage the Chicago headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, from which campaign affairs for all the Western territory will be administered. Mr. Doremus has been active in the Democratic campaign since the San Francisco Convention. He will begin his new duties immediately.

New York City headquarters for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, will be established at the national campaign headquarters in the Grand Central Palace. Charles A. McCarthy of Washington, who was secretary to Mr. Roosevelt when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, will be in charge.

Senator Pat Harrison, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, said he had a letter from Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, offering to take the stump for the Democratic ticket. Others who have volunteered for like service are Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, who led the fight for the League of Nations in the Senate; Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Martin W. Littleton and Solon Fieldman, former Socialist, who arranged the Carnegie Hall debate between Samuel Gompers and Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas. Former National Chairman Homer S. Cummings will make several speeches for the ticket, the first to be at Concord, N. H., early in September.

There was a conference at Democratic headquarters yesterday between Senator Harrison, Assistant Secretary of State Breckenridge Long of Missouri and National Treasurer Wilbur Marsh. It was stated that the outlook for Democratic success in Missouri was very promising. A stiff Senatorial fight will be made there. Mr. Long is the Democratic candidate. He said the so-called "slush fund" disclosures regarding the Lowden pre-primary campaign were not helping the Republicans in Missouri.

CHARGE BIG WHISKY FRAUD.

Over 100,000 Cases Alleged to Have Been Unlawfully Dealt In.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 13.—Jacob Legum, a former wholesale liquor dealer, and Louis B. Siess, a broker, were arrested this afternoon charged with participation in alleged extensive illicit liquor operations in Baltimore in connection with which twenty-five other men have been arrested. Warrants were also sworn out before United States Commissioner Supplee for the arrest of several other persons, including a man who has large business interests in Norfolk, Va., and a Pittsburgh man.

According to the warrants, whisky to an aggregate amount of over 100,000 cases was unlawfully dealt in by the defendants in combination with others, through its alleged withdrawal from bond in the names of various distilleries, local and out of town. The Pittsburgh man is alleged to have withdrawn the whisky he is charged with handling from both Pittsburgh and Buffalo distilleries.

QUIT WIFE, NOT HER TABLE.

"Desertion" Plea Wins, Though Husband Lives in Wife's Home.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—A husband may board with his wife, eat at her table and still be charged with deserting her, according to an opinion just filed here by Special Master Child in which a decree of divorce is recommended for the wife.

Mrs. Andreas Blum of 43 Jacobs Street sued her husband for divorce on the ground of desertion. It was brought out in the testimony of the woman that her husband took a room in her home after he had previously deserted her and their three children. She said her husband ate his meals at the same table with her and the children, but only spoke to them when absolutely necessary. She said her husband was an inventor, and was able to "make everything but money to pay the rent and other expenses."

POST OFFICE SITE SETTLED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Forty-second Street property owners are evidently doomed to disappointment in their efforts to have the Post Office Department build the Times Square branch nearer than is contemplated by the leasing of a site for the building, in West Thirty-eighth Street.

Assistant Postmaster General John C. Koons said this afternoon that he had received a telegram from a committee of New York men, asking for the change to a location nearer Forty-second Street proper, but said that he had replied that the contract already made for the site and building was binding and could not be altered.

TENNESSEE SENATE RATIFIES SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Catt tonight in a formal statement characterized it as "an absolute fabrication."

Senator Chandler said he had based his remarks on a published interview with Mrs. Catt in which she was quoted as having said "suffrage knows no bias of race, color or sex."

Wilson Makes New Appeal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Wilson took a personal hand in the suffrage fight tonight by telegraphing the Speaker of the Tennessee House of Representatives urging that the Federal suffrage amendment be passed. The President's telegram follows:

> Hon. Seth Walker, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Nashville, Tenn.:
>
> May I not, in the interest of national harmony and vigor and of the establishment of the leadership of America in all liberal policies, express the earnest hope that the House over which you preside will concur in the suffrage amendment.
> WOODROW WILSON.

Suffrage leaders were delighted tonight by the action of the President, especially as it follows repeated endeavors by Governor Cox, the Democratic Presidential nominee. Some of the suffragists said they were convinced of the sincerity of the Democratic Party toward suffrage.

Miss Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, was exceedingly pleased by the President's telegram. She said tonight that the vote in the Tennessee Senate today showed that both Governor Cox and Senator Harding had evidently tried to do all they could.

Information reaching suffrage headquarters was that of the four Senators voting against the amendment today, and the four absentees, who were also counted as "Nays," one was a Republican and the other seven were supporters of neither Governor Cox or Governor Roberts of Tennessee, and were therefore not susceptible to pressure from the two leaders.

It was also said that the anti-suffragists in Nashville had abandoned their efforts to try to defeat the amendment on a direct vote in the Tennessee House on Monday, and, instead, were now trying to get House members to go home so that no quorum would be present when the vote came. Suffrage leaders here considered this change of tactics a very hopeful sign.

This afternoon leaders of the militant suffragists communicated with Governor Cox and asked him to do all he could to secure favorable action in the House on Monday. Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political Chairman of the Woman's Party, arranged to hold a conference with Governor Cox. She will remain in Ohio throughout the Tennessee session.

GAIN FOR SUFFRAGE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Senate Committee 7 to 1 for Favorable Report—Gov. Bickett Calls for Ratification.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 13.—Ratification advocates held the advantage tonight in the North Carolina fight over ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment as a result of developments during the day, which included a special message by Governor Bickett urging ratification and a favorable report on a ratification resolution by a Senate committee.

Although the victory of suffrage supporters in committee appeared overwhelming, a vote of 7 to 1 for a favorable report being recorded, the action merely marks the beginning of an expected bitter contest. The suffrage leaders were given new hope by the Governor's plea, but the Executive's statement that he was personally against the Federal amendment served to bolster up antagonists of the suffrage movement.

While leaders of the suffrage group in the Senate were confident of ultimate victory in their chamber, they said frankly that no such ratio of affirmative votes as was recorded in committee could be maintained on the final roll call. Anti-suffragists claim defeat of any ratification measure in the House, sixty-three of the 120 members of which sent a telegram to the Tennessee Legislature asking defeat of the suffrage resolution.

Action on the resolution in the Senate will probably come Tuesday. A vote is expected quickly once the question reaches the floor. Few speeches are expected, for both sides believed tonight that the lineup in the upper House has been determined. The suffrage proponents claimed victory, but the antis insisted they still may check the resolution without it reaching the House by breaking into the suffrage strength in the Senate.

From a partisan political standpoint the situation is badly mixed. The suffrage resolution was introduced in the Senate by Senator Scales, Democrat, of Greensboro, while in the lower House the Republicans made good their threat to force the issue and Representative Williams, Cabarrus, the Republican leader, set the suffrage machinery in motion with a resolution of ratification. It was immediately referred to a committee.

Leaders of the opposition in the House said they expected to await action by the Senate before taking up the question in the lower chamber, thus leaving the Williams bill in its pigeonhole.

This was understood to be a move designed to serve a dual purpose, that of killing any Republican claim for credit, and at the same time delaying action sufficiently long for developments in Tennessee either to make action here absolutely necessary or permit the shifting of the burden through ratification in the other Southern State.

Governor Bickett in his message declared that women should have "the first right to speak when the issue is whether or not the world shall henceforth be ruled by reason and righteousness or by blood and iron."

The Governor warned his Democratic friends that the most they would be able to do by defeating the ratification resolution would be to delay "for six months a movement you are powerless to defeat." He urged them to accept it as part "of wisdom and of grace," adding that within the period of a few months "some other State will open the door and women will enter the political forum."

"We may as well realize, gentlemen," the Governor continued, "that this country is no longer an association of States, but a nation. Whatever a majority of the people of the nation want is going to be the supreme law of the land.

"Whenever I really want to think seriously about State rights I go and muse for an hour over the grave of my Confederate grandfather, for I realize now more keenly than ever before that State rights have passed away.

"In the famous words of Grover Cleveland, 'a condition and not a theory confronts us,' for woman suffrage is at hand."

Reiterating his belief that Federal suffrage could not be avoided, Governor Bickett pointedly asked the Assemblymen whether they would receive the new voters "with a smile or with a frown." He appealed to "the chivalry of the South" to give the women a welcome.

"But there is another and a far deeper reason for not delaying the movement we are powerless to defeat," he said. "The big question that is going to bet settled in the next six months is whether this nation shall enter an alliance with twenty-nine of the most powerful nations on earth for the purpose of forever delivering humanity from the burdens and horrors of war. On that question the women have a sacred right to be heard, for when cannon roar the women furnish the fodder."

Discussing the possible effect of equal suffrage on the race relations in this and other parts of the South, Governor Bickett said:

"For thirty-five years after the civil War all political energies of our people were absorbed in the struggle to maintain in our borders a white government. For this we fought with our backs to the wall, because we believed such a government to be essential to a white civilization. I greatly fear that woman suffrage would force us to fight again the battle for a white government."

TENNESSEE VOTE PLEASES COX

He Expects House to Complete Suffrage Ratification Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13.—News that the Tennessee Senate had ratified the suffrage amendment was received by Governor Cox and gave him great satisfaction. The heavy pro-suffrage vote did not seem such a great surprise to Governor Cox as it had to other observers. He had been in close touch with the situation since he promised the women, soon after his nomination, to give his best efforts to bring about ratification in Tennessee.

Governor Cox expressed the belief that the ratification would be completed in that State when the lower house sat again on Monday.

GOMPERS UNION PLAN INDORSED BY C. F. U.

Former Action Against One Central Labor Body for City Is Reversed.

ALL UNIONS TO TAKE PART

Scheme to Go Through Despite Any Opposition, Federation Official Tells Meeting.

By an almost unanimous vote the Central Federated Union last night reversed its former action and concurred in the plan of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and the Executive Council, for the formation of one central labor organization for the entire city, to be arranged at a mass meeting to be held at the Central Opera House, in East Sixty-seventh Street, on Sept. 10. The original program was for the amalgamation of the existing central bodies, and several speakers insisted that this plan be adhered to and the Gompers plan rejected.

Hugh Frayne, local representative of the American Federation of Labor, who has been detailed by Mr. Gompers to have charge of the arrangements for the mass meeting, put to rest any formidable opposition to the Gompers program when he asserted that the action of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in calling the mass meeting was supreme, and that any opposition would only react to the detriment of forces leading the fight. He asserted that the program for one big central body to supersede the Central Federated Union and the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn would be carried to a successful conclusion, no matter what objection might be raised on the floor of the Central Federated Union. At no time during the discussion, which lasted two hours, did the meeting get away from the Gompers, or conservative, element, and it was evident from the beginning that the vote would be to adopt the mass meeting plan.

William Kohn, Vice President of the Central Federated Union, and Chairman of the American Labor Party, and Abraham Lefkowitz, delegate from the Teachers' Union, led the opposition. They insisted that the amalgamation be carried out in accordance with their understanding of the original plan for the two existing central bodies to merge. They declared it unfair to allow the labor unions outside of these two central Bodies, which heretofore have taken no interest in a central organization, to come in and have a voice in the formation of a new body.

William F. Kehoe, one of the leaders for the Gompers plan, denied that any one wanted to disrupt the Central Federated Union. He said there was no hidden motive, but a sincere desire on the part of the union leaders to bring all the trades unionists of this city into one great organization to fight the battles of the laboring men against The Merchants' Association, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations, which, he said, had declared for the "open shop." He said that there are about 600 local unions in this city and that all brought under one head would be a great power for the labor movement.

James P. Holland, President of the State Federation of Labor, who returned to the Central Federated Union last night, after being out for two and a half years, backed the Gompers plan. He was received as a delegate from the Eccentric Firemen's Union, No. 56, in place of Timothy Healy, who goes abroad to represent the American Federation of Labor at the British Trades Council.

It has been openly charged on the floor of the Central Federated Union that Mr. Gompers planned the new central labor organization so as to disrupt the Central Federated Union because of its attitude toward the Labor Party.

JESSE A. CRANDALL DEAD.

Jesse Armour Crandall, one of the best-known inventors of children's toys, died yesterday while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jared A. Baldwin, 325 Monroe Street, Brooklyn. He lived with another daughter, Mrs. Esther Kerby, at 403 Madison Street, Brooklyn.

Mr. Crandall was the inventor of more than 200 different toys, many of which were used in educational work. Among his best-known inventions were the Crandall house blocks, with the letters of the alphabet; the cube picture blocks, the three-wheeled velocipede for girls, the spring hobby horse and the self-operating swing. He was born in Westerly, R. I., Oct. 20, 1833. He was first attracted to the invention of toys through his love of children. He retired about five years ago.

Edward Randolph Bowne.

Edward Randolph Bowne, a grandson of the late Walter Bowne, one-time Mayor of New York, died yesterday at his home in Garwood, N. J., in his sixty-fourth year. He had been a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and was widely known as a horseman. For some years he was a judge of trotters at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden. In 1888 he championed two of the world's best trotters—John R. Gentry and Robert J. Mr. Bowne was born in Flushing, a son of Simeon R. Bowne and Emma Bowne, and was educated in the public schools. He left Flushing shortly after the death of his wife fifteen years ago. He is survived by his daughter, Miss Amy Bowne of New Orleans.

Professor Charles Schultz.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 13.—Professor Charles Schultz, aged 80 years, noted as a musician and teacher of music in the Middle West, and a professor of German at Transylvania University here some years ago, died in this county today after a year's illness. He is survived by three children, one of whom is Carl Schultz, cartoonist, of New York. Professor Schultz was born in Cassel, Hesse, Germany, and came to America when 15 years old.

Winans Died of Fractured Skull.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The death of Walter Winans, prominent American and English horseman, who collapsed and died yesterday while participating in a race at Parsloes Park, was due to a fracture of the skull suffered when he fell from his sulky, according to a coroner's verdict rendered today. It has been generally assumed that Mr. Winans died as a result of natural causes.

BISHOP BRENT HEADS CONGRESS OF CHURCHES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 12.—The World Congress of Christian Churches, known as the Faith and Order Congress, opened in Geneva today. Thirty-five countries were represented by over 150 delegates, including several well known United States clergymen and Bishops from Great Britain, Ireland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Russia, France, Germany, Armenia, Georgia and Czechoslovakia. Presbyterian churches, Methodists, the Society of Friends and all Trinitarian churches are represented except the Roman Catholics, who were invited to be represented, but declined.

Bishop Brent of New York was elected President and Mr. Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., General Secretary.

In his opening address as President Bishop Brent said that never in the history of Christendom had such a congress assembled. They hoped by this conference to attain greater unity of church government throughout the world and draw Christian communions closer together. The idea of the congress originated ten years ago in the United States, he said, but owing to the war it could not meet sooner.

Bishop Brent concluded his impressive address as follows:

"The moment of our meeting is indeed a critical one in the world's history. We stand in the midst of a bewildered and shattered world. We can hardly say what a day will bring forth."

LAMBETH CONFERENCE INDORSED THE LEAGUE

Anglican Prelates Commended Action of United States and Canada on Prohibition.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Emphatic indorsement of the League of Nations as "essentially Christian" was given by the recent Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church, attended by Bishops and Archbishops from all parts of the world, according to an official report issued today. It was urged that the peace of the world, no less than Christian principles, demanded the admission of Germany and other nations into the League at the earliest possible time.

Concern was expressed by the conference over the disease and distress prevailing in large parts of Europe and Asia. The Bishops called for energetic action for relief.

A resolution of "deep interest" in the prohibition movement was adopted, and the action of the United States and Canada was commended "to the earnest and sympathetic attention of the Christian Church throughout the world."

Another resolution affirmed lifelong indissoluble marriage as the Christian principle and standard, though allowing a national church to make special provision when the ground on which dissolution is sought is adultery.

PLAN TO TRADE IN BRICKS.

Danes Are Willing to Exchange Them for American Coal.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 13.—Negotiations were carried on yesterday in the Council of Industry between representatives of the Danish brick industry and American Representative Jeppesen, sent by the Danish Consul General at New York, about the exportation of bricks to the United States. In return, Denmark would receive coal, not only compensating for the fuel used for making bricks, but a considerable surplus as well, so that ships carrying bricks across would return with coal cargoes.

In the question as to 50,000,000 bricks, at present the chief difficulty seems to be that the bricks used here are of a different size from those used in America.

FAMOUS MARINE RETIRES.

Sergeant Dan Kelly, Record Medal Man, to Work in Bank.

First Sergeant Dan Kelly of the Marine Corps, said to be the only man who ever served in the United States military forces who won two Congressional Medals of Honor, has retired from active service among the "leathernecks," and has been placed in the reserve. Wherever there are marines, ashore or afloat, in China or in Haiti, the name of "Sergeant Dan" is remembered as that of one of the famous soldiers of the corps.

Sergeant Kelly's first Congressional Medal was won when the Americans took their part in quelling the Boxer Rebellion, and he won his second at the capture of Fort Riviere in Haiti. In a brief period of service in France with the marines he found time to win three other medals, the Medaille Militaire, the Croix de Guerre, and the Distinguished Service Cross.

It is the intention of Sergeant Dan to try the banking business in this city. He wants an inside job, although he says he would not be adverse to guarding a payroll once in awhile, if there was certainty of a good scrap.

LUMBER ECONOMY.

How to Make the Most of Timber Pointed Out by Forest Service.

It is a mistake to saw up choice logs of white oak, ash, cherry and yellow poplar for rough uses at home or to use clear black walnut for gate boards or split up white oak butts for fenceposts. This fact is emphasized in many ways in a new publication, Forestry and the Farm Income, issued by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Farmers are told that many valuable logs go into crossties when they would bring the owner much more if sold as saw logs. Likewise, large numbers of rapid-growing trees are cut which produce only one small tie, whereas if left to grow for from three to five years they would yield more than double the profit. To avoid making such mistakes owners of farm woodland should familiarize themselves with the uses for which each kind of timber is best adapted, says the publication.

Timber that is cut in the late Spring and Summer months should be handled with special care to avoid injury because freshly cut wood is then more likely to be attacked by insects and fungi than during the colder months. Seasoning proceeds more rapidly during the warmer season any may cause excessive checking, which is not beneficial to the timber. If rightly handled, posts, poles and logs may be cut at any season without their durability being affected. In no case should wood be allowed to lie in direct contact with the ground. The opportunity for insect attack and decay can be reduced to a minimum by peeling the timbers and open piling them off the ground in a shaded but dry place. This, however, does not retard checking of the wood.

Logs are sometimes stored under water in the hot season to prevent blue stain, checking, insect attack and decay. Painting the ends of logs with a yellow ochre or barn paint will very materially retard injury by end checking. Painting peeled timbers with creosote will prevent sap stain and decay.

PROF. T. B. DEXTER DEAD.

Former American History Instructor and Secretary of Yale Was 77.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 13.—Professor Franklin Bowditch Dexter, retired, of Yale University, who died early today, was for many years professor of American History, Assistant Librarian and Secretary of the corporation.

Professor Dexter was known throughout the world for historical research and contributed much data to American colonial history. His important contribution to university history was his volumes on Yale biographies and annals "covering the first hundred years of Yale's history."

He was born at Fairhaven, Mass., Sept. 11, 1842, and was graduated from Yale in 1861. He became tutor there in 1864. He was Learned Professor of American History from 1877 to 1888 and Corporation Secretary from 1869 to 1899. Some weeks ago he contracted a cold which developed into the illness which brought his death. Mrs. Dexter, and a daughter, wife of Professor Henry Laurens, survive.

GORGAS'S BODY IN STATE.

Brief Services for General's Family Held in Church of Epiphany.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The body of the late Major Gen. William Crawford Gorgas, former Surgeon General of the army, whose death occurred in London, lies in state today at the parish house of the Church of the Epiphany here. It arrived in Washington last night from New York and was escorted to the parish house by two troops of cavalry. Brief services were held for members of the immediate family.

The body will lie in state until Monday, when burial will be made in Arlington National Cemetery.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 13.—On Friday, the 13th, American golfers proved themselves a step behind Britain's best in the greatest national open championship ever held in this country. On Friday, the 13th, that giant of the links, Ted Ray, demonstrated that age has nothing to do with golf. With all his 42 years Ray turned back the assault of American homebreds, repulsed the second line of American defense, composed of the foreign-born but naturalized golfers, and turned over to England for the second time in twenty years the greatest golfing honor which this country offers. His winning total for the seventy-two holes was 295.

Walter Hagen, the defending champion, made a disappointing effort to stop him; Chick Evans came closer to the achievement, but failed; Bobby Jones, only 18 years old, was not equal to it, and Leo Diegel, the sensational 21-year-old professional, remained a hero of the great event, but failed by a single stroke to hold the victor, as did Jack Burke, native of Quakertown, who is now teaching golf at St. Paul. That list exhausted the supply of homebreds, but even the reserves among the hyphenated Americans ran out. Jock Hutchison, leader on the first day, tied for second at 296, one stroke behind the great Ted Ray.

Three strokes away from the top was Barnes, tied with Evans at 298. Four strokes away was Willie MacFarlane, the young Scot at Port Washington, L. I., who finished ahead of all New Yorkers, including Hagen. Bob MacDonald was next with 300.

Vardon Fights to End.

And how about Vardon, golf's greatest stylist, and who won the American national open back in 1900 at Chicago? Vardon, leader at the end of the third round, couldn't stand the heat of the day on the Inverness course. Moreover, he regained only one shot when he wasted two, but fighting with a grimness that surprised even his British colleague, Ray, he held on and finished in a tie for the runner-up place with Diegel, Burke and Hutchison at 296.

America needed a Francis Ouimet today just as badly as it did in 1913 at Brookline when after tying both Vardon and Ray in the national open with 304 strokes, the then 20-year-old amateur trounced both the Britons in that memorable play-off.

The setting for today's grand finale eclipsed all attendant circumstances surrounding a national open of the past. The weather for the fourth straight day of the tourney was made to order, with the hot sun, which all golfers like; with a course in the best of condition, and with a throng of some ten thousand spectators on hand for the event. So steadfastly did those in the field treasure their chances that only three of the seventy qualifiers withdrew, and with the great throng on hand from early morning each pair had its following, large or small.

The day opened with the tourney half over and with thirty-six holes to play. Hutchison led with 145, with Diegel and Barnes next at 146, and Hagen, Vardon and Ray following at 147. Off they started with fully half the gallery expecting a play-off, so closely bunched with the leaders, but it was this Vardon, 50 years old on May 7 last, who, with a briar pipe clinched between his teeth as he played along with Jim Barnes, totally oblivious of the increasing gallery behind, gave the entire tournament a new twist by noontime after he had finished his third round and brought the event to the fifty-fourth hole.

Briton Forges Into Lead.

Vardon's round in 71 shot him into the lead and Hutchison, who had a morning circuit in 74, found himself trailing the Briton by a single stroke instead of leading him. Young Diegel, with a third round completed in 73 strokes, was tied for second with Hutchison at 219. Next came Ted Ray all alone at 220, and then followed a quartet at 222, Barnes, Bobby Jones, Eddie Loos, Bob MacDonald. By noon today Walter Hagen was counted out, not even Al Wallace, Dickie Martin or any of his other stalwart henchmen conceding him the ghost of a chance, for he was at 224, six behind Vardon.

By the turn in the afternoon round, or at the sixty-third hole, the whole aspect was again changed, for instead of being a hot favorite, as he had been at noon, Harry Vardon was in a position where he had to fight harder than before. Ted Ray had finished his outward half of the last round in thirty-five strokes, one under par, and had a total for the sixty-three holes of 255, whereas Vardon had 254. Ray was catching up to him. At this point Diegel had 256, Hutchison 258 and Jim Barnes, the only other possibility since Hagen was getting weaker and tossing away his last chances, had 260.

The acres and acres which compose the Inverness course were overrun by frenzied mobs of spectators. They would follow Vardon for a couple of holes, see him lose a stroke, then transfer their allegiance to Ray or to Diegel. As Vardon's deft touches became fewer and as he took sixes on par five holes and fives when he should have had fours, his great following began to desert him and flocked to Diegel. The young Chicogoan, the last of the home breds, then became the gallery's favorite. Golfers actually approached hysterics as they watched every shot Diegel made, held their breath while he putted, cheered when he drove straight down the course, and prayed that a break would turn in his favor and give him a couple of birdies.

Several Disastrous Misses.

Vardon began to miss shots soon after the turn for home. On the sixty-sixth hole, one of par five, he had a short drive, played his second short of the brook, and failed to gain the green on his third, eventually taking six to hole out. And then he took three putts on the short hole, losing another stroke.

Ray's opportunity was now presented to him, and he accepted it. Playing the sixty-ninth hole, or the fifteenth of the last round, Ray knew that by getting even fours to the finish he could beat Vardon and possibly Diegel, for couriers reported that he was on even terms with the young homebred. Ray, incidentally, never lost faith in Vardon and continually reminded his friends that Harry was never out until his last putt.

This fifteenth hole, however, not only was costly to Ray, but would have lost him the championship except for Diegel's errors on the same green when he came up a few pairs later. Ray sliced his second shot the least bit, and it rolled across a road and to rough grass to the right, just short of the green. His chipout was a complete failure, the worst kind of a flub, for it barely skimmed across the road, certainly not going ten feet, and leaving him still short. He chipped on, but was a good nine feet short of the cup. Ray never takes time for his putts, and did not waste any here, but he was rewarded when this nine-footer sank in the hole, giving him the five.

Big Ted took a par four on the sixteenth, and the excitement mounted higher. There never was any tenser interest in a golf finish. He lost another stroke on the seventeenth, and again Diegel had a glorious opportunity, but missed it.

Par Four Turns the Trick.

On the seventeenth, or actually, the seventy-first hole, Ray's second shot carried across the green and came to rest in a ditch behind. He chipped out short, the ball stopping about eight feet from the flag. Ray missed this and was forced to take a five. He had one more hole to play, and knew a par four on the treacherous Inverness eighteenth would put him at the head of the field, with only Diegel to account for.

Ray, normally modest, had all the confidence in the world as he stood on the last tee ready to drive. "I'll get the four," he promised his caddy. That's exactly what he did and the scorer put a 295 opposite his name. Diegel, all this time playing several pairs behind Ray, was continually missing opportunities to win the championship. There were at least two reasons. At one hole Elmer Loving, a Detroit pro, ran up to report to Diegel that even fours for the rest of the round would win. The youngster here showed his only burst of temper. Slamming his club to the ground he announced to Loving and all others that he didn't care what scores any one had, but that he was playing his own game. It was the right spirit.

The critics place some blame on still another well-meaning friend of Diegel. This is Chick Evans, who caddied for him on the last nine holes. Diegel appeared to receive altogether too much coaching from Evans, who event went so far as to sight his putts for him and give advice on the greens.

Does Diegel No Good.

Diegel, a rather nervous lad, certainly gained nothing from this tutoring. He topped his drive on the fourteenth, the ball barely rolling over the bank in front of the green. His second reached a trap, his third short of the green. His approach hit the pin and bounded six feet further and he missed this putt, taking a six.

On the fifteenth he lost another stroke by playing his second short and taking three to gain the green, and he wasted still another shot on the sixteenth, when his second was deep in a trap.

His chances for winning outright were now gone, but he still had the opportunity to tie Ray by playing better than par golf. A three and a four for the last two holes, both par fours, would have tied, and he very nearly achieved this three on the difficult seventeenth. His second carried to the green and left him with a downhill putt about twelve feet long. He studied it carefully for five minutes before taking his stance. The putt missed by a fraction of an inch, and he had to take his four.

This failure almost unnerved the youngster completely. As the putt rimmed the cup he threw up his arms, physically fatigued under the terrific strain, and had to pull himself together to continue. Diegel also gained the eighteenth green in two, but he was left with such a long putt and over the hummocky surface that only a miracle would have dropped it into the cup. The miracle didn't happen, and Diegel was tied for the runner-up honors.

Hutchison Has Chance, Too.

Hutchison, playing with Hagen as the last pair in the field, had the same opportunity, a three and a four to tie, but he, too, took fours on the last two holes.

Big Ted Ray proved himself to be a speechmaker of some note at the final ceremony. In presenting the championship medal, silver bowl, and the purse of $500, Secretary W. D. Vanderpool of the U. S. G. A., after praising the Inverness Club, lauded the linksmanship of Ray and his likable personality, and expressed the hope that Ted would return to defend the title next year. In accepting, Ray bared his gray head and pleased several thousand auditors gathered on the clubhouse piazza with a neat little speech. He expressed his pride and pleasure and then spoke affectionately of his compatriot, Vardon, who, he declared, he thought, even up to the last few holes, would win.

With his exhibition tour of American links still to run more than two months, Ray should become known to many golfers who haven't seen him in action yet. If the title had to go to Great Britain it couldn't have gone to a more picturesque character or to a more likable sportsman.

RAY OF JERSEY GOLF SCHOOL.

Took Up Game at Age of 20—He and Vardon May Stay Here.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Ted Ray is one of the famous Jersey golfers, who have gained increasing fame year after year for Great Britain. This Jersey school has given to the world such linksmen as Harry and Tom Vardon, the two Gaudins and Renouf, as well as Ray.

Ray was born forty-two years ago on the Isle of Jersey, in the British Channel, but, unlike Vardon, he did not begin his golfing career as a caddy. He was an artisan of the little fishing community on the island and did not think about golf until he was 20 years old. His first experience as a clubmaker and professional was in Yorkshire and he spent several seasons at various clubs before accepting a contract with the Oxhey Club, near London, with which he has been for ten years.

In England Ray has won all the titles worth while, although his record never has been as brilliant as those of England's "Big Three," Vardon, J. H. Taylor and James Braid, who have held sixteen British open titles among them, Vardon having won the honor six times. Ray won his only British open in 1912 at Muirfield, and also won the French open championship now held by Walter Hagen. He has also won the great fixture, the "News of the World" tournament, three times. This is the only match play tourney for pros on the other side and is regarded by most critics as carrying the professional title in such play. During the war when no pro open tourneys were held for five years, the "News of the World" tourney was considered its substitute in importance. Two of Ray's victories were won on the last hole.

Ray made his first and only other invasion of America in 1913, when he finished in a tie at 304 strokes with Francis Ouimet and Vardon on the Brookline, Mass., links in the national open championship, but he was beaten by both in the memorable play-off, the scores being: Ouimet, 72; Vardon, 77; Ray, 78.

Ray arrived in this country this year on July 17 and began his series of exhibition matches with Vardon on the following day at the Siwanoy Country Club. He has been consistently a sensational putter and his record to date shows that he has averaged a fraction over 73 strokes for each round, whereas Vardon has taken more than 75 strokes each.

With his aversion to knickerbockers and his inexplicable fondness for wearing the hottest woolen golfing garments and often a felt hat on the hottest days, he has become one of the most picturesque players ever seen on an American course. He is never without his black brier pipe, and even today on the eighteenth hole, as he faced the necessity for two putts over a distance of twenty-five feet to win the title, he calmly knocked out dead ashes, refilled his pipe and lighted it before going about the business of finishing his round.

It was said tonight that, now that he has won the title, Ray would remain in America this Winter, instead of returning to England in the first week in November as he had planned. There is also the possibility that both he and Vardon may decide to remain on this side permanently. Vardon already has received several alluring offers from Middle Western country clubs to become the professional, and Ray has also been approached on the subject.

RAY AND VARDON OFF AGAIN.

Will Begin Long Swing Around Golf Courses Today.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Ted Ray and his compatriot, Harry Vardon, left here tonight after the close of the national open championship for Cleveland, where they will resume tomorrow their exhibition matches. They have been scheduled to appear at clubs in the Middle West, Canada and the Southern States until Sept. 17, with few intervening days for rest. They will return to the East after the middle of September for matches around New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and under present plans, which are only tentative, they expect to go to the Pacific coast in November and swing around to the Florida resort links later in the Winter.

Their revised schedule, starting tomorrow with the Cleveland engagement, follows:

Aug. 14, Shaker Heights Club, Cleveland; Aug. 15, Park Club, Buffalo; 16, Scarboro Golf and Country Club, Toronto; 17, Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland; 18, Mound Builders Country Club, Newark, Ohio; 19, Miami Valley Country Club and Dayton Country Club, Dayton, Ohio; 20, Portage Country Club, Akron, Ohio; 21, Skokie Country Club, Chicago; 22, Lake Shore Country Club, Chicago; 23, South Bend Country Club, South Bend, Ind.; 24, Glen View Golf Club, Chicago; 25, White Bear Yacht Club, St. Paul; 27, Elmhurst and Park Ridge Country Clubs, Winnipeg; 28, Winnipeg Country Club; 30, Sioux City Country Club, Sioux City, Iowa; 31 Minnikaha Club, Minneapolis. Sept. 1, Omaha Country Club, Omaha; 2, Mission Hills Country Club, Kansas City; 3, Wichita Country Club, Wichita, Kansas; 4, Kansas City; 5, Sunset Hills Country Club, St. Louis; 7, Birmingham Country Club, Birmingham, Ala.; 8, Capitol City Club, Atlanta; 9, Chattanooga Golf and Country Club, Chattanooga; 10, Cherokee Country Club, Knoxville, Tenn.; 11, Nashville Golf and Country Club, Nashville; 12, Louisville Country Club, Louisville; 13, Cincinnati Country Club, Cincinnati; 14, Kokomo Country Club, Kokomo, Ind.; 15, Scioto Country Club, Columbus, Ohio; 17, C. C. of Virginia, Richmond, Va.

EASTERN PAIR WINS IN NEWPORT FINAL

MATCH RUNS FIVE SETS

Bostonians Triumph at 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3—Losers in Doubles Become Finalists in Singles.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 13.—Although William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin won their way into the final round of the Newport invitation singles at the Casino today, they were unable to win the doubles, in partnership, from Richard Norris Williams, 2d, and Richard Harte, the Easterners capturing the final round of the doubles event from the Californians in five whirlwind sets, scored 6—2, 3—6, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3.

The morning's semi-finals of the individual competition were less interesting than the team thriller of the afternoon, the national champion defeating Willis E. Davis in straight sets 7—5, 6—4, 6—4, while Griffin took three out of four from Roland Roberts, scoring 6—1, 1—6, 7—5, 6—1.

It is doubtful if the Casino courts have ever seen a better doubles match than the great intersectional struggle that was staged in front of the clubhouse this afternoon, and few in the history of American tennis have surpassed it for sustained speed and consistent excitement. An early morning rain had threatened a postponement of the singles, and even with the protection of tarpaulins the two courts were scarcely fast enough for first-class play, but later in the day the club house court had dried out well under a strong sun and the turf for the doubles was all that could be desired.

All Four in Good Form.

All four of the players engaged in the final were close to their best form, with Williams as usual leading the way in errors as well as earned points. He finished the greatest number of rallies individually, one way or the other, but was scarcely so impressive all around as was Harte, who brought off an astonishing number of spectacular kills and kept his total of errors unusually low, sending the ball out of court only eight times in the entire match.

On the losing side, Johnston did great work in the early stages of the match, but was less steady toward the close, with Griffin holding up his end nobly. The lesser light of the team was credited with comparatively few clean placements but it was generally his judgment and canny selection of openings that made Johnston's kills possible. On the whole, the former national champions seemed to have better teamwork, but lacked the punch overhead and in the volleys close up. Off the ground Johnston made some terrific forehand drives that literally forced their way to a score but none on the court surpassed Williams in the art of easing the ball across the net at sharp angles. Some of his returns of service, particularly off his back hand, were nothing short of marvelous.

The Bostonians really won the match in the third set, when, after trailing at 3—5, they staged a wonderful rally and took four straight games for the set 7—5. The crucial game here came on Griffin's service, and, when this was upset for the tying count, Harte went on a rampage of spectacular hitting, scoring four earned points in the final game of the set against Johnston's delivery.

Harte Smashes Effectively.

Harte was the right man in the right place at the close of the match also, and it was his tremendous smashing, after a single break in service had brought a winning advantage, that closed the argument with unmistakable finality. The first set was a walkover for the eventual winners, who got their bearings in the first four games, which divided with service, and then proceeded to break through both Griffin and Johnston in turn. Three sensational placements by Williams accounted for the first, and two more by the same player, with a smash by Harte, made the games 5—2. Harte served out the 6—2 set without difficulty.

The second was almost the exact opposite. Although Griffin lost his opening service on his own errors, immediately revenge was secured at the expense of Williams.

In the fourth game Harte lost his service, after netting an easy smash on top of a double fault, and, although Griffin was foot-faulted out of his own delivery, Williams suffered still another break, making the fifth time that service lost in this session. The Californians did not neglect this last opportunity and held their advantage to a 6—3 decision.

Bostonians Pull Up.

Service lost on the first three games of the fourth set also, Johnston and Griffin getting the extra break and going ahead to a lead of 4—1, which they maintained to 5—3. Then came a magnificent pull-up on the part of the Bostonians, which was not halted until the set was theirs at 7—5.

After the interval of rest, however, the Westerners came back with new life, and it did not take them long to square the match with a 6—2 session, breaking through both of their rivals at the outset and running to a lead of 4—0 before losing a game. Service alternated the rest of the way, Harte throwing away the final point by netting an easy smash.

Johnston and Griffin seemed to have the match won when they upset Harte's delivery for a love-game, a perfect lob by Johnston completing the trick. But the national champion immediately lost his own service at love, netting badly, and, when they had exchanged two more whitewash affairs, the score was tied at 3-all. Harte won his delivery for a 4—3 lead, and then began his final struggle for victory.

Brilliant Playing by Harte.

Harte's individual efforts were almost entirely responsibile for the upsetting of Johnston's next service, a remarkable lob from a half-volley finishing the crucial game. With the Williams service to win with, the end was near. Griffin helped his opponents with two errors, but Johnston banged one down the middle of the court that could not be returned. Harte smashed the next one for a 40—15 lead, but Johnston again came through with a winning drive to the server's feet. A short lob proved fatal in the following rally, Harte leaping at the ball like a tiger and hitting it so hard that it bounced all the way over the distant back stop net. It was game, set, and match, 6—3.

The Singles Matches.

Roberts had one great streak of hitting against Griffin, which won him the second set of their match at 6—1. But the rest of the time he made too many errors to give his fast drives, smashes and volleys a real chance to become effective. Griffin not only played the heady tennis for which he is justly famous, but used far more speed than in the past, and should give Johnston a real battle tomorrow in the final round.

Champion Johnston was steady as a rock against Davis, and held him safe most of the way, although he trailed at 3—0 and 4—1 in the opener. After pulling out this set by a count of 7—5 Johnston was never headed, taking the other two by a slightly bigger margin, and keeping a consistent advantage to the finish.

Patterson and Kumagae Are Favorites in Olympic Tennis

Play for Olympic honors in lawn tennis is due to start today on the clay courts of Antwerp and continue for eight days. Gerald Patterson of Australia, former world's champion in singles, and Ichiya Kumagae of Japan, who ranks third among the players of the United States, are the favorites for the individual title. Japan is expected to make a particularly strong showing with Shimidzu and Kashio to back up the efforts of Kumagae. Great Britain's leading pair, J. C. Parke and Major Kingscote, have been unable to accept the invitation to compete at Antwerp, and instead the British team will consist of F. G. Lowe, A. E. Beamish, M. Woosnam and O. G. N. Turnbull. In connection with the British players, it is interesting to note that William T. Tilden, 2d, the new world's champion, before his departure from England, gave it as his opinion that the order of the foremost players of the United Kingdom should be Kingscote, Parke and Lowe. France will probably rely at Antwerp upon the men who represented her in the Davis Cup matches and who are more at home on clay courts than on turf.

High Lights at Inverness.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Aug. 13.—In addition to winning the championship gold medal for himself and the silver bowl for his club —Oxhey—in England, Ray received a purse of $4,500 donated by the U. S. G. A. Ray's proceeds from advertising, sale of clubs and golf accessories, it was estimated, would exceed $20,000 this year.

The cash purses of $300, $200, 150 and $100 for second, third, fourth and fifth places were split among Vardon, Diegel, Hutchison and Burke, each receiving $187.50. Other purses went as follows: Sixth, $90 to Barnes; seventh, $80 to MacFarlane; eighth, $75 to MacDonald; ninth, $70 to Hagen; tenth, $65 to Hackney; eleventh, $60 to McLeod. The twelfth prize of $55 was split among Brady, MacNamara and Rowe. Amateurs do not figure in the award of purses, even though Chick Evans tied for sixth and Bobby Jones for seventh place.

Although Walter Hagen didn't defend his championship successfully, he did win by a wide margin the honors for being the best dressed golfer. Running him a close second were Bob MacDonald, the Scot from Chicago, six feet three inches in height, and Louis Tellier of Boston, five feet four inches short.

The midgets of the tourney were this same Tellier, former champion of France; Freddie McLeod of Washington and Gene Sarazen, the 19-year-old assistant professional of the Fort Wayne Country Club. The biggest men were MacDonald, Long Jim Barnes and Big Ted Ray.

Frank Kelly of Philadelphia, Barnes's personal caddy, has made twelve trips across the continent in the last eight years. In 1910 he walked all the way from Los Angeles to Philadelphia.

Diegel and Willie Mehlhorn of Tulsa, Okla., with whom the former player for the last two days, were dubbed the "blonde twins." Both are 21 years old, their birthdays coming within three months of each other. They look alike, walk with a quick, jerky step, play their shots similarly, and each weighs 145 pounds, each having lost six pounds since the start of the tourney.

Secretary W. D. Vanderpool of the U. S. G. A. followed Vardon and Barnes most of the day, carrying the big red book of U. S. G. A. rules so as to be ready to render a decision.

On the ninth hole in the afternoon Paddy Doyle of Deal, N. J., partner of Ray, played a tremendously long second shot into the circus tent set aside for the use of the press. Course marshals had to take down one whole side of the big canvas top in order to let Paddy pitch to the green, which he did in brilliant fashion, his ball rolling to within ten feet of the cup.

Vardon never played golf so furiously as today. He went back to his pipe, after a couple of weeks of cigarette smoking, and never once had a smile on his face.

As sure as you're born, Leo Diegel is one of the coming golfers of the country, and he was really the hero today, since until Burke got his low score for the fourth round Diegel was the only American homebred who seemed to have a chance. Diegel was first discovered last year when he finished second to Barnes in the Western open, three strokes behind, and second to Alex Ross in the Ohio open, only two strokes behind. He did not play in the national open, this year being his first in the great classic. He won the Michigan open last year at Saginaw with 294, and was fourth in the Southern open, which Barnes won. His record this season is impressive. In March he won the open tourney at Boca Grande, Fla., with 146, his second round in 69 establishing a course record. Tied for second were Brady, Hutchison and Wilfried Reid. He was second to Hagen in the West Coast open at Bellaire, second to Brady in the East Coast open at St. Augustine and second to Hutchison in the West Baden open.

JUNO SHOWS WAY IN LEADER PURSE

Wins Two Heats and Breaks Record Before Rain Stops Racing at North Randall.

NORTH RANDALL, Cleveland, Aug. 13.—Rain which came up late today caused a postponement of the Grand Circuit racing here after three races had been decided and Juno had won two heats in the Leader Purse, $3,000 for 2:08 pacers. The third heat is to be raced tomorrow to decide the money division.

The rain came just after Favonian, odds-on favorite, had won the second and deciding heat of the News Sweepstakes, purse of $2,350 for two-year-old trotters.

Another record went by the boards today when Juno, in stepping the first mile of the Leader Purse in 2:02 3-4, set a record for the stake. Juno came from behind in both heats.

In the second heat practically every entry took a turn at setting the pace. Foxy Ann, Red Lancelot and Calgary Earl went into breaks, but Red Lancelot, favorite, came with a rush in the stretch and landed third place. Foxy Ann, Tommy Murphy's horse, driven by V. Fleming, was distanced in this mile after finishing third in the first.

There was never any doubt about Favonian, but in the second heat it was necessary for the judges to pick out the second and third horse which finished close behind the leader.

Both divisions of the 2:14 pace on today's card were postponed until tomorrow. Eight races will be decided tomorrow, weather permitting. All will be raced on a two heats out of three basis.

Tommy Murphy of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., prominent harness horseman, who was injured yesterday, may be able to resume charge of his stable within six weeks if no unexpected internal complications set in, Dr. Frank P. Corrigan, attending physician, announced today after a thorough examination.

Mr. Murphy's injuries consist of three broken ribs and a fracture of the sacroilliac (posterior wall of the pelvis).

MISS TENNANT NET VICTOR.

Wins Final Match at Providence from Miss Baker, 7—5, 6—3.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—Miss Eleanor Tennant of Los Angeles was the victor this afternoon in the annual midsummer tennis tournament for women at Agawam Hunt. Miss Tennant's opponent was Miss Helen Baker, also from the Pacific Coast, and the match showed by far the best tennis of the tournament. The score was 7—5, 6—3.

Both players were on their toes for every move in the first set and the play was fast, furious and skillful. Miss Baker led with the games 4—2 and then 5—3, when Miss Tennant took a brace and won four straight games and the set.

In the doubles Miss Florence Ballin of New York and Miss Leslie Bancroft of West Newton, Mass., had an easy time with Mrs. W. C. Huntoon and Miss Dorothy Van Slyck, both of this city, defeating the Providence pair, 6—0, 6—2.

The summaries:

Singles—Miss Tennant defeated Miss Baker, 7—5, 6—3.

Doubles—Miss Bancroft and Miss Ballin defeated Mrs. W. C. Huntoon and Miss Van Slyck, 6—0, 6—2.

THIRTY TEAMS ENTERED.

Drawings Announced for National Tennis Tourney at Longwood.

JUNIOR AND BOYS' TENNIS.

Last Chance Is Offered to Qualify for National Tourneys.

The last chance for local junior and boy tennis players to win a tennis centre championship comes next week in the tournament which will be held at the Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair, N. J. This event will be open to the winners of preliminary tournaments who comply with the age limits, 15 years for boys and 18 years for juniors. The winners may enter the national junior and boys' championships to be played at Forest Hills the week of the national singles championship.

Entries for the tournament should be addressed to Frederick H. Hovey, Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair, N. J., and must reach him Monday morning. Each entry should state the player's full name, date of birth and the preliminary tournament won to qualify for the tennis centre event.

CHAMPION LEAVES TO DEFEND TITLE

Dempsey Starts for Benton Harbor, Where He Will Box Miske on Labor Day.

Jack Dempsey, accompanied by his manager, Jack Kearns, left this city yesterday afternoon for Benton Harbor, Mich., where he is scheduled to box Billy Miske on Labor Day. The heavyweight champion will finish his training on the ground where he is to engage in the first real bout he has fought since he won the title from Jess Willard at Toledo a year ago last July 4.

As Dempsey boarded the train he appeared to be in the proverbial pink of condition. He has been indulging in light training in this city for the last several weeks, and announced that he was perfectly satisfied with the condition he had attained.

"I'm feeling as fit as a fiddle," declared Dempsey. "As a matter of fact, I never felt better. I believe that I am within a few days' work of being as well primed as I was when I entered the ring at Toledo to fight Willard for the championship. You can say for me that I feel like a two-year-old."

Asked if he expected Miske to give him a hard fight, Dempsey replied: "I have boxed Miske before and I know that he is the kind of boxer no man can afford to take any chances with. He has a very snappy punch that is powerful enough to knock any one out. I am not going to take any chances with him. Of course, I expect to win, but I do not anticipate a cake walk or anything that resembles it."

Before leaving the city Jack Kearns stated that nothing of a definite nature had been done in connection with the Dempsey-Brennan match other than the signing of articles on last Wednesday. "I have received several inviting offers," said Kearns, "but I do not intend to close the bout with any promoter until I am reasonably sure that all of them have had ample time in which to send in their bids. Leo Flynn, who manages Brennan, and myself agreed to allow the promoters thirty days in which to bid for the bout."

Jack Kearns admitted that among the bidders are the International Sporting Club, represented by Tex O'Rourke, the club's matchmaker, and Tex Rickard, who recently acquired a ten-year lease on Madison Square Garden. Jim Dougherty, the Philadelphia promoter, is still in the bidding, but Kearns admitted that all of the parties concerned would rather have the bout staged in New York State and as near New York City as possible.

"The International Sporting Club has been talking to me about the match," said Kearns, "but thus far it has not made me a definite offer. I expect that it will do so in a few days."

He declined to state whether Ricard had made a definite bid for the bout or not, but it is known that Kearns and Rickard have held at least one conference and that the topic of discussion was the Dempsey-Brennan bout. Kearns declared that he would return to New York just as soon as the Miske bout was over and that he expected to make this city his headquarters for some time thereafter.

IT'S TOO HOT FOR REICH.

Heavyweight Will Not Box Moran Because of Torrid Weather.

Al Reich, the heavyweight, who was scheduled to box Frank Moran at the Armory A. A. in Jersey City on Monday night, doesn't believe in fighting in warm weather. He informed his manager yesterday that he would not box, as the weather was too hot.

The management has arranged three ten round bouts instead. Jack Burke, the light-heavyweight of Pittsburgh, will box Frankie Jordan of Staten Island; Jack Pollack, the New Orleans heavyweight, will box Red Lyons of Jersey City and in the other ten round bout Red Allen, the welterweight, will box Davey Rosenberg, the former amateur.

ROSS REPLIES TO JARVIS.

Canadian Yachtsman Declares Cup Challenge a Patriotic Move.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—A. C. Ross, interviewed concerning the statement given out in Toronto on Wednesday by Commodore Acmilius Jarvis of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club to the effect that he was not favorably disposed towards the suggestion of a Canadian challenge for the America's cup, said: "The statement given out by the Queen City yachtsman is exactly the agency required to give a feeling to the projected campaign."

Continuing Mr. Ross declared that the idea behind the "Maple Leaf" challenge is patriotism as well as sportsmanship and, from the patriotic side, this venture is not to be the rich man's special privilege, but quite to the contrary, an opportunity for all classes of Canadians to put the Dominion still more prominently on the map and Canadian sporting spirit just where it rightly belongs in the forefront of manly and gentlemanly competition. The "Glory" will not go to any one individual or to any combination of the "Select" or "Elect," but will be the glory of every true son and daughter of Canada.

"I doubt if Commodore Jarvis," said Mr. Ross, "is in a position to speak for the New York Yacht Club. I much prefer to consider as official and the innermost sentiment of the New York Yacht Club personnel the courteous telegraphic reply from Commodore J. P. Morgan, which has already appeared in public print."

CRUISERS TO RACE TODAY.

Allowances Announced for Motor Boats Seeking National Title.

E. H. Tucker, Chairman of the Regatta Committee of the New York Athletic Club, has figured the allowances on the motor boats that are to start today in the first race for the cruiser championship of America, under the auspices and rules of the American Power Boat Association. Eighteen craft have entered. The start is between marks anchored to the east of Huckleberry Island and the finish between the new and old Lloyd Harbor light. The craft have to round the red spar buoy No. 2, three-eighths of a mile south of Stratford Shoal Light on the way to the finish line. The distance is estimated at fifty nautical miles.

The yachts, owners and allowances are as follows:

Yacht and Owner.	Allowances. H. M. S.
Pickaninny, J. V. Bell	Scratch
Marilene, II., H. M. Williams	14:29
Turtle, T. Farmer, Jr.	17:32

AMERICAN ATHLETE OUSTED FROM TEAM

ACTION AROUSES STORM

Members of U. S. Contingent Demand Case Be Reheard—Heckle Kirby and Weeks.

TWO OTHERS WITHDRAWN

Amateur Standing of Schneider and Grant, Boxers, Is Questioned—Open Stadium Today.

ANTWERP, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Dan Ahearn, of the Illinois A. C., world's record holder for the hop, step and jump, has been dismissed from the American Olympic team on charges of insubordination.

It was alleged that Ahearn defied the committee's rule requiring athletes to be in their quarters by ten o'clock. He was compelled to turn in his uniform and credentials and will be returned to America on the first transport, President Gustavus T. Kirby of the American Olympic Committee announced today.

Ahearn is in no way charged with dissipation. The question is merely one of violation of discipline. His contention was that he was unable to sleep in the noisy schoolhouse, preferring the hotel where the big weight men are allowed to sleep.

A certain few of the athletes have informed the American Olympic Committee that they will not compete in the Stadium events unless Ahearn is reinstated. The committee replied that the expulsion is irrevocable, and that their decision will stand even if 90 per cent. of the athletes refuse to compete. The committeemen say they think the majority of the team will support them.

Athletes Heckle Committee.

The athletes at a boisterous mass meeting tonight virtually forced the committee to reconsider the case of Ahearn with the Athletes' Committee tomorrow. In addition to the Ahearn case other complaints of the athletes are to be heard.

The meeting was characterized by considerable feeling on the part of the athletes, during which there were cat-calls and heckling of President Kirby and Judge Bartow S. Weeks of the committee, who addressed the men. Also there was considerable wrangling among the athletes themselves, mixed with demands for silence from the more moderate of them as heckling interrogations were flung at the speakers.

After Mr. Kirby had outlined the action of Ahearn which resulted in his being dropped from the team, Judge Weeks spoke of Ahearn's alleged defiant attitude. Judge Weeks pleaded the need of team work and discipline among the athletes and ended his remarks with the question: "What position would you be in if the committee refused to continue its duty?"

"Go ahead, we will get a better committee," and other similar remarks were shouted at Judge Weeks. The outburst of the athletes seemingly left the committee stunned.

When Judge Weeks in a few moments resumed his address he again was heckled with various questions, amid demands for silence on the part of some of the athletes.

Two Others Withdrawn.

The committee has withdrawn the names of Ted Schneider, U. S. A., and John R. Grant, U. S. N., from the American entries in the Olympic boxing competitions on the ground that they have boxed for purses, it was announced today. Both of the men were entered in the 175 pound class. Schneider was alleged to have boxed with a professional in California. Facts in the cases were brought to the committee's attention by army and navy authorities.

Drawings were made this forenoon for the heats in Sunday's opening events, the 100-meter, the 400-meter hurdles and the 800-meter run. All these events showed fewer actual starters than the number of original entries.

In the 100-meter race the drawings were among seventy-two entrants. There will be twelve heats, with six men in each. No two Americans were drawn in any one heat. In the eighth heat Charles W. Paddock of the Los Angeles A. C. will face H. F. V. Edward, one of the best of the British team.

The first and second men in each heat will qualify for the semi-finals of the 100-meter event. In the hurdles there will be five heats. The Americans are all in separate heats. A. G. Desch of Notre Dame University is in the same heat with Earl Thompson, the Dartmouth College man, running for Canada.

In the 800-meter event there will be five heats, in which the first three will qualify. No two Americans are in the same heat, but Earl Eby, of Chicago, one of the best of the American half-milers, will run against Rudd, the Oxford man on the South African team, and A. G. Hill of the British team.

The International Olympic Council has decided to use the A. A. U. system of scoring for the decathlon, it was announced today.

Stadium Opening Today.

All is in readiness tonight for the opening of the Stadium tomorrow. A number of athletes from each of the competing nations took part in a dress rehearsal this afternoon for the parade which is to be the principal feature of the ceremony.

Before the opening of the Stadium, Cardinal Mercier will celebrate mass in memory of the athletes of allied nations who fell on the field of battle in the World War.

King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and the other members of the royal family and Cardinal Mercier will be in the royal box at the Stadium. The Cardinal will deliver an allocution. Then the King will declare the Olympiad open, with cannon booming and homing pigeons flying from the arena. There will be a chorus of Belgian and Swedish singers.

The American contingent will be led by Patrick McDonald, who, standing 6 feet 5 inches tall, will carry the American flag. The standard bearing the name "United States" will be carried by H. J. Hebner, a member of the American water polo team, who was given that honor because he has been a competitor in three Olympic games.

Aileen Riggin, the 12-year-old American girl diver, will be the youngest contestant in the parade, but she will have a close competitor in point of years in Nils Skoglund, a Swedish boy, aged 13 years, who is also an entrant in the diving event. The oldest competitor will be Mr. Swan, a Swede, who, although 72 years old, helped his nation's rifle team to win first place.

City in Gala Dress.

Decorators, painters and landscape gardeners have been busy for many days making Antwerp, normally one of Europe's show places, even more attractive for the Olympic visitors. The streets are arched with decorative and beflagged structures, while along the thoroughfares have been erected columns from which the flags of the competing nations are flying. The flower beds in the various public squares of the city have offered opportunities for florists, who have erected great shields bearing the Latin motto of the Olympiad and other appropriate designs.

Antwerp has suddenly become a cosmopolitan city and there is a babel in every hotel lobby and sidewalk café. The city is going through a "stop watch fever," and every jeweler's shop carries on its front cards in at least four languages announcing that "the watches have arrived." These watches are in demand, more, perhaps, for the fact that they bear on their faces the inscription "Seventh Olympiad, Antwerp, 1920," than for their timekeeping faculties.

All contests and disputes on the field will be referred to a jury of appeal appointed by the International Athletic Federation. It will be recognized as having supreme authority to settle points not adjusted by the referee. Protests must be entered within thirty minutes after the event in question is run or, in case where the eligibility of a contestant is questioned, before the event is run. Each protest must be accompanied by a fee of one pound sterling.

Seven Points for First.

Each nation will start four men in each event, and the points will be awarded under the system of the International Athletic Federation, which gives to the winner 7 points, to the second 5, third 4, fourth 3, fifth 2 and sixth 1. M. Ranger, a Belgian, has been chosen as starter, and on Saturday will be given a tryout to prove his ability to fill that exacting position.

The Marathon runners will be examined prior to the race by doctors attached to the various athletic teams, as the coaches objected to retaining physicians who were not accustomed to the physical condition a runner should show upon entering such a contest.

America Is Leading Rivals in Olympic Point Scores

ANTWERP, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—America will enter the Stadium when the games open on Sunday with a one-point lead over its nearest competitor, Norway, as a result of the preliminary contests. The score by nations follows: America 57, Norway 56, Sweden 39, England 20, Holland 13, Belgium 13, France 10, Finland 7, Denmark 7, Brazil 6, South Africa 6, Switzerland 5, Canada 3, Italy 3, Spain 2, Greece 2 and Czechoslovakia 1. America's score was gained for the most part by its riflemen, while Norway amassed its total by the work of her men in yachting, skating and shooting.

FRANCE WINS CYCLE RACE.

Sweden Is Second in Olympic Event—America Outclassed.

ANTWERP, Aug. 13.—France won the 170-kilometer road race, the Olympic bicycle classic, here yesterday; Sweden was second, Belgium third and Denmark fourth. The order of the team's standing was determined by the times made by the four competitors of each nation in the race.

Stenquist of Sweden made the best individual time, 280 minutes 1 4-5 seconds; Kaltenbrum, South Africa, was second, time 281 minutes 26 3-5 seconds; Ontelcube, France, was third, time 284 minutes 54 2-5 seconds, and Janssen, Belgium, was fourth, time 285 minutes 20 3-5 seconds.

August J. Nogara, John Otto, Ernest T. Kockler and James B. Freeman, the American entries, all finished the race, but their time was over five hours. Fifteen miles from the finish Nogara, while going nicely, ran over a rooster and was given a bad fall. His legs and arms were severely bruised and his jaw and chin were cut badly. He finished gamely, however, and was later taken to a dressing station.

EVEN UP FOR ATHLETICS.

Mackmen Win First Game from Red Sox, 3 to 1; Lose Second, 7 to 0.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—C. Walker's home run in the eighth inning gave Philadelphia the victory in the first game of today's doubleheader with Boston, score 3 to 1, but Myers held the Athletics to five scattered hits in the second game and the visitors won, 7 to 0. The scores:

BINGHAM MAY COACH TRACK

Mentioned as Successor to Whelan as Head of Harvard Athletics.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—William J. Bingham is being prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Dr. Charles R. Whelan as general supervisor of track athletics at Harvard the coming season. It is probable that Mr. Bingham, who is a former Crimson track athlete and former Chairman of Harvard's Graduate Track Athletics Committee, will engage in business in Boston this Fall, and, if he does, the position of supervisor of affairs at Soldiers' Field will undoubtedly be offered him. The Harvard Athletic Association states, however, that no definite agreement with Mr. Bingham has thus far been reached.

Mr. Bingham was a member of Harvard track teams in 1914, 1915 and 1916 and starred as a half-miler.

WILD PITCHES COST GIANTS BALL GAME

Toney Loses Grip on Slippery Sphere at Crucial Times and Gives Robins Victory.

BIG CROWD BRAVES STORM

About 22,000 Fans See Superbas Presented with Sufficient Runs to Gain Verdict by 4 to 2.

The Robins resumed their old practice of beating the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday, doing the trick again by 4 to 2. Umpire Klem insisted on having the game played in a downpour of rain which made a mud puddle of the playing field. The rain and the mud won for the Dodgers, for Fred Toney couldn't handle the wet, slippery ball and delivered the victory to the Dodgers on wild pitches. With the bases jammed in the fourth, Toney unfurled two wild heaves which sent in three runs, and another erratic pitch in the eighth placed a runner in position to score the fourth run.

There are those who will admit that Willyum Klem is a good umpire, but as a judge of the weather Klem would pull about one vote; that is, if he voted for himself. The oldest inhabitant fails to remember when a game was played in such a rainstorm before. Klem and Emslie ought to be great officials at a race among a flock of fish. The rain made quagmires in the pitcher's box, at the home plate and on the base paths. That some of the players were not seriously injured can be attributed solely to luck.

There was a big gathering out to see the interborough wrangle and a good many of the 22,000 who didn't happen to be in the grand stand got soaked. If Harry Stevens had been selling umbrellas yesterday instead of ice cream cones he would have cleaned up. Fans often wonder what umpires are before they become umpires. With Klem and Emslie the answer is easy—they were sailors.

Burleigh Grimes, of course, had to contend with the same mud that troubled Toney, but Grimes kept the mud off his hands with a Turkish towel while he was pitching, and Toney didn't have a Turkish towel. By a simple line of reasoning it can easily be seen that Brooklyn really won the game with a Turkish towel instead of with their bats. There is nothing in the rules which says that a pitcher can't use a towel. The emory ball and shine ball are barred, but when Grimes was manipulating the towel the umpires couldn't do a thing about it. What Toney should have done was to go Grimes one better and get a washing machine and a length of hose.

Lots of Arguments on Tap.

There was a lot of enthusiasm on tap. Thousands tubed over from Brooklyn, leaving their pop bottles at home. Wherever a Brooklyn fan sat within shouting distance of a New York fan there was an argument. Flatbush and Harlem fans are as neighborly as Kilkenny cats. Not only was it the wettest game of the season, but it was also one of the noisiest.

Brooklyn started trouble in the first inning. Johnston doubled to left with out out, and Griffith hoisted a fly to Spencer. Johnston tried to scoot to third after the catch, and Spencer threw him out to Frisch. Miller singled with one out in the third and went to third on a double to right by Grimes. Olsen rolled to Frisch and Miller was pocketed between third and the plate. Johnston skied to Bancroft, and the Brooklyn menace was once more set aside.

Not so in the fourth, when the mud began to take on the consistency of putty. It began to rain in the second inning, and by the time the fourth came around it was pouring. Umpire Klem ignored the rain with blissful indifference. If he had a hunch that it was raining he fought it off mentally as a mere delusion.

Griffith slapped a grounder through Toney's feet to centre and went to third when Wheat punched a double to left. Burns had to dig around in the mud to get the ball. Myers walked and filled the bases. While Koney was at the bat Toney uncorked a wild pitch and Griffith crossed the plate.

The mud was thick on the sticky ball and Toney tried to pitch again, and this time the throw was so wild that it hopped over into the Brooklyn bench, Wheat and Myers scoring. That wild pitch was a double, and probably would have been a triple if there had been another Brooklyn citizen on the bases.

Koney walked and Pete Kilduff sacrificed him to second. Miller slashed a grounder between first and second and the ball was poking its nose through the mud puddles to right field. Larry Doyle, without rubber boots or oil skins, dove head first into the storm, stabbed the ball with one muddy hand and threw the runner out at first. Larry proved to be almost as good a jack tar as Bill Klem. Larry also tossed Grimes out at first for the final out of the inning.

Another Slip Results in Run.

Toney had more trouble in handling the ball in the fifth and he walked Johnston and Wheat, but their progress was successfully blocked. In the first of the eighth, after two were out, Myers tapped the ball to the infield. Toney slipped several feet as he tried to field the rap and the slip gave Myers a hit. Toney unloosed another wild pitch and Hy went to second. The ball was more slippery than ever and Koney got a pass. Kilduff cracked a single to left and Myers scored. Koney tried to go to third on the hit but was thrown out by Burns. Koney was afraid of breaking a leg so he didn't attempt to slide into the bag.

The Giants found Grimes a hard nut to crack for seven innings. Kelly got a single in the second and Bancroft got another in the fourth, but they both died of lonesomeness on the bases. Doyle got a double in the fifth with one out, but he perched on the middle bag and got soaked to the skin while Smith and Toney went out. Bancroft got another single in the sixth, but these four blows constituted the total damage of the Giants' attack on Grimes up to that time.

In the last of the eighth the Turkish towel of Grimes didn't have its previous effectiveness. After Earl Smith had skied to Kilduff Lee King, hitting in place of Toney, started a rally with a single to centre. Burns cracked a single to left and King went to third. Beauty Bancroft kept up the good work and punched a double to right which scored King and Burns.

Grimes was on the run and it looked as if the Giants' rally was going to carry them through. Young tapped the ball along the first base line and didn't run because he thought it was a foul ball. The ball splashed around in the mud awhile and then rolled against the bag and Young was out. Frisch rolled to Koney and the rally was over.

Artie Nehf pitched the ninth inning for the Giants and when he was fielding Olson's infield tap he turned his ankle in the mud and got one of the injuries all the players were fearing would come on the sloppy field. Johnny Evers, who is bossing the Giants, held a long distance conversation with Umpire Klem. John was coaching at third and Klem was behind the plate. As they were so far apart that each could catch only every third or fourth word the other was saying, neither argument carried much weight. Evers was wise in not going too near Klem for not all of Johy's conversation was about the weather.

BRAVES DIVIDE WITH PHILS.

Boston Takes First Game, 5 to 2, and Loses Second, 8 to 2.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Boston and Philadelphia divided a double-header today, Boston winning the first game, 5 to 2, and Philadelphia taking the second, 8 to 2.

Charley Pick's right leg was injured in the first inning of the second game while he was sliding into third base and he was carried from the field. It is believed a small bone is broken near the ankle.

YANKEES CLEAN UP CLEVELAND SERIES

Thrash Indians in Close Game, Fielding Well Behind Shawkey's Strong Twirling.

NOW ON LEADERS' HEELS

New Yorkers, by Virtue of 4 to 3 Victory, Come Within Stride of Peak of American League.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—The New York Yankees conquered the Indians once more in a gripping battle of the diamond on League Park this afternoon by the score of 4 to 3, and thereby cleaned up the series with four successive victories. The Hugmen are now only 11 points away from the lead, and with any kind of assistance from the other clubs in the league expect to be able to move into first place before they hit the trail for the final tour of the circuit.

Bob Shawkey registered his fifth straight victory of the season over the Indians, but it took some stalwart help from Carl Mays and the rest of the team. Bob was batted off the mound in the eighth inning, but when Mays entered he fanned O'Neill, and Muddy Ruel doubled Johnston stealing second.

Stalwart defense behind Shawkey turned the trick. The sailor lad set the style himself in the first inning, when he made a nice stop and throw of Smith's grounder to the right of the box. Duffy Lewis in left field took care of everything that came his way. He made a fine running capture of a puzzling smack by Steve O'Neill and performed meritoriously throughout. It may be said in passing that it was a ringing double by Lewis that drove Peck home in the fifth. Babe Ruth, limping though he was, disregarded pain and gathered them in as they came along in the right garden. Ward, Peck, Pratt and the others all contributed their share.

Indians Tally at Last.

Excellent as was the defense of the Yanks, they could not prevent the Indians from breaking through in the seventh, when, with the Yanks enjoying a three-run lead, Ray Caldwell started with a base on balls and Jamieson punched a clean single to centre, placing Caldwell on third. Chapman's sacrifice fly scored Caldwell with the first Cleveland tally of the contest.

It did not take the Yanks long to get that run back. With one out in the eighth, Pratt ripped out his second two-base hit of the game, and Duffy Lewis shot a timely single to centre, sending Del home.

In the last half of the eighth Elmer Smith bumped a clean single into centre field, and after Ruth had made a spectacular running catch of Larry Gardner's twisting foul to right field Wambsganss doubled to left field, at least according to the umpire. A great discussion followed this blow, for the Yankees insisted that the ball had struck on foul ground. As usual, however, the umpire won. Dock Johnston came through with a single, scoring Smith and Wamby, and putting the Indians within one run of a tie.

At this juncture Miller Huggins summoned Carl Mays to the mound. Throughout the contest the mite manager had had the blonde underhand flinger warming up, and he was primed and ready when he went on the rubber. Steve O'Neill waved at a fast ball and Johnston was doubled stealing at second.

The Yankees failed to score in the first inning, although they did not lack for opportunities. Ward and Peck died on flies, following which the great Bambino punched a single to right field and took second on Pratt's hit to left. Duffy Lewis, however, was a victim on strikes, and the potential run never was scored.

Shawkey Has Close Call.

Indian luck put the tribe on the path for a tally in the last half of the first. Jamieson spun a silly little pop fly over Shawkey's head and beat Pratt's throw. Chappie died, and Spoke won a guessing battle with Shawkey and walked.

Elmer Smith, a slugger of repute, then faced Shawkey, and rolled a grounder. Muddy Ruel might have called for a play at third, but the catcher deflected from duty and Shawkey made the play at first. Gardner was passed while Cleveland booed. The sacks were filled, but Wamby was an easy victim.

It was in the third inning that the Yankees got the opening run of the game. Two hands were down when Babe Ruth scowled and scowled at Caldwell, with the result that he drew a pass. The hit and hobble play was put on, with Ruth doing the hobble and Pratt the hitting. Pratt bounced a double to the centre field wall and Ruth scored by dint of wild hopping.

In the fifth the Yankees went out on the run trail in earnest. Bob Shawkey started with a blow to left field and moved down on Ward's fine sacrifice bunt. Peck tripled to right centre, scoring Shawkey. Ruth was passed, and after Pratt was fanned out, Duffy Lewis came through with a ringing double to the right field wall. Peck crossed the plate, but Ruth was thrown out trying to tally also, Smith to Johnston to O'Neill. Bambino hit Steve a terrific wallop as he slid in, but the Pennsylvania Irishman stood to his guns.

Pound Ball in Two Innings and Thrash Pirates.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh today, 4 to 2, the Cardinals bunching seven of their hits off Cooper in the seventh and eighth innings, when they scored all their runs. Caton's error was costly in the seventh inning and he helped in the visitors' scoring. Schupp was strong in the pinches and might have had a shutout except for Dilhoefer's error.

NO AGREEMENT ON JUDGE M'DONALD

Heydler Denies Jurist Has Been Decided Upon as Head of National Commission.

John A. Heydler, President of the National League, last night emphatically denied that Judge Charles A. McDonald of Chicago had been agreed upon as a compromise candidate for the position of Chairman of the National Commission, a post that has been vacant on organized baseball's supreme court bench since August Herrmann, President of the Cincinnati Reds, resigned last December. When communicated with at his home in Lynbrook, L. I., Mr. Heydler admitted that Judge McDonald's name had been proposed, but he denied that he had ever discussed him as a compromise candidate with Byron Bancroft Johnson, President of the American League.

"Judge McDonald's name has never been mentioned in any of the conferences between Mr. Johnson and myself," said Mr. Heydler. "Nor has Mr. Johnson ever written to me regarding the possibility of deciding upon Judge McDonald as a compromise candidate. I read the story that emanated from Cleveland to the effect that he had already been decided upon as a compromise candidate for the position of Chairman. The story is not true. No such decision has been reached. His name has been suggested as a compromise candidate for the post, but not formally.

"About a month ago several Chicago business men wrote all of the Presidents of the different clubs in the National and American leagues as well as myself proposing Judge McDonald, but nothing of a more definite nature has ever come of the matter. The fact that these letters had been written and received undoubtedly caused the story to be circulated that Judge McDonald had already been agreed upon as the compromise candidate with the surmise that an official announcement to this effect would be made in a few days."

Mr. Heydler's Preference.

It is apparent that while Mr. Heydler is not opposed to considering Judge McDonald for the place, he still entertains hopes of being able to select one of the men indorsed by the joint committee of the two big leagues last December. At that time five names were proposed. The list included Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Big Bill Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue; John Conway Toole, counsel for the New York National League Baseball Club; Senator Walker, who sponsored the bill permitting Sunday baseball in New York State, and Harvey Woodruff, a sporting writer of Chicago. Since that time Judge Landis has requested that his name be withdrawn. He announced that he was not a candidate. This reduced the field to four, but Mr. Heydler admits that he has not given up all hope of being able to select the next Chairman of the National Commission from among these four.

"These men have already been indorsed by the club owners of the National and American Leagues," continued Mr. Heydler, "and I still entertain hope that Mr. Johnson and myself will be able to agree upon one of them to fill the position. If other candidates are seriously considered it will be necessary to procure the indorsement of the sixteen club owners in the two big leagues

"Several other men have been suggested besides Judge McDonald. I do not care to mention their names at this time, principally because I do not believe they have a chance to be elected."

Mr. Heydler declared that he did not know when he and Mr. Johnson would get together again to consider a chairman for the National Commission. Judging by the general tenor of his answers to questions, the impression obtains that he is not sanguine of an early settlement of the matter that has hung fire for so long. It is evident that the two factions have very different and decided views on the question and that a compromise is no nearer at this time than it has been at any time since Mr. Herrmann resigned.

Judge McDonald Well Recommended.

The National League President stated that he did not know Judge McDonald personally, but that the Justice of the Superior Court of Cook County had been very highly recommended by Chicago business men. Mr. Heydler said that he did not doubt for an instant that Judge McDonald was well qualified to fill the place. He said that he knew Judge McDonald had been a fan for some years and that the jurist was thoroughly conversant with the sport in all its phases. "Please do not say that I am opposed to Judge McDonald, for I am not," said Mr. Heydler, "but the fact of the matter is that his name has not been formally discussed.

"I was in Chicago on July 20 and 21 and saw Mr. Johnson at that time. Judge McDonald's name was not mentioned in any way. I think that I have about exhausted suggestions and propositions in connection with the election of a National Commission Chairman."

This remark by Mr. Heydler caused those baseball men with whom the matter was discussed last night to form the opinion that Mr. Heydler is determined to try to elect one of the four men suggested by the joint committee of the two leagues and that the National League is not in a receptive mood for a compromise candidate at this time. What may transpire in the future is purely a matter of conjecture and the status of the matter seems to be about the same as it was before Judge McDonald's name was publicly mentioned as a candidate.

MANY PERFECT SCORES.

Seventeen Marksmen Tie in Rapid-Fire Match at Camp Perry.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Seventeen contestants were tied tonight for first place in the unfinished rapid fire match of the National Rifle Association shoot being held here. Perfect scores were made by the seventeen leaders in the event which will be shot off tomorrow. More than 500 shooters contested.

The first two stages of the Leech Cup match have been finished on the 800 and 900 slow-fire ranges with twenty men making perfect scores for first place. The next twenty-nine are only one point off, with scores of 69. The match will be finished tomorrow on the 1,000-yard range.

The Adjutant General's Cup match was shot today, but scores were not tabulated. On the fifty-yard pistol range today, Corporal T. B. Crawley, of the U. S. Marine Corps, scored a possible 100 in the individual re-entry matches now being staged.

A number of trapshooting events and the enlisted men's team match and civilian inter-club match will be shot off tomorrow.

Chicago-Detroit Game Called Off.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—A heavy rainstorm caused the calling of today's game between Chicago and Detroit at the beginning of the fifth inning with the score a 3-3 tie. Two games will be played tomorrow.

SKEETERS DOWNED AGAIN BY TORONTO

Biemiller Liberal with Passes and Maple Leafs Take Third Straight, 4 to 2.

The Toronto Maple Leafs hung up another victory over Bill Donovan's Skeeters in yesterday's game at Jersey City by a margin of 4 runs to 2, giving the Canadian players three games in a row over the Skeeters. This third success for the visitors was aided by Pitcher Harry Biemiller's liberal distribution of passes, two of the Jersey City twirlers' handouts resulting in Toronto tallies.

With this one exception the game was an even battle all the way, the Skeeters keeping the pennant contenders continually on the jump. It proved a sharp struggle on the pitching hill between Bunny Hearn and Biemiller, with little choice except that Hearn was the more steady performing his task and had only one lapse in control, a base on balls to Tom DeNoville with two down in the fourth inning. Eight hits were hung up on each side, Toronto's batting including a double by Benny Kauff and a triple by Eddie Onslow, while Frank Kane hung up a three-quarter drive for the Skeeters.

Bill Zitman rendered effective service with the big stick for the Skeeters by poling out three safe wallops and paved the way for the Jersey City scoring by tearing off a hit in the opening of the Skeeters' fifth and managed to complete the route on the hits of Biemiller and McCann after two men had been retired.

Duffy's boys were full of pep right at the start and made a bid for the ball game at the tap of the bell by reeling off a tally before Biemiller had really had a chance to hit his stride. Frank O'Rourke laced a hot one, which caromed off McCann's fingers in left field. Bennie Kauff got into action with a corking two-bagger, which sent O'Rourke home after the latter had been wild pitched to the midway. Blackburn sacrificed Kauff to third, but Bennie misjudged Frank Wigelsworth's throwing ability when he attempted to score on Onslow's lift to left which Wigelsworth nailed and then by a fine throw cut Kauff down at the plate for a double play.

Biemiller gave the Leafs the start toward another mark by sending Devine to first on four wide ones in the beginning of the fifth. Hearn sacrificed and after O'Rourke had flied out Kauff again fitted in the break with a timely clout to centre and Devine tallied. Toronto cemented its prospects with the credits needed in the eighth on a base on balls to Blackburn with one out. Eddie Onslow's terrific drive to right for three bases and Riley's hard double to centre enabled Blackburn and Onslow to tally. Riley was caught at third in trying to stretch his hit by Kane's snappy throw to Zitman.

McCann's single and Frank Kane's scorching three-bagger accounted for Jersey City's run in their half of the eighth.

This afternoon the series will end with a double-header, when the game which was part of the double-header on June 13 will be replayed as ordered by President Fultz.

Curves and Bingles

It was Friday, the thirteenth, but that didn't have as much to do with the Giants' defeat as the mud.

It was quite a success as a regatta, but not as a baseball game.

Umpire Klem probably never heard that old saying about the man who "didn't know enough to come in out of the rain."

The Giants' laundry bill after that mud bath will eat pretty well into the receipts of the game.

The scrap between the boroughs will be continued at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. The Dodgers will probably use Mitchell, whose southpaw spitball has caused the Giants a lot of trouble this season.

The Brooklyns found the Giants easy picking earlier in the season when the New York pitchers were going badly, and they piled up a big lead in victories. The Giants are a far better club now, however, and should be able to turn the tables.

Manager Robinson of the Brooklyns was the wettest man on the field yesterday. He has more to get wet than anybody else.

Brooklyn is once more knocking at the first place door in the rush for the pennant, only four points behind the Reds.

If they are going to play baseball games on days like yesterday, why not get one-piece bathing suits for the players?

JOCKEY IS THROWN IN SARATOGA MIXUP

Sande Has Narrow Escape When Intrigante Falls—Accident Due to Rough Riding.

DINNA CARE WINS HUDSON

Takes Event in Impressive Style from Donnacona—Salem Handicap to Milkmaid.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Jockey Earl Sande, who is by many regarded as the best rider in the country, had a narrow escape from serious injury if not death in the final race here this afternoon when the horse he was riding, Commander J. K. L. Ross's Intrigante, fell, throwing the boy. Sande fortunately fell clear of the other horses, which were back of him, and had the presence of mind to throw his weight so that he rolled inside the fence or inner rail.

The accident occurred at the turnout of the back stretch in a five-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies in which Intrigante was the heavily played favorite in a field of twelve. The trouble was due to the rough riding, of which there has been much recently, but which rarely brings a penalty. Neither Sande nor the patrol judge at the turn could positively fix the blame, so the judges took no action.

Intrigante was heavily played from 8 to 5 to 11-10, as she appeared to outclass her field. There was, therefore, a great deal of dissatisfaction when the filly was thrown, because it is generally felt that not enough effort is put forth to stop the sort of riding which caused her to fall. The race went to Walter J. Salmon's Step Lightly, which just romped home in front of the others to win by eight lengths from Pantalette, with Honey Girl third.

Rough Riding Responsible.

Intrigante was running third at the time she was bumped. Sande said that several horses bore over toward him and that he was caught between two of them. When his mount was bumped he tried to keep her head up until he could get clear, but she was hit so hard that she stumbled and the rider was hurled through the air. The filly was close enough to the rail so that those back of her could easily go around and that probably saved both the rider and the fallen horse. Both escaped without injury. Step Lightly then had the race to herself, for just before the fall Intrigante was moving into the lead from a position considerably inside of that held by the Salmon filly.

The rules require that a horse must not be taken in front of other horses in an effort to cross over, unless having a lead of two lengths. Neither Step Lightly nor Pantalette had a sufficient advantage to cross over under those conditions. There has been so much rough riding recently which has resulted in bad racing that the regular followers of the sport are becoming weary.

The feature of the day was the Hudson Handicap at a mile for three-year-olds, which brought out but three starters and which was won by the Glen Riddle Farm's Dinna Care, which easily disposed of G. W. Loft's Donnacona, A. H. Diaz's Blue Wrack, making his first appearance on the Metropolitan circuit, was last.

An Impressive Victory.

Dinna Care has been making steady improvement this season and is a colt which Trainer Feustel regarded highly, but his victory today was by far the most important he has scored this year. He took the measure of Donnacona by a length and a half, after racing the Loft colt into complete submission. He had a slight advantage in the weights, but was much the best of the field none the less. Donnacona, on the other hand, has been a disappointment, as his owner held high hopes of winning the Kentucky Derby with him last Spring.

Dinna Care went to the front and raced with Donnacona throughout the mile test. The two were separated by less than a head going through the back stretch, with Donnacona on the inside. It appeared that the Loft colt could go up any time his rider was ready to urge him, but when Sande was half way around the turn he had to use his whip to keep beside the leader. A few lashes brought Donnacona to the front for several strides just at the head of the stretch, but when Dinna Care was straightened out he moved up again, raced Donnacona down and went on to win easily. Blue Wrack was always far back, and, as this was his first race since early in the Spring, he was probably not ready for the pace that was set for him.

Milkmaid at Her Best.

Commander Ross's Milkmaid, which bled the last time she ran at Aqueduct, came back in her best form in the opening race and scored an easy victory in the Salem Handicap at seven furlongs for fillies and mares. She led home Gloria, France and Red, Red Rose among others, though conceding much weight to all the rest in a field of ten starters. She won by two lengths, after being well-ridden by Sande, who picked out the best part of the course and finished in the middle of the track.

Milkmaid broke badly and Sande rushed her into the lead and kept away from the heavy going on the rail. Fruit Cake rushed up in the run through the back stretch and had her nose in front for a time, but the pace was too much for her and she quit utterly at the turn into the stretch. Milkmaid then went on to an easy victory, with Sande looking back at the nearest rivals. Gloria France moved up from seventh position to take second from Red, Red Rose by a length. E. R. Bradley's Iwin, which broke flatfooted, had little chance and was a bitter disappointment to many Western horsemen who backed her.

Suspension for Two Jockeys.

The steeplechase for maiden jumpers was won by J. E. Davis's Valspar, which scored handily from James A. Sheridan, with Surf third. King Terry and War Togs were the other starters and the latter fell. As a result of this fall, which was due to another instance of rough riding, two jockeys were suspended for the remainder of the meeting. These were Hanna, who rode the winner, and O'Conner, who was on the horse which finished second. It was charged that O'Conner continually bore over on Valspar. Hanna became angry and struck O'Conner with his whip. War Togs fell at the twelfth jump, when the horses were closely bunched.

F. Flannery's Thimble accounted for the third race, in which seven two-year-olds contested over the five and a half furlong route. The Oneck Stable's Frizlet stole a long lead, but quit badly, and Thimble moved up in the stretch, to win handily from Morning Face, with The Ally third.

The Kedgwick Stable's Tenons Bon won his fourth straight victory in the fifth event at a mile and three-sixteenths, when he galloped home eight lengths in front of King Agrippa and Judge David. He was a 7 to 20 choice and just raced in front all the way.

Esthonian Athlete to Make Strong Bid in Decathlon

Alof Klumberg, a young giant from the cattle-raising belt of Esthonia, looms up as a possible successor of Jim Thorpe as the decathlon champion of the world. At an Olympic tryout meet in Reval, Esthonia, Klumberg was the star performer, making a good showing in each of nine events and amassing a total of 8,025.52 points. He will represent Esthonia in the Olympics. His record in each event of the tryouts was as follows:

100 meters, 11 4-5 seconds.
1,500 meters, 4 minutes, 55 3-10 seconds.
Broad jump, 22 feet 4 5-8 inches.
High jump, 6 feet 2-3 inch.
Weight, 46 feet 10 inches.
Discus, 135 feet 4¼ inches.
Javelin throw, 200 feet, 3 1-5 inches.
Pole vault, 11 feet, 2 1-10 inches.

GREEN B. MORRIS IS DEAD.

Veteran Turfman Passes Away at Saratoga Springs at Age of 86.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Green B. Morris, aged 86, one of the oldest figures on the American turf, who at one time owned and trained horses with some success, died last night at a local hospital. Mr. Morris resided in Washington, D. C., where his wife is now living.

Green B. Morris was perhaps the oldest man in attendance at race courses in this country. His acquaintances believed him to be at least 90. He was racing thoroughbreds long before the civil war, and, previous to that, he had been a rider of "quarter horses" in the South and West. He made his first appearance in the East in the '70s and took part in the meetings at Jerome Park, Monmouth Park and Brighton Beach with a horse called Egypt. Later on he secured possession of Fellow Play, a horse of considerable ability. With him he beat some of the best horses of the day.

Mr. Morris followed at a still later date with the gelding Drake Carter, by Ten Broeck, which he sold to Pierre Lorillard for the then phenomenal price of $20,000. He next secured the high-class racers Favor and Sir Dixon, which ranked among the best performers in the country. He sold the latter to the Dwyer brothers for a long figure.

Judge Morrow, with which he won the Brooklyn Handicap, and other valuable races, was bought for $6,000 from his breeders, the Scoggan brothers. This horse's winnings in the Morris colors totaled more than $50,000, and there were many other well-bred winners in the big barn on the outskirts of the Gravesend course, which was the personal property of Morris, who also owned other land in the vicinity.

This was in the early '90s, when the stable of M. F. Dwyer was one of the most powerful on the turf. There was a strong friendship between the younger of the famous Dwyers and Morris, and most of Morris's business was transacted for him by Mr. Dwyer or H. D. McIntyre, at that time Secretary of the Brooklyn Jockey Club. An estimate of his holdings in realty and horseflesh at this time would easily reach $250,000.

New Coach for Lawrence.

APPLETON, Wis., Aug. 13.—H. D. McChesney, head of the athletics and physical education department of the Kansas State Normal School for three years, will head the athletic department of Lawrence College next year, succeeding Henry (Ikey) Beyer, resigned. McChesney will coach all the athletic teams and will be director of physical education as well. The new Director was head of the University of Wisconsin gymnasium for eight years and athletic director for the University of Utah for one year.

2 LAY LOSS OF EYES TO SAME POLICEMAN

Charge They Were Beaten Up for Testifying Against Patrolman in Old Assault.

MAGISTRATE HEARS STORY

Grants Extension of Time Until Aug. 26 for Serving of Summons on the Accused.

Asserting that each had lost his right eye through the assaults of the same policeman, two men yesterday asked Magistrate Sweetser, in Washington Heights Court, for an extension of time on summons complaints they held against Policeman Henry J. Coleman of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station, formerly a plain clothes man attached to the West 135th Street Station. Both said they had been unable to find Coleman, who is on his vacation.

In Essex Market Court Magistrate Francis X. Mancuso held Policeman Dominick Caropresi on a charge of simple assault on the complaint of Jacob Rothstein, a dry goods merchant of 152 Orchard Street.

The police of the West 135th Street Station said they were familiar with the charges against Coleman, who was attached to the Inspector's staff until recently with a roving commission to rid the district of suspicious characters, due to the large number of holdups and other instances of violent law breaking. He often met with resistance, it was added. In justice to Coleman, the police said, he should have an "even break" in newspaper accounts of the charges against him until he appears in court.

Threatened and Assaulted.

On the other hand, Henry Jaffe, a chauffeur of 176 East 123d Street, and Michael Taylor, a printer of 213 West 120th Street, showed Magistrate Sweetser the empty sockets of their right eyes. The Magistrate made the summonses returnable Aug. 26. Jaffe told Magistrate Sweetser that Coleman had been reduced and attached to the West Thirty-seventh Street Station as a uniformed patrolman. He said that when he attempted to serve the summons at the station house he was first told that the policeman had "never reported," and later that he had not yet had time to purchase a uniform. When he went to Police Headquarters, Jaffe said, he was told the policeman was on his vacation.

Jaffe alleged the trouble dated back to an attack Coleman made 18 months ago upon Charles Dunton, of 105 West 127th Street. Both he and Dunton admitted that the charge Dunton brought against the policeman following the alleged assault was dismissed in court.

Taylor, according to both Taylor and Jaffe, witnessed the alleged assault on Dunton. Taylor said yesterday he had been threatened by the police if he testified as to what he saw. "I was told they'd 'plant' a gun on me and frame me," he added.

According to Jaffe, Taylor, who persisted in testifying, was attacked May 22 with a blackjack, and after spending five weeks in Knickerbocker Hospital surgeons at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital removed his right eye. He said the loss of the eye was the direct result of the assault.

Jaffe said he also witnessed the alleged assault upon Dunton, and also was threatened. He was blackjacked, he said, at a restaurant on June 26, losing his right eye. He said that a witness to this alleged assault, Frank Jasper, of 3120 Broadway, had also been threatened.

Alleged Police Victim Freed.

Freed in Essex Market Court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct, Jacob Rothstein, the Orchard Street dealer, who was arrested in his store by Policeman Caroprese of the Fifth Street Station on Aug. 8, said the patrolman had assaulted and then arrested him because he had refused to buy more than one ticket for the Police Field Day Games. After dismissal of the charge against Rothstein, Magistrate Mancuso, at the request of Rothstein's attorney, David Goldstein, received a complaint against Caroprese, charging simple assault. He was paroled in the custody of Captain Edward F. Blohm pending a hearing on Monday.

Although Rothstein appeared in court with his head in bandages and asserted that his injury, according to an X-ray taken by Dr. Solon Bernstein, was a fissured fracture of the jaw, Caroprese denied hitting him on the jaw. The policeman said Rothstein had resisted and abused him on the way to the station and that he had slapped the prisoner's mouth with his hand, cutting his lip.

TAXI DRIVER RETURNS BAG.

Finds $589 in Banker's Notes and Turns It Over to Police.

Miss Anna Louise Perry of Perrytown, Texas, missed her handbag containing $589 in American Bankers' Association notes a few minutes after alighting from a taxicab at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street yesterday afternoon. The cab had been hired in front of the Martha Washington Hotel, where Miss Perry is staying, and from a clerk there she learned the chauffeur was Louis Patino of 557 Morris Avenue, Bronx. Miss Perry hurried to the chauffeur's home in another cab and waited for him to return from work.

Three hours later Patino arrived and told Miss Perry he had already turned the bag over to the police. A hurried trip to headquarters, where Miss Perry had no difficulty in convincing Lieutenant Jones she was the owner of the bag, and her notes were recovered.

HEAT WILL DEFY SHOWERS.

Gentle Winds Won't Help Much Today Either, Weather Man says.

The thermometer reached 83 degrees yesterday, while humidity ranged from 75 to 93 degrees, making the day one of the most uncomfortable and oppressive of the hot spell which is now six days old.

The thermometer touched 83 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and then dropped to 78 at 4 o'clock. Its lowest mark was 72, at 7 A. M. No breeze was perceptible in the streets, but from its tower in the Whitehall Building the Weather Bureau detected a southwest wind varying from seven to eighteen miles an hour.

Today will be another day of the same type, according to the official prediction. Thunder showers may occur and gentle south winds, but they are not expected to affect the temperature.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Madge Kennedy will return to the stage during the coming season in "Cornered," to be produced by Henry W. Savage. The play was acted on the road last season, with Florence Nash in the leading role.

Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" will be acted at the Manhattan Opera House for two weeks, beginning Labor Day. Robert Whittier, who has made several Ibsen productions here in recent seasons, is producing the play and will appear in the leading role.

Gladys Caldwell will play the principal feminine role in the Fred Stone Show, "Tip-Top."

Howard Truesdell and Thais Lawton have been engaged for "Mystery."

Frank Fay and Harry Langdon will be in the cast of "Jim Jam Jems."

The National Winter Garden, at Second Avenue and Houston Street, will begin its fourth year as a burlesque house on Friday night of next week.

COAL MEN ASSEMBLE AT WILSON'S CALL

Cleveland Meeting Starts with Caucus of Miners, Who May Demand $8 Scale.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—The wage scale committees of the bituminous coal operators and union miners of the central competitive field met in executive session here today, in pursuance of a request of President Wilson, to consider change in wages. After organizing, the meeting adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, explained that because the notice of the meeting was short, it was impossible to have all the miners' delegates present today.

Michael Gallagher, Cleveland operator, was elected Chairman of the conference, and William Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the miners, was named as Secretary.

The miners held a caucus this morning without reaching a decision on the exact wage increases they will demand. The figure generally mentioned is $2 over the present wage of $6 a day paid to the men, who comprise about 27 per cent. of the industry.

Several committeemen admitted tonight that, if the day men received their full demand, the tonnage men also would probably ask an increase. President Lewis declined to comment on this.

Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois Miners, a storm centre in the recent Illinois strike, said: "I don't know what the rest will get, but I do know the Illinois men will get $8 a day."

E. C. Searls, President of the Illinois Operators' Association, said the operators had come with an open mind, willing to listen to any plan the miners had to offer. It would be impossible to make any prediction as to the outcome, he said.

To increase the workers' pay to $8, it was declared today, would be giving them a 33 1-3 per cent. advance, which, with the 20 per cent. increase granted by the coal commission appointed by President Wilson, would give them the maximum demand sought in their last convention here last September.

Besides the scale committees of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, actually taking part in the conference, representatives of Iowa, Washington, Central Pennsylvania and Kentucky miners arrived today. Oklahoma and Kansas men are expected tomorrow.

Most of the scale committee members are under indictment in Judge A. B. Anderson's Federal court in Indianapolis on charges growing out of the great coal strike last fall. When asked whether they might risk contempt of court action, the reply was that that "had been taken care of."

BRITISH BUILD MORE SHIPS.

3,000,000 Tons Increase in Year—Construction Here Cut in Half.

LONDON, July 28.—While merchant shipbuilding in the United States has been reduced by one-half since March, 1919, British shipyards are constructing nearly fifteen times as much tonnage today as they did a year ago, according to figures just made public by Lloyd's Register.

The figures show that there were 3,578,153 tons of merchant shipping under construction in the yards of the United Kingdom at the end of June, 1920. The total number of vessels building was 941, and of these fifty-one are between 12,000 and 20,000 tons, sixty-nine between 8,000 and 12,000 tons, 100 between 6,000 and 8,000 tons, while three are between 20,000 and 25,000 tons.

The total merchant tonnage building abroad is given as 4,142,751 tons on June 30, or 405,000 tons lower than at the end of March, which is accounted for by a decrease in the United States.

Attention is drawn in the returns to "an enormous decrease which has taken place in tonnage under construction in the United States during the last fifteen months."

At the end of March, 1919, it is stated, 4,185,523 tons were actually building in that country, which total by the end of June, 1920, has been practically reduced by half, while in the United Kingdom during the same period the figures have increased from 254,845 tons to the present record total of 3,578,153 tons.

The world's total is given as 2,195 vessels of 7,720,904 tons of which America contributes 414 of 2,105,956 tons; United Kingdom, 941 of 3,578,153 tons; British dominions, 115 of 268,799 tons; France, 95 of 265,302 tons; Japan, 56 of 254,260 tons; Holland, 153 of 398,915 tons; Denmark, 62 of 118,439 tons; Italy, 166 of 353,914 tons; Norway, 64 of 87,579 tons; Spain, 33 of 101,432 tons; Sweden, 73 of 125,899 tons.

3 FALL FROM TAXI, 1 DEAD.

Survivors Locked Up in Jersey on Intoxication Charge.

Three men who, the police say, were stupefied by liquor were pitched out of a taxicab travelling between Jersey City and Newark shortly before midnight last night. One died on the way to City Hospital in an ambulance. The other two were locked up charged with intoxication.

One man was found lying by the road at West Side and Communipaw Avenues, on the Lincoln Highway. The Jersey City police said he was Joseph Kennedy, a Lieutenant of the Fire Patrol at Kearny, N. J. He was unable to talk. He was placed in a cell in Jersey City. Further out on the Lincoln Highway, near Passaic Bridge, the others were found. The dead man, the police said, was Patrick Conroy, who lived on Pavonia avenue, near Chestnut street, Jersey City. He was unconscious when found by Jack Ruether, who keeps a saloon near the Passaic Bridge.

The third man was identified as Martin McCormack, 34 Mott street, Newark. He was locked up in Kearny. From a superficial examination of the body surgeons thought Conroy's death was due to liquor containing wood alcohol. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Ruether said he saw a white taxicab pass his place shortly before he found the men lying by the road.

SEES LOWER FOOD PRICES.

Chamber of Commerce Finds Crop Reports Indicate Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Crop reports indicate somewhat lower prices for foodstuffs, according to the monthly bulletin of the United States Chamber of Commerce Committee on Statistics and Standards, made public tonight. Slackness in textiles, some leather products and metal lines, however, are classed as indications of "more awaiting and readjustment periods in a moderate way than" the prelude to any marked change."

"Unless experience be misleading the new purchasing power of the railroads will be a strong factor in maintaining both prices and the volume of business," the bulletin asserts.

The automobile industry, the bulletin adds, "gives indications of approaching the peak of production for the present," while building operations are hampered by high prices of materials and labor to the point where "only the most imperatively necessary construction can and will proceed."

Governor Settles Memel Strike.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The strike at Memel, on the Baltic coast of Lithuania, has ended, says a wireless dispatch from Berlin. Demands of the strikers were agreed to by the French Governor, who promised strikers would not be victimized.

PIER STRIKERS VOTE TO GO BACK MONDAY

Will Ask Steamship Companies to Remove Nonunion Workers Who Took Their Jobs.

HOPE FOR HIGHER WAGES

Will Return at Old Scale of 65 Cents an Hour—Conference to be Held.

The striking longshoremen voted to resume work next Monday morning, at a meeting held in Veronica Hall last evening. A request to remove non-union workers from the piers will be made to the steamship companies, however, and a committee consisting of Joseph P. Ryan, Vice President of the International Longshoremen's Union, and delegates from the four New York locals, will interview H. H. Raymond, President of the American Steamship Owners Association, today.

Mr. Ryan told reporters after last night's meeting that the men would meet again at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to hear the report of the committee. Whether a refusal of the steamship owners to take away the non-union men would result in a resumption of the strike Mr. Ryan refused to predict, but the assumption was that the men felt surer of gaining a higher wage scale if they went back to work at once, and were likely therefore to hold to last night's vote. The old wage scale was 65 cents an hour.

An official of one of the largest coastwise steamship companies said yesterday that the coastwise piers had begun to take on something like the old-time appearance since the Teamsters' Union had decided to resume the handling of freight to and from the piers. The independent truckers have not yet been withdrawn, it was said, but probably will be in a short time.

A series of conferences, three in number, to discuss working conditions and wages with longshoremen of Shipping Board vessels will be held in New York beginning Sept. 15, a dispatch from Washington announces. Chairman Benson, in making this statement, said last night that negotiations for a new working agreement with longshoremen in the North Atlantic district, from Norfolk to Portland, would be carried on here in a joint conference between shipping interests and the International Longshoremen's Union. Similar meetings are to be held in New Orleans for Gulf stevedores, and in Savannah for those of the South Atlantic district.

SAILORS THREATEN STRIKE.

Italian Crew Objects to 800 Polish Soldiers Going to Danzig.

Forty members of the crew of the Anchor Line steamship Calabria, all Italians shipped in Genoa, declared their intentions of striking on Thursday evening if the vessel sailed for Danzig with 800 Polish soldiers to fight against the Soviet forces. The agents of the line said yesterday that the men would be paid off if they wished and others would be shipped in their places, and that the Calabria would sail on Aug. 17, as scheduled. They added that the Italians wanted to leave because the steamship was going to the North Sea instead of Mediterranean ports as she was accustomed to doing. Vessels arriving from Danzig are filled with returning Polish soldiers, who left Poland before the situation with Russia became acute. The men were still on the ship last night.

ELUDES POSSE IN STORM.

Lightning Reveals Presence of Pursuers and Fugitive Escapes.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, N. J., Aug. 13.—After an all-night and all-day hunt by a posse for Lefredda Antonio, wanted for shooting a man and a woman in a Philadelphia boarding house yesterday morning, the fugitive is still at large tonight. The police fear he escaped during a thunderstorm last night from his hiding place in a swamp. Chief of Police McGovern said tonight he believed the fugitive was being sheltered by Italians, hundreds of whom are employed on farms in this vicinity. One of these warned Antonio of the approach of the police yesterday, and thereby prevented his capture. Since the pistol duel between Antonio and the detectives last night when Officer George Hahner of Delanco had a narrow escape from bullets fired by the fugitive, the police have had only one glimpse of him. That was when flashes of lightning revealed him to pursuers in the act of breaking into a shanty. The same flashes revealed the approach of the pursuers and Antonio took to the woods again.

PAPAL SINGERS IN DEMAND.

British Tour Dropped to Let Them Revisit This Country.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Aug. 13.—Information has reached here from Rome that owing to insuperable difficulties which have arisen in connection with a projected Autumn tour of the Sistine Choir to Great Britain arrangements have been made, with the Pope's approval, for a six months' tour of the United States.

One hundred and twenty singers, under the directorship of Mgr. Giovanni Rella, who has been the virtual head of the Papal choir since the chronic indisposition of its famous maestro, Don Lorenzo Perosi, will sail from Naples for New York in the middle of September by the Cunard liner Pannonia.

It is probable, adds the report, that they will be accompanied by the celebrated orchestra of the Roman Augusteum.

DENY STAGEHANDS' STRIKE.

Managers Say Association's Contract Has Another Year to Run.

Published reports that a strike of stagehands might be called in New York on Sept. 1 were generally denied yesterday. The theatrical managers, following their weekly meeting, declared that the contract of their association with the stagehands had another year to run, and that in the meantime a number of their members are paying salaries in excess of the union rate, which is now $50 weekly.

The stagehands have asked an increase to $65, but a strike is considered unlikely.

MUSIC NOTES.

Signor Caruso, with his wife and infant daughter, was at Ocean Grove, N. J., yesterday preparing for his concert in the Auditorium there tonight. The tenor will sing for the first time in some years the air, "O Paradiso," from "L'Africaine," with others from "Boheme" and "Pagliacci."

Madame Galli-Curci, who recently returned from Europe, is announced by Evans & Salter to give her only concert this Summer in the Ocean Grove Auditorium on Monday evening, Aug. 23.

Carolina Lazzari comes from her Summer home in Connecticut to sing airs from "Samson and Delilah" and "The Huguenots" at the Stadium tonight. Mona Bates, pianist, will travel from Chautauqua, N. Y., to appear here Monday.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Upward in Leisurely Fashion—Foreign Influences in Abeyance.

Stocks were free from bearish pressure yesterday and a gradual strengthening process was in evidence throughout the entire session. The net result was shown forth in gains of one to two points in the industrial list, with a smaller response to purchases among the railroad shares. The price movement, taken in conjunction with the firm trend of Thursday, was of a sort made familiar in other periods of recovery following a sharp decline, reflecting in large part buying for the retirement of short contracts. The scale of business was too small to show any especial interest among the public. In case of one or two stocks, expected to figure in a merger later, there were bulges which indicated difficulty in covering short sales as well as some speculative purchases for the sake of expected merger benefits. As a whole the market contained little interest for one seeking underlying influences, for the reason that, for the time being at least, the Polish situation failed to develop anything which had not been considered before. Call money lent at 7 and 6 per cent.

With the exception of events in Europe which are still in a stage impossible of interpretation in a financial way, the week has brought more constructive than depressing developments. No doubt the stock price list was brought into a fairly stable position by the reduction last week of some pool interests which had stayed with their stocks longer than money lenders thought wise. The scaling down of commitments of this class probably had a favorable effect on the money market. When forced selling came to an end the market began to improve and business reports afterward were not so unsettling as before. Brokerage office comment showed that surveys of the steel and iron markets were heartening, especially through indications that a lessening of buying in particular lines, like the automobile trade, had, in effect, merely released tonnage and mill room which machinery and implement makers had desired for some time. In other words, the slack of demand in one direction was taken up in another. However, the speculative following of the stock market was left with enough uncertain matters to consider, centred in industry outside the steel trade and in foreign political complications. Relatively small turnovers of shares for several days past have disclosed reluctance of buyers to take on sizable lines of long stock. Sight has not been lost of the fact that the Autumn credit strain is only just getting under way, and weks may be expected to pass before the bank statements show genuine improvement of credit, taking the country over.

The foreign exchange market recovered part of Thursday's reaction, sterling rising 2½ cents, with a final sight draft quotation of 3.65. Wheat reacted more than 3 cents per bushel, the decline occurring after a fairly strong trend in early transactions. Wheat exports seem to show that foreign buyers took advantage of the sharp fall of prices in late July and the first week of August, as the outward movement for the week ended Aug. 12, reported by Bradstreet's, amounted to 8,291,574 bushels, including flour equivalent, against 7,671,977 bushels in the preceding week and 4,419,359 bushels in the same week last year. Cotton fluctuated narrowly, speculators disclosing a cautious attitude toward the end of the week.

CHINO COPPER INCOME LESS

Decline of $40,263 Reported for Quarter Ended June 30.

The Chino Copper Company reports total net income of $330,152 in the quarter ended June 30, a decline of $40,263 from the revenue in the same quarter last year. Dividends amounting to $326,242 were paid and a surplus of $3,910 remained. As the dividend in the June quarter, 1919, totaled $652,485, there was a deficit of $282,070 at that time.

In the six months ended June 30 the profit was $1,139,879, equal to $1.31 per share of stock. The company had a surplus after dividends of $487,394 in the period, against a deficit of $1,107,996 in the first half of 1919. The cost of copper produced, according to the company's statement yesterday, was 15.9 cents a pound in the second quarter of this year, against 14.6 cents in the first quarter after plant depreciation but without giving credit for precious metals produced as by-products.

$100,000,000 MERGER OF OIL COMPANIES

GETS RICH COLOMBIA FIELD

Big Increase in Production There and in Peru Expected as Result of Consolidation.

The largest oil company merger of the year, involving Standard Oil interests on one hand and Benedum-Trees-Treat-Crawford interests of Pittsburgh, on the other hand, has practically been completed and announcement of details will be made in a few days. The International Petroleum Company, Limited, which is controlled by the Imperial Oil Company, Limited, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, will be united with the Tropical Oil Company. It is expected that either a new corporation to take over the two concerns will be formed or the International Petroleum Company's capital will be increased sufficiently to permit exchange of stock for Tropical Oil shares.

The company resultant from the merger of these corporations is expected to have capital equivalent to about $100,000,000, although the exchange of stock, which will involve the issue of new shares to present holders of International shares, may be on a basis of shares without par value, the full capital being stated. While the terms are being kept secret pending the formal announcement, it is expected that holders of International Petroleum shares will receive two shares for each share held, while about 1 1-5 new shares will be exchanged for each Tropical Oil share. Stock of the International Petroleum Company is selling around $35.50 and Tropical Oil shares at $20 each.

Compares with Mexican Field.

The Tropical company, as now constituted, has an authorized capital stock amounting to $50,000,000, of which $39,125,000 has been issued. The par is $25. The International Petroleum capitalization consists of 3,900,000 ordinary shares of £1 par, of which £2,606,802 is outstanding and £100,000 preference stock. A majority of the ordinary shares are in the treasury of the Imperial Oil Company. When the consolidation is completed, it is believed that between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 shares will be authorized and most of them issued.

The consolidation of the companies, both operating in South America, promises a great increase in petroleum production in Colombia and Peru in the next few years. The Pittsburgh oil men who formed the Tropical Company four years ago obtained a concession from the Colombian Government for the exploration of 2,000,000 acres of land in the Magdalena River Valley, about 350 miles from the river's mouth. Important oil seepages were found in many sections of the concession, and last year three wells were drilled part way into "pay sand." The wells had an initial flow of 10,000 barrels each, which decided the owners that the land was capable of producing oil on a basis comparable to the rich fields of Mexico. The wells were capped, as the company had then no way of getting the oil to refineries, but when news of the discovery came to the attention of the Standard Oil forces an examination was immediately started, covering the millions of acres.

Million Spent in Exploration.

A party of International Petroleum engineers traveled during 1919 and the forepart of the current year over the acreage, making tests. The members recently returned to the United States, and their report resulted in negotiations between the International management and the Pittsburgh capitalists looking toward a union of forces. The details of the engineering report are now in process of study at the International Company's headquarters in Toronto, and announcement of the proposed merger is expected to be accompanied by figures of potential production, land leases, &c., held by the Tropical Company.

It was learned yesterday that the deal would have been completed some time ago if the oil men, acting through the Tropical Company's representatives in South America, had not been seeking additional teritory. This required laborious detail in examining titles and obtaining leases. While this work was going on the International Company devoted several millions of dollars to additional exploration, including preparations for a pipe line route of more than 300 miles from the producing territory to seaboard. A sum of money running into the millions will have to be spent for the construction of the pipe line and time will be required to complete the task, so that the new Tropical output will hardly figure to an important extent in this year's production. The Tropical Company is bound under an agreement with the Colombian Government on a royalty basis to erect a refinery within that country and supply the domestic demand for petroleum products at prices not in excess of New York market quotations.

Supplies West Coast.

The International Petroleum Company was organized in 1914 to take over the producing, refining and marketing business of the London and Pacific Petroleum Company, Limited, and the Lagunitos Oil Company, Limited, both operating in Peru. The combined crude oil production of the International is about 7,000 barrels daily. A new refinery of 5,000 barrels capacity per day is being built to supplement the original 1,500-barrel plant at the port of Talara, Peru. The surplus crude oil output is shipped to the Imperial Oil Company's refinery at Vancouver. The International supplies the West Coast of South America with much of its fuel oil and refined products, and with the addition of the Tropical's output it is expected that refining and marketing facilities will be extended rapidly.

Officers of the International Petroleum Company are G. H. Smith, President; Victor Ross and A. M. McQueen, Vice Presidents, who, together with J. H. Englehart, Sir Edmund Osler, W. Nesbit, Captain H. Keeswick and C. O. Stillman, constitute the Directorate. Directors of the Tropical Company are J. C. Trees, who is President; George W. Crawford, Vice President; L. B. Denning, Secretary; M. C. Treat, M. L. Benedum, F. W. Crawford, John S. Weller and Francisco Escabar.

PLANS $150,000,000 "MELON."

Standard Oil Stockholders to Vote on Capital Increase Sept. 1.

The Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New York met yesterday and agreed to notify stockholders that a special meeting would be held Sept. 1 for the purpose of ratifying an increase in the company's capital stock from $75,000,000 to $225,000,000. Should the proposal to increase the capitalization be approved the Directors will vote on the question of distributing the new stock as a 200 per cent. dividend to present holders. This dividend has been expected for many months, and it was stated in authoritative quarters yesterday that it was probably the forerunner of similar dividends by Standard Oil companies which have big surplus accounts.

The Standard Oil Company of New York is one of the large refining and distributing concerns in the Standard Oil group. Its domestic territory covers New York and the New England States, and its foreign business is large. At present the company sells more petroleum and petroleum products in China and the Far East than any similar concern. Earnings have always been at a high rate, and 1919 established a record when on Dec. 31 the company showed net for the twelve months of $43,165,109. This was equivalent to $57.62 a share earned on the outstanding capital stock.

In 1913 the capitalizaion of the company was increased from $15,000,000 to $75,000,000, stockholders sharing in the melon cutting, which gave them a 400 per cent. stock dividend. Since 1915 the company earned to the end of last year $154,208,327, and paid dividends aggregating $55 a share on the capital stock outstanding. This left a balance of more than $150 a share, which was put back into the company, and the surplus grew to the equivalent of $190 a share at the end of 1919. Since that time the business of the company has continued at a satisfactory rate, and while there are many who will be surprised to hear of the present melon, some such action has been expected in the financial district for several weeks.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET

Shipping Shares Improve.

As a group the shipping shares moved into higher ground yesterday despite continued unfavorable reports regarding the trend of ocean freight rates to lower levels. Because of this the upturn was attributed to short-covering by traders who have found the week uncomfortably warm even when profits could be made easily, and who decided not to spend Saturday in the financial district as usual. In addition it was reported that a fair percentage of the professionals who have recently stayed short of the market over the week-end holiday materially lightened their commitments yesterday. The sharp recoveries which have been made during the week apparently discouraged that practice which in recent weeks has proved extremely profitable.

Rails Again Firm.

The railroad shares failed to reflect the bearish sentiment, which was reported in some professional circles as due to the announcement that the local Public Service Commission would hold a hearing on increased railroad tariffs in New York State. The serious character of the transportation situation from a national viewpoint was taken in many quarters to offer a sufficient reason why the State Commissions would probably hesitate before they would make an issue of State and interstate rate-making powers. Continued improvement in tonnage reports and reports of earnings by the different carriers were factors in the advance. In addition it was reported in the course of the day that traffic conditions were improving steadily and that efficiency of car movement was also increasing in the aggregate.

National Aniline a Feature.

As a natural result of the reports that the big chemical merger was on the road to a speedy conclusion, most of the participating shares moved forward yesterday. But the feature of the group was National Aniline & Chemical, which on a sharp bulge sold up to a high for the day at 75¾, which was within a fraction of the closing quotation. Recently the professionals have sold the stock short persistently and forced the price down at the same time that rumors were circulated that Aniline would not participate in the proposed merger. Similar rumors were put out regarding Barrett Comany and that issue was also hammered. The upturn yesterday was due in large part to short covering, although it looked at certain times as if some of the timid holders who sold stock when the decline started had bought back in again.

Intrastate Tariffs Being Prepared.

In spite of reports that the Railway Commissions in several States have announced dates for hearings on the new schedules of railroad freight and passenger rates, experts in the employ of the different carriers are bending every effort to complete their new schedules so they may go into effect on Aug. 26. This is contrary to some reports to the effect that the railroads had been thrown into confusion by the report that State opposition to the rate increases granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission would develop.

Raw Sugar Price Again Breaks.

Further uncertainty regarding the sugar situation was reflected in the market for the sugar stocks yesterday, which were somewhat irregular in the dull trading. Reports that the price for Cuban raws had broken another two cents served as a check on the rally which had started in some of the sugar shares, and while some of the issues gained ground it was on a comparatively small volume of business. The fact that importation from abroad threatens to result in an oversupply continues to overshadow present dealings in the stocks. Cuban-American and Manati sugar both gained ground while Cuba Cane closed unchanged and American Beet and American Sugar Refining showed net losses on an exchange of only a few hundred shares of stock.

The Listless List.

There was not very much to yesterday's market. Stocks, for the most part, went up, but they did not go up much and the trading was on a comparatively light scale. There was some short covering by those who were satisfied with their profits and by some others who noted the approach of the week-end and wanted to even up their accounts over Sunday. From noon today until the opening time on Monday will be a matter of forty-six hours, and forty-six hours is ample time for something to happen abroad, especially if event should move any faster than they have been going lately, as well they may.

Two Viewpoints.

Wall Street, like every other place of assemblage, always harbors elements of differing viewpoint. In the Street you are either a bull or a bear, although, of course, you may also be a lamb. But unless you are nobody at all you must look for a rise or else a fall. Just now those who look for a rise predicate their belief on the supposed liquidation of commodities which has been going on all over the country. This process is to make money cheap, not to say idle, and cheap and idle money usually begets rising stock prices. The bears, on the other hand, look to Europe for the happenings which are to dominate the market. They see Great Britain weakened and on the defensive throughout the empire; they see France about to embark on a militaristic orgy; Germany smoldering and likely to break into flames; Russia about to overrun Eastern Europe, and so on. But the philosopher sits back and talks about August heat and dullness and watches.

Orderly Call Money.

Not since the last week of May has the call money market been so quiet and orderly as in the week just ending, or, to be exact, which ended yesterday, for there is no call money market on Saturday. Every day the renewal has been made at 7 per cent. and every day, with the exception of Wednesday, new loans have been negotiated after the opening and renewal at 6 per cent. On Wednesday, by way of supplying a novelty, the afternoon recession was to 6½ per cent. and for the first time in many months the official closing was at a fractional rate. There has been no question of supply meeting the demand and as a rule the demand has not been much below the supply. It would appear as if the powers that be had about judged the thing to a fine point, where there is just a comfortable surplus of offerings not enough to warrant a break through 6 per cent., but sufficient to prevent any commission house uneasiness at the hour which used to be known as Hammond's Time.

Inconsistent Exchanges.

The foreign exchange market is becoming inconsistent, a fact which may augur a return of the speculative fraternity to this medium of risk. On Monday, when the so-called "London panic" was on, all European rates fell off sharply, which was consistent enough, but after that the fluctuations, as a general thing, were in direct opposition to the news developments. A notable case of this was the 5 point break in sterling on Thursday in the face of the most remarkable foreign trade statement England had put out since the beginning of the war. Another was the way the whole market ignored France's recognition of Wrangel, an event which many construed to mean the beginning of a new world war. And yesterday, for no particular reason, the market moved up fairly briskly.

OIL FAMINE FEARED UNDER GUFFEY PLAN

American Producers Point Out Danger of Confiscation of Plants in Mexico.

'MONSTROUS,' SAYS DOHENY

Merchant Marine Would Have to Buy Coal and Auto Industry Curtail Output.

High prices, gasolineless Sundays and an acute shortage of petroleum products will result if the Mexican Government should be permitted to seize oil lands owned by American producers in Mexico, according to representatives of the industry who replied yesterday to an attack made upon them in Mexico City by Joseph Guffey of the A. G. W. I. Oil Company.

Mr. Guffey's charge that their titles were faulty was resented bitterly and denied with emphasis by spokesmen for the concerns which produce 95 per cent. of the Mexican petroleum supply. They asserted that Guffey's attempt to uphold the Mexican Government in a policy which the American State Department frequently has described as confiscatory was prompted by selfishness.

In a statement handed to the press in the Mexican capital on Thursday Mr. Guffey recommended that the Mexican Government stop all work under the "provisional decree." This would mean that the forty-four companies forming the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico would have to cease their production of 12,000,000 barrels a week, according to a declaration by the association, which was formed to resist the attempt by Mexioc to take possession of the oil lands belonging to private owners.

The provisional decree was issued in order that production might continue pending solution of the oil controversy after all the producers except the little group for which Mr. Guffey is spokesman had refused to obey the decree of Article 27 of the Constitution put through by the Carranza Government in 1917. The effect of that article, in brief, was to "nationalize" the oil lands by forcing those who had been undisputed owners or lessees of them for many years to "denounce" them to the Government and then get permission from the Government, for a consideration, to work what they insist are their own properties.

Edward L. Doheny, President of the Mexican Petroleum Company and Chairman of the association just mentioned, commenting yesterday upon Mr. Guffey's statement said:

"The publication of Guffey's opinion undoubtedly is expected to strengthen the views of the few remaining members of the Carranza régime who still hope to confiscate the rights of American oil producers in Mexico. It is surprising that any man of intelligence should hope that such views would prevail against the expressed opinion of our State Department, which is sustained by the opinions of the Foreign Departments of other Governments; against views of American lawyers who have studied the situation for years, against the views of the majority of Mexican lawyers who agree with the opinion of our lawyers and against the expressed views of those who succeeded Mr. Carranza in authority in Mexico.

"It is of greater interest to the American people than merely sustaining the property rights of some of their fellow citizens that this doctrine of confiscation at will by newly self-constituted Governments of property rights acquired under former Governments, should not obtain. None of these American companies are operating lands obtained by concession from any Mexican Government. All their lands were acquired from private owners just the same as lands are acquired in the State of New York.

"The maintenance of the doctrine of confiscation so verbosely advocated by Mr. Guffey not only would mean cutting off immediately more than 15 per cent. of the gasoline supply and more than 80 per cent. of the fuel oil supply of the United States, but it would mean, if our Government permitted any other Government to accomplish such a thing, that those Americans whose energy and pioneer spirit has furnished to American industries much needed raw materials necessarily would be discouraged from continuing their efforts and this country's supply of such materials would come to our industries through the efforts of nationals of other countries. Not only would Sir Mackay-Edgar's prediction come true that within five years the United States would be paying $500,000,000 more per year for petroleum, but many more millions would be paid to the profit of other countries.

"The doctrine espoused by Mr. Guffey is so monstrous and far reaching in its effects that if Mexico were to insist upon it and the United States Government should permit it, not only would our merchant marine be compelled to turn to the coal fields for fuel, but our automobile manufacturers could discharge still other thousands of employes and abandon their agencies. Moreover, the hope of the farmers that the tractor would decrease the cost of production would prove a vain dream."

Mr. Guffey's statement was considered at a meeting of the association, attended by some of the leading American producers, after which this statement in reply was issued:

"It is wholly and solely for the purpose of protecting lawfully acquired properties from confiscation and transfer to 'denouncers,' that the companies associated themselves. They have agreed to respect the titles lawfully acquired under the then existing laws of Mexico by refusing to 'denounce' any such properties under the confiscatory laws subsequently enacted.

"The associated companies never have made any 'attack' upon the Government, although they have protested, as our State Department has also protested, against the proposed confiscation of their lawfully acquired properties. If these protests are sustained, as the associated companies confidently expect they will be, these protesting companies will obviously obtain whatever 'unfair' advantages results from a successful effort to retain for themselves their lawfully acquired properties against confiscation and transfer to obedient 'denouncing' companies and individuals through the attempted enforcement of purely retroactive laws.

"From the standpoint of those who have lately come into the Mexican field, after others have spent years and fortunes in prospecting the country and acquiring oil properties, the confiscatory, retroactive laws must indeed be looked upon as 'fair and equitable' and as removing 'many burdensome restrictions.'

"The purpose of the statement issued in Mexico City, and the degree of credence to be given it, must be judged with reference to earnestness of the desire which may be entertained for the easy acquisition of the valuable properties of others and the very well understood anxiety of the 'obedient' denouncing companies and individuals that the confiscatory laws of 1917 be sustained in order to prevent those 'retroactive effects wherein enormous interests created * * * according to the existing law' of 1917, but in violation of the lawfully acquired rights of the pioneer companies and of the stand taken by our State Department, may be not destroyed but returned to their lawful owners."

U. S. LIGHT AND HEAT ELECTS

Directorate Indicates Willys-Overland Interests Have Control.

It was announced in the financial district yesterday that stockholders of the United States Light and Heat Corporation had elected the following directors and officers: J. N. Willys, W. P. Chrysler, J. R. Harbeck, J. E. Kepperly, J. A. Smith, E. H. Gold, C. C. Miniger, C. L. Lane, J. A. Roberts, J. C. Moore and George C. Shepherd. Mr. Willys was elected Chairman of the board, Mr. Gold Vice Chairman, J. Allen Smith President, Mr. Lane Vice President and General Manager, H. H. Van Nest Vice President and Secretary, H. H. Knapp Treasurer and T. G. Swannie Assistant Treasurer and Assistant Secretary. It was also announced that financial statements of the company are being printed and will be mailed to stockholders as soon as they are received from the printer.

As many of the new members of the Directorate represent the interests of the Willys-Overland Company and affiliated concerns, the statement indicates that that company has obtained a dominating interest in United States Light and Heat. This was not considered as surprising in the financial district yesterday as the Willys-Overland company has had a dominating interest in the Electric Autolite Company, which manufactures electric lighting and power systems for automobiles, for some time. The United States Light and Heat Company manufactures storage batteries and electric lighting systems for railroad equipment. This was considered as in line with the Autolite activities.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Freeport Texas Company, producer of sulphur, reports net income of $733,493 in the six months ended May 31, equal to $1.47 per share of stock. In the corresponding period last year the net was $881,227, or $1.76 per share.

Directors of the Lake Superior Corporation have declared 5 per cent. interest on the income mortgage bonds.

W. C. Langley & Co. and Blythe, Witter & Co. have bought $1,000,000 Pacific Power and Light Company first lien and general mortgage 8 per cent. bonds, due Aug. 1, 1930, from the Electric Bond and Share Company.

Interests associated with Lawrence Chamberlain & Co. are understood to have bought the Struthers-Wells Company of Warren, Pa., which produces steel plates, drop forgings, &c. This group last year bought the Titusville Iron Works of Titusville, Pa.

The American Light and Traction Company reports the granting of rate increases to several subsidiary concerns, including higher rates for gas at Binghamton, N. Y.; Grand Rapids and Muskegon, Mich.; for street railway fares at the last-named city, and the abolition of increment fares at St. Paul.

Newberger, Henderson & Loeb have prepared a booklet describing six listed rubber company stocks.

OUR HAVANA BRANCH
For Your Cuban Commerce

MORRO CASTLE, HAVANA

CUBA produces nearly one-quarter of the world's sugar, as well as vast quantities of tobacco and ore. Because of its production, its geographical location and its peculiar needs, Cuba is a logical market for American commerce. Of its total foreign trade during 1919, valued at about $880,000,000, the United States contributed about 75% of the imports and took approximately 70% of the exports.

IN HAVANA, the commercial metropolis and chief port of Cuba, is located a branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

AMERICAN business men will find this branch prepared to render the utmost service in expediting all financial matters pertaining to their trade with Cuba.

Our New York Agency will be glad to supply you with further information.

COTTON IS NERVOUS AND RANGE SMALL

Market Reflects Mixed Reports—Eases at Close After Late Rally.

LOCAL SPOT DOWN 150

This Is Lowest Price Since Oct. 27 and Is 625 Under July 23 Record—No Sales.

The cotton market was as nervous and erratic yesterday as it had been the day before, again reflecting the mixed character of the news. In the morning it sold off, but rallied in the early afternoon and then eased down again before closing time. The range, which was within 50 points for the more active months and considerably less for the others, was the smallest of any day of the week.

Traders found it difficult to decide whether the more unfavorable reports from abroad should be followed in selling, or whether the bad weather reports should be used as a bull argument. This uncertainty, and the fact that it was Friday, a day when usually the week-end evening up sets in, tended to hold the market fairly even. Southern reports received here yesterday complained a good deal of the recent rains, and the probability of more rains, which are hurting the crop as it heads toward maturity, and there was a lot said about deterioration. Added emphasis was given this by the semi-monthly report of the Southern Products Company, which made present condition 72.4, as compared with 75.5 at the end of July.

The spot quotation here was marked down 150 points to 37.50 yesterday. This is the lowest price for local spots since Oct. 27 last and is 625 points below the high record made on July 23. The local spot market was very dull yesterday, no sales being reported on the official sheet last night, and the readjustment of price was thus not accomplished by any wholesale liquidation. It appeared to be more in the nature of getting the local market in line with the Southern markets, which have been heavy of late. Yesterday Galveston, Augusta and Little Rock reported further recessions in spot prices, the two former of 25 points each and the latter of 50 points.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Sept.	....	32.50	32.50	32.25	32.75

The local market for spot cotton was weak, down 150 points to 37.50c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston 35c, New Orleans 35.25c, Augusta 36c, Memphis 37c, Houston 35c, Little Rock 36c.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet at 27.19d for middling. Sales: 5,000 bales, of which American 4,000. Imports none. Futures opened steady, 8 to 18 points down and closed quiet, 14 to 24 points down on the day. Prices—Aug. 24.80d, Oct. 22.84d, Dec. 21.70d, Mch. 20.83d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull.

WHEAT CLOSES HEAVY.

Chances of Armistice Between Poland and Russia Had Bearish Effect.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Chances of an armistice being arranged between Russia and Poland had a bearish effect today on the wheat market. Word that the British Royal Commission had again withdrawn from the market as a buyer counted also as a depressing factor. Pit transactions were of only moderate volume. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 2½c higher, with December $2.45 to $2.46½ and March $2.49 to $2.50, were quickly followed by a sharp break all around.

Any lasting rally was prevented by notice that the port of Galveston was congested with grain and that railroad loadings for there had been stopped. The market closed heavy, 3¼ to 4c net lower, with December $2.41 to $2.41¼ and March $2.44.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday......8 per cent. for the best names.
Thursday......8 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Fur Auction Meeting.

A meeting of representatives of the fur auction companies will be held on Monday to decide on what action will be taken regarding October sales. No definite decision has yet been reached, but the meeting may result in an announcement. The auction companies of New York, St. Louis and Montreal will be represented. Postponement of the October sales has been advocated as a means of stabilizing conditions in the industry.

⁂

Hand Knitting Continues.

Conditions in the wool market seem to make no difference to the output of hand crocheted or knitted wool garments which please women. Three-quarter length wraps are among the latest forms of these garments. They come in full capes, crocheted, falling from a shawl collar of angora. One of the combinations has the cape in white and the angora collar in black.

⁂

Tenacious of Profits.

About the same thing is found by observers among the smaller dry goods retailers as among the small grocery and vegetable dealers. With produce and grocery prices falling at wholesale, the declines have not been truly reflected in the small retail stores. Small operators in dry goods, it is said, are just as prone to hang on to their larger profits. The large houses are said to be willing to take the lean years with the fat because of their broader business policies, but the smaller concerns are short-sighted enough to keep up their rates as long as it is humanly possible.

Costly Vanity Cases.

Smart vanity cases are in black enamel set with diamonds. These are two and a half to three inches long, open like a cigarette case, with powder puff, &c., inside. They are on a short gold chain or black cord and are worn on the wrist. In some cases, for the woman who has her own particular brand of smoke, they are cigarette cases. They are simple and quiet in design, with diamonds enough to bring the cost up to from $600 and $800 to $1,000, prices that are not difficult to reach in these days.

Outlook in Dress Goods.

The garment manufacturers are not anxious to have the new lines of dress goods priced for some time to come in view of the certainty that the new values will be even lower than prevailing rates. To have a new price range lower than the existing one would mean some upset of orders taken and based on rates not so low. To give an idea of what may be expected in the way of prices on Spring lines, a large manufacturer said he is now able to buy a good tricotine at $5 a yard. The Fall opening price was $6.50. He expects the new price to be $4.50 and maybe lower.

Buying from the Papers.

In the opinion of a leading garment manufacturer, people are now doing their buying "from the newspapers." He explained this by saying that the shopper does not go to a store prepared to pay what is asked for an article, but makes comparisons of the prices appearing in advertisements and then makes a decision as to the store in which the purchase will be made. For this reason, the competition at present is of a much keener type than in normal times when merely a few visits from store to store were necessary for comparison purposes.

Markups May Be Smaller.

There are grounds for believing that in making their Fall prices the retailers are apt to use closer margins than has been the custom in ready-to-wear departments. For one thing, of course, the public is in a bargain-hunting frame of mind, but one of the chief considerations is the strictures placed by the Government on profits. Ordinarily, it is pointed out, the retailer makes his first price high and, if the garment remains unsold, goes back later on and purchases another garment more cheaply. Then he strikes an average and holds a sale. Averaging, however, is not permitted by the Department of Justice, and this method cannot be used. As a result it is felt the retailers will use smaller markups and try to sell in quantity right from the start.

Gray Goods Continue Dull.

What little business took place in the local gray goods market yesterday was at comparatively low figures, and the sales were, with few exceptions, from first hands. Everything was for spot delivery, showing that the purchases were for immediate use. There is no disposition, on the part of buyers at least, to make commitments for the future. Some sales of 39-inch 80 squares in printcloths were made at 20 cents by second hands. First hands sold 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64-60s at the same price, 16 cents. They also disposed of some 56-60 four-yard sheetings at 17 cents. In sateens, second hands let go 39-inch 64-104, 4.20 goods at 20 cents. There were no large transactions reported during the day of any construction.

Getting Out Fancy Combs.

Elaborate combs are coming in for the Fall and Winter trade. In the less expensive ones every color is used in the stones inset, brilliant blues, greens and amber, alone or in combinations. Many of the backs are very high, and in the shell or amber these are elaborately carved. A fan top is a design that is used in both the cheaper and more expensive combs. This is in the form of the open and shut fan, spread, and is as large as an actual small fan. In the cheaper combs the outlines of the folds of the fan top are set with colored stones, and in the amber and shell ones are carved, while the two materials are in some cases combined. An amber comb will have the sticks of the fan outlined with shell, or vice versa. A very attractive amber fan, or an amber substitute, has the folds outlined with translucent amber-colored stones.

Demand for Steam Sizes.

The feature of the past week in the local anthracite market, according to Saward's Journal, has been the noticeable strengthening in the demand for steam sizes, due primarily to the high price of bituminous and the difficulty in securing sufficient shipments of soft coal. Consequently prices of steam sizes have moved up about 25 cents over the range, with demand gaining more tensity from day to day, even for barley, which fell into ill repute during the war, when many things were shipped to dealers under the guise of "barley." Many bituminous dealers have been obliged to take in barley to help meet requirements, and, finding that the coal now shipped is more satisfactory than formerly, are coming back into the market with heavier orders. The demand for domestic sizes of hard coal is as strong as ever. Soft coal prices are considered to be in for a price recession.

Dry Goods Collections Not So Good.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods has been considerably in excess of the corresponding period of last year. Road salesmen are not yet showing samples for Spring delivery. Road sales for immediate delivery were less in volume than during the same week a year ago. There were slightly fewer customers in the house. Collections were not quite up to the standard of this period last year."

CHARGES RAILROAD THREAT.

Toronto Official Alleges Plot at Hearing on Canadian Rates.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—Judgment was reserved by the Dominion Railway Commission today on the petition of the American Railway Association that an increase of 40 per cent. in freight rates be allowed on through shipments between the United States and Canada.

Corporation Counsel Geary of Toronto said there was a veiled threat on the part of American railroads to keep coal out of Canada unless the petition was granted. He said the commission should not be influenced either by United States railroads or United States Governmental agencies.

Chief Commissioner Carvel, replying, declared that the United States Interstate Commerce Commission always had shown "the utmost willingness to give Canada all coal possible."

A. B. Coyne, representing Western Canada commercial organizations, opposed the petition. He said an effort was being made to stampede the commission.

SEED CROP LESS ABUNDANT.

Beans, Peas and Onions Exceptions to the General Decrease.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The production of practically all small vegetable seed crops will be considerably less this year than in 1919 or 1918, according to reports received by the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. The reductions range from 88 per cent. for spinach to 12 per cent. for lettuce. Increases are shown for garden pole beans, garden peas and onion sets.

A slightly larger production than last year of the early crop of alfalfa seed in the Southwest is indicated. Due to smaller acreage and lighter yield per acre a production of timothy seed of approximately 80 per cent. of last year is forecast.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The usual midsummer dullness and the price readjustment process are still contributing to hold general business within rather narrow limits, but in some lines of industry there is slight improvement noted by the weekly trade reviews. Much is made of the promise of bumper crops, and, although these have yet to become a positive factor on the side of improvement, many are looking to them for the inspiration which, it is hoped, will restore confidence this Fall. In commenting on the situation as it has unfolded the last week, Bradstreet's says:

"Generally speaking, as for some time past, the apparel trades, so called, are at the pole of depression, while the metal trades, especially iron and steel, hardware, paper, coal and coke are at the opposite pole of activity and strength of prices."

Dun's Review notes that certain statistical displays are making less favorable comparison than they were a short time ago. The Review says:

"After a long period of uninterrupted increase, bank clearings disclose reduction from last year's figures, a small decrease appearing in the July statement, and the tendency toward contraction, although most conspicuous at New York City, is not confined to any one section of the country. That the decline in bank clearings is partly a reflection of the present repression in business and the yielding of commodity prices is scarcely to be doubted, while the recent falling off in value of building permits issued at leading centres is evidence that monetary restrictions and other factors are operating to check construction activities."

COMMODITIES PRICES.

The Week's Changes in Them Less Significant Than Usual.

Although price movements in the wholesale markets this week were confined to a comparatively narrow range, the general trend toward a lower level has continued, with 35 recessions as compared with 21 advances, according to Dun's Review. Price changes in the grain markets were less spectacular than in recent weeks, but, owing largely to political conditions in Europe, all cereals developed considerable strength. There was no particular alteration in dairy products, demand and supply being fairly equal, and prices were firmly maintained. Live meats displayed a good deal of irregularity, some improvement in beef contrasting with easier conditions in sheep and hogs.

Few important changes occurred in provisions, although a yielding tendency developed in some products. Further advances were announced on pig iron, while in the minor metals higher prices for lead contrasted with a fall in copper. Reports of conditions in merchandising channels continue to have a depressing effect on the primary markets for cotton goods, and a still weaker tone prevails in hides and leather.

In the following table are given the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

In the foodstuffs group advances were registered in extra creamery butter and new-laid eggs, each going up a cent. Western eggs participated in the advance. Spring flour patents sold for 25 cents more than a week ago. Winter straights remaining at their previous level of $12. Among the vegetables, potatoes suffered the only decline, with the price going off 50 cents a barrel. Chicago hogs were reduced 40 cents a hundredweight during the week, and sheep and lard saw, respectively, declines of 75 and 45 cents for the same weight. Every item except hay registered a gain in the grain division, the best showing being made by corn with an advance of 13¾ cents. Next came rye, which gained 13½ cents a bushel, and in their order barley 10 cents, wheat 9 cents and oats 3 cents.

The metals showed three price slumps, Bessemer steel billets falling $5 a ton, tin having a loss of 1½ cents a pound and lead going off a fraction. Pig iron, however, picked up $1.75 cents a ton.

The chief printcloth construction declined 1 cent a yard. The leather group lost ground also, with Chicago hides quoted at 1 cent a pound less and cowhides off 2 cents a pound. The basic raw silk made a display of strength with an advance of 40 cents a pound.

290 INSANE ALIENS SENT HOME IN YEAR

State Hospital Commission Caused Deportation of 143, According to Report.

16,500 NOT DEPORTABLE

Larger Appropriation for Work of Immigration Authorities Needed, Says Dr. Dawes.

During last year 290 insane aliens were sent from New York State institutions to countries from which they came. The immigration authorities deported 147, and 143 were sent back at the instance of Dr. Spencer L. Dawes, medical examiner of the State Hospital Commission.

The foregoing figures were taken from the annual reports of the Ellis Island Immigration Station and the New York State Hospital Commission for the year ended June 30, 1920. A year ago there were 800 deportable insane aliens in the asylums of the State, but this number was reduced to about 500.

The reports, which will be issued later, will show that there are 39,000 insane persons in State institutions. There is now room for only 28,000 in the hospitals and sanitariums "for the proper care and treatment of the victims of insanity," it is said. Forty-eight per cent. of the insane in this State, or about 17,000, are foreign born. Both parents of 66 per cent. of the State's insane are of foreign birth. Seventy-one per cent. had one parent of foreign birth. Of the 17,000 foreign-born insane in New York State institutions, all except about 500 are not deportable, having been in the country longer than the five-year limit for deportation proceedings.

Dr. Dawes said yesterday:

"In addition to the task of deporting our alien insane the State Hospital Commission has been active during the last year sending back to other States insane persons who have fallen victims of insanity here and were confined in our State institutions. During the year we have removed 475 of these insane persons from New York State hospitals to the States from which they came. Some of them were aliens, some were citizens, but all were residents of the States to which they were sent. We have encountered little difficulty in getting the States to take back their insane, with the exception of the State of Connecticut. We have written agreements with Massachusetts, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Washington and several other States. We not infrequently send parties of insane persons across the continent to States on the Pacific Coast. The last shipment consisted of eleven insane persons.

"The Ellis Island Immigrant Station is not to blame for New York having so many insane aliens who are no longer deportable. Commissioner Wallis, Mr. Uhl and Superintendent Baker have been anxious to aid us, but they have not had sufficient appropriations from Congress to do all they wanted. We believe all the States should unite in asking Congress for a larger appropriation for the immigration authorities so that the country might be freed from this great burden of caring for the thousands of insane aliens who become afflicted after their landing here."

HEARS PLEA IN HOLDUP CASE

Justice Burr Reserves Decision on New Trial for Croats.

After hearing arguments, Supreme Court Justice Burr reserved decision on the application of K. Henry Rosenberg, an attorney, for a certificate of reasonable doubt and new trial for Frank Pezzullich and Frank Sgelirrach, Croats, who were convicted a year ago of robbery and are now serving terms of from eight to sixteen years each in Sing Sing. In the course of the arguments it was said that for the first time in twenty-five years the District Attorney approved the granting of such a certificate.

Pezzullich and Sgelirrach were convicted of a holdup in a sailors' boarding house in March, 1919. One of the seven who took part was captured by a victim. This man told the police that the other robbers could be found at an address on West Twenty-fourth street. There Pezzullich and Sgelirrach were arrested. Despite an alibi supported by witnesses, they were convicted.

Later Frank Fratar and John De Franza, convicted of the same offense, told Father Cashin, Sing Sing chaplain, that Pezzullich and Sgelirrach were innocent.

HELD FOR BEACH TRESPASS.

Magistrate Consulting Authorities in Douglas Manor Case.

Magistrate Conway in the Flushing Court yesterday announced that the question whether bathing in Little Neck Bay off Douglas Manor constituted trespass was complicated and that he desired to consult authorities before giving a ruling. The case before him involved a charge against Leicester Heyes, Arthur Young and Fred Simmons, guests at the Douglas Manor Hotel.

Robert G. Butler, Secretary of the Douglas Manor Association, had the men summoned to court for alleged trespass. The defendants contended that inasmuch as a State highway passed within ten feet of the beach the place was public property.

BERGDOLL STILL IN CUSTODY

Indication That Court Martial Verdict Carried Prison Sentence.

Twenty-four hours or more have elapsed since the military court reached its decision in the Erwin R. Bergdoll desertion case and he has not been released. This is a certain indication under army regulations that the verdict carried a prison sentence. At Governors Island, where the court-martial was held, it is expected that the findings will be announced in a few days by Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of the Department of the East, after he has approved or disapproved the verdict of the court.

FILM STAR ASKS DIVORCE.

Pauline Frederick Charges Willard Mack with Misconduct.

Pauline Frederick, film star, yesterday filed papers in the County Court in a suit for absolute divorce from Charles W. McLaughlin, actor and playwright, better known as Willard Mack. She accuses her husband of misconduct with an unidentified woman. Accompanying the complaint was a report filed by a referee, recommending that an interlocutory decree be granted. The report was based on testimony previously taken.

Willard Mack and Miss Frederick were married in September, 1917, following the divorce obtained from him by Marjorie Rambeau, his former wife. It was Miss Frederick's second marriage. In 1910 she married Frank M. Andrews, an architect. The couple were divorced four years later.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 13.—J. Elmer Gates, a young Millbrook minister, who won a commission at Plattsburg and was wounded in the war, was designated today as the Democratic candidate for State Senator in this district, comprising Dutchess, Columbia and Putnam counties.

He is to run against James T. Towner of Putnam, present Republican incumbent.

GIRL HELD AS MEMBER OF BAND OF BURGLARS

Anna Westervelt Arrested at End of Chase of Three Alleged Jewelry Thieves.

A chase which started Thursday afternoon when a detective discovered that one of three men trying to sell jewelry to Nathan Miller, a jeweler at 1,225 Lexington Avenue, was armed, ended yesterday, the police say, in the capture of a band of young burglars, one of whom was an eighteen-year-old girl. According to the confession of one of the prisoners, the police say, the band several weeks ago entered the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth W. L. Stevens at 927 Fifth Avenue, carried a fair-sized safe down the fire-escape, put it in a taxi and took it to the flat where the girl, Anna Westervelt of 1,492 Second Avenue, was living with one of the men, and there rifled it of between $3,000 and $7,000 worth of jewelry.

The girl, the police say, is the daughter of respectable parents who are spending the Summer at Rockaway and did not know she was living with George Rubino, one of the prisoners to whom she said she was married, though the detectives say he denied it. Frank Rubino, brother of George, who was hit by a bullet in the chase, is a prisoner in the Harlem Hospital, where he was taken after a vain attempt to dress his wound in the girl's flat. Walter McKeon, 18 years old, one of the prisoners, according to the police, told of a number of burglaries in the Seventies in the vicinity of Park Avenue, most of which were fruitless. He, the Westervelt girl and George Rubino were held in $10,000 bail each in Yorkville Court for examination on the charge of suspicion of burglary. George Rubino was wounded in the hand by the jewelry store proprietor who came to the detective's aid when the three men in the store set upon him.

MAY BE KIDNAPPERS' TENT.

Coughlin Child's "Prison" Found Near Hammonton, Detectives Say.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—Detectives who have been searching this vicinity for clews to the whereabouts of Blakely Coughlin today came upon a tent in a small patch of woods not far from where Augusto Pasquale, the "Crank," supposed to be implicated in the kidnapping of the child, was arrested.

The tent was pitched in a dense grove about 200 feet from the Atlantic City Railroad tracks, nine miles from Hammonton. There was evidence, according to the detectives, that it had been recently used. No cooking utensils were in the tent, but the detectives believe these may have been hidden near by.

It was their theory that the child was taken to this tent by his kidnapper in the belief that no one would suspect the place, which is infested with mosquitoes and is shunned by campers.

According to a report here from Pennsylvania, the State Constabulary has been withdrawn from the case, as it is said to be the opinion of Major L. G. Adams that the child was murdered.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Augusto Pasquale, known as "The Crank," was held without bail to answer charges of kidnapping, burglary and extortion, in connection with the kidnapping of Blakely Coughlin, at a preliminary hearing today in the Montgomery County Prison at Norristown.

No testimony was taken, according to Justice of the Peace Lenhardt, who conducted the proceedings. The prisoner was held for a further hearing in order that there may be no difficulty in removing him from the prison at any time he is required by the State police.

LAGUARDIA STARTS INQUIRY.

Asks if Transit Lines Can Refuse Free Rides to Police in "Civies."

President F. H. LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen sent a letter yesterday to Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien asking if it was according to the law for the transit companies to refuse to grant free transportation to police corporals and patrolmen if not in uniform. He said it was his impression that the police officials, although not in uniform, are always on duty.

"This action strikes me as arbitrary and not in compliance with the spirit of the law," wrote Mr. LaGuardia and asked for an early answer.

WILD ANIMALS HERE FROM ASIA FOR ZOO

Liner Minnesota Brings Collection of 800 Birds and 200 Other Specimens.

WILD ASS A TRICK KICKER

"Gurroo" Bats, a Tiny Cat Bear and Whistling Vipers Aboard.

The Atlantic transport liner Minnesota arrived yesterday from London with a big collection of wild animals, birds and reptiles on board for the New York Zoological Garden in charge of James Bailey. It included a wild ass from the slopes of the Himalayas in India called onaga. The animal is pure white in color and has a habit of kicking its most intimate friends with both feet in a manner that is as sudden as it is unpleasant. There are also some specimens of black fuzzy bats from the Hindu temples of Tanjore in Southern India which fly about at a swift speed calling out "Gurroo-Gurroo." This has given rise to the rumor that the bats were imported into India from Ireland during the time of the Mogul Emperors.

There is also a panda cat bear, supposed to be the smallest bear in existence, and which is only eighteen inches high. The animal was sulky during the voyage, the sailors said, and never smiled or seemed happy until the keeper had brought out its daily tot of Holland gin, which is called by sailors "square face" on account of the shape of the bottle.

There were five black apes with white eyebrows in the collection called Hollock gibbons, and two wild swans from Assam, the only members of the collection that suffered from seasickness the whole voyage.

There were four rare blue and white cats with red eyes, said to be a cross between an Australian kangaroo and a Siamese ferret. They have large, bushy tails and walk on their hind legs with a swinging movement like a Sudanese dromedary suffering from neuritis. There were numbers of crinkly necked black grackles from the banks of the River Wu in China, where the little people live in mud caves.

Among the reptiles were diamond pythons, several whistling vipers and two species of cobras. In all there were 800 birds and 200 animals and reptiles.

STEAL TRUCK, THEN WHISKY

Two Men Flee When Policeman Appears—Loot Identified.

Two men stole a five-ton truck from in front of 219 Mulberry Street yesterday morning, drove it to 141 Mulberry Street and loaded it with whisky stolen from the cellar of A. Cagliostro at that address. They had seventy-five cases on the truck when Patrolman John C. Schoenstein of the Elizabeth Street Station appeared, whereupon they fled.

The truck later was identified by the owner, Stephano St. Angelo, who said he had left it in front of his home, 219 Mulberry Street, Thursday night. The police say Cagliostro showed a permit for having the liquor in his possession. The truck and whisky later were turned over to Federal Prohibition Agents Smith and Wittenberg and removed to a warehouse on First Street, between Bowery and Second Avenue.

Blast on Cruiser Pittsburgh Hurts 3

CHERBOURG, Aug. 13.—Three sailors were injured, one of them mortally, in an explosion on board the American cruiser Pittsburgh here yesterday. The most seriously injured of the men died this morning. The other two will recover.

DEALS IN BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute Buys Hospital Property.

The Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute has purchased, for a reported price of $150,000, the property of the Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital at 94 Livingston Street. Possession may be had any time within five years. The offer of $150,000 was accepted at a recent meeting of the board of the hospital, the board of the institute having previously authorized the proposal. Alfred T. White for Polytechnic and Howard O. Wood for the hospital were the chief agents in the negotiations. The hospital authorities are now looking for a new site.

William Liss sold 722 Avenue P for the J. & A. Realty Corporation to Daniel Golden of the State Industrial Commission. The property was sold for $9,400; they also sold 809 Gravesend Avenue, on a plot 30x125 to Mrs. Campbell; 811 Gravesend Avenue, a plot 30 by 125, to the tenant, Dr. Green, who has occupied the premises for ten years. These houses were sold for $6,500 each.

Martin A. Ansbro sold the following houses to clients for occupancy: 471 Sixty-second Street for Dorothy Grimme; 312 Forty-sixth Street for Margaret A. Moran; 411 Sixty-fourth Street for William L. Curtin and 1,222 Thirty-sixth Street for Charles Dunne.

The Inerny & Klinck Realty Company sold the dwelling at the southwest corner of Clarendon Road and East Twenty-third Street for the Vandeveer Estate.

Henry Pierson & Co. sold the three-story dwelling at 130 Sixth Avenue, 20 by 100, for Kathryn Coates.

Construction Projects.

Plans have been filed for a fourteen-story office building, 89.3 by 30.10 to be erected at the southeast corner of Rector and West Streets by the Union Sulphur Company. H. O. Chapman, architect, estimates the cost at $400,000.

Extensive changes on the interior of the building occupied by Wallach Brothers, clothiers, at 263-267 Broadway, are to be made by the Orphan Asylum Society of the City of New York, owner of the structure. The alterations involve complete changing of floor plans of the third, fourth and fifth stories to conform to the manufacturing requirements of the firm. The changes will cost $30,000.

Columbia University will add another story to the Dental School and Clinic at 437 West Fifty-ninth Street. The building was originally intended to be a three-story structure, but the plan was changed during construction. The third story is now being added at a cost of $11,000.

Ackerman Homestead Sold.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for the Ackerman estate, Edward G. Ackerman, Trustee, the homestead, at Far Rockaway, L. I., to James N. Rosenberg. The property fronts on Reads Lane and consists of the old homestead and outbuildings, on a plot of over three acres. After extensive alterations the purchaser will subdivide the property for resale. The property has remained in the Ackerman family for twenty-five years and was held at $50,000.

Forty-second Street Lease.

Herbert Hecht, H. C. Kopp Company, associated with Willard S. Burrows & Co., leased the rear forty feet of the store at 3 East Forty-second Street to the Childs Company for a period of six years at an aggregate rental of $60,000. Herbert Hecht, H. C. Kopp Company leased the four-story building on plot 18 by 100 at this address to the Schulte Optical Company at a rental of $28,000 per annum net, as recently reported. This is said to be a record rent for space on this street.

Recent Buyers.

The Chesebrough Manufacturing Company is the purchaser of the building at 117 Washington Street, reported sold recently. The company bought Nos. 111-115, adjoining, a few months ago.

Dr. John A. Mulholland is the buyer of the dwelling at 244 West Seventy-first Street.

Nathan Trowbridge Pulsifer is the purchaser of 114 East Thirty-eighth Street.

Sell East Side Garage.

The two-story garage, on plot 50 by 100.5, at 335 and 337 East Forty-seventh Street, near First Avenue, has been bought by the Rothbart Garage Operators from Henry H. Jackson and another, as executors, for $35,000.

Lawrence Estate Sold.

Herman Frankfort sold at Lawrence for Henry A. Kayser to Harry B. Rosen his homestead consisting of seven and one-half acres of ground, dwelling, garage, conservatories and outbuildings on Lawrence Avenue, between Broadway and Central Avenue.

Builders Buy 500 Lots.

The Mayer Hoffman Construction Company has purchased from the Broadway Central Realty Company a tract of 500 lots at Far Rockaway, near the bay, held at $75,000. The buyers plan to start work immediately upon the erection of twenty-five two-family houses.

ANDERSON BUILDING RESOLD BY CABLE

Charles Galewski Purchases Valuable Broadway Lofts from Frederick Brown.

SELLER TOURING JAPAN

Property, at Southwest Corner of Twelfth Street, Has Been Valued at $1,000,000.

The Anderson Building, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Twelfth Street, which was bought last week after negotiations by cable by Frederick Brown, who is touring Japan, has been re-sold in a deal transacted in the same way.

Charles Galewski, another operator, is the buyer. The structure is fifteen stories high and occupies an irregular plot, having a frontage of 42 feet on Broadway and 132 feet on Twelfth Street. It is valued at $1,000,000 and the clothing concerns which chiefly occupy the building pay an annual rental of $100,000. Originally known as the Sprague Building, the structure was erected about twenty years ago by the Weld Estate. Negotiations for the resale were arranged by J. Moskowitz.

Mr. Brown bought the property from Mrs. Isabelle Anderson of Washington, D. C., who acquired it in 1907.

APARTMENT HOUSE SALES.

Big Harlem Property Acquired for Investment Purposes.

Nathan Lamport sold to Morris Braun 1,501 to 1,503 Madison Avenue, at the southeast corner of 103d Street, a six-story new-law house, on plot 50 by 100. It contains seven stores and shows an annual rental of about $18,000. The buyer will hold it for investment.

J. Diamond sold to the Keabro Realty Company the five-story tenement, with store, at 235 West Twenty-seventh Street, 24.1 by 98.9.

Ellen Lamm sold to the Carlhoff Realty Company the five-story building, with store, at 80 Columbia Street, 30 by 25.

Charles Wynne and Louis H. Low purchased from the Mary C. Brown estate, United States Mortgage and Trust Company trustee, 140 East Thirty-fourth Street, a five-story studio apartment house on lot 25 by 135. Folsom Bros. were the brokers. This is the first sale of the property in twenty years.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. sold for the Canal Securities Corporation three six-story apartment houses at 151 to 161 West 228th Street to a client for investment. The property was held at $150,000 and brings in a rent return of approximately $24,000 per annum.

The five-story tenement, 215 Sullivan Street, has been sold by McCotter & Davis, who have also sold 489 and 491 Classon Avenue, Brooklyn, to the Helenda Realty Corporation, who will remodel the dwellings.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—MIRIAM BRENER, an infant, by her Guardian Ad Litem, RACHEL STERN, Plaintiff, against ELIAS BRENER, Defendant.—Summons in action to annul a marriage.

To the above-named Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the Plaintiff's Attorney within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated, New York, March 23rd, 1920.
M. STRASSMAN, Plaintiff's Attorney,
Office and Post Office Address: No. 853 Broadway, New York City, Borough of Manhattan.

To ELIAS BRENER:

The foregoing summons is served upon you, by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. EDWARD J. McGOLDRICK, Justice of the Supreme Court, New York County, dated the 19th day of July, 1920, and filed with the complaint, in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, State of New York, at the County Court House, City of New York, Borough of Manhattan.

Dated, New York, July 22, 1920.
M. STRASSMAN, Attorney for Plaintiff.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Pressure is high over the Western Atlantic and over the plains States and the Upper Mississippi Valley and it is relatively low over the Great Central Valleys and the lower lake region and also in the Pacific States.

Showers were quite general within the last 24 hours over the States east of the Mississippi River and in Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico and North Arizona. Fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country.

The temperature remains normal throughout the Eastern States. It is normal in the Mississippi Valley and the Southwest and it is much above normal in the Northwest.

The outlook is for partly cloudy weather and occasional showers Saturday and Sunday in the Atlantic and East Gulf States and Tennessee. In the lower Lake Region and the Ohio Valley local showers Saturday will be followed by generally fair weather Sunday. In the upper Lake Region the weather will be fair and warmer Saturday and Sunday.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the Eastern and Southern States.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Northern New England, Southern New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, partly cloudy with local showers Saturday and probably Sunday, no change in temperature.

West New York, partly cloudy weather with probably local showers Saturday, Sunday fair, no change in temperature.

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.
3 A. M.	74	68	4 P. M.	78	[illegible]

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces an examination on Sept. 22 for assistant specialist in food investigations, male or female, regardless of age, for a vacancy in the States Relations Service, Department of Agriculture, at $1,800 to $2,220 a year, and vacancies in positions requiring similar qualifications. The entrance salary will depend upon qualifications. The duties of the appointee will consist of investigations with regard to any phase of the household preparation of food materials which may be required to be studied in the laboratory of the Office of Home Economics of the States Relations Service; to take charge of the work of other investigators under the direction of the chief of the office, and to prepare for publicity purposes reports of the results obtained. Competitors will be examined in practical questions (to be based upon the subject matter of bacteriology, chemistry, and physics, as applied to home economics; and experimental cookery), 40; thesis, 20; education, training and experience, 40. Applicants must have graduated from a four years' course in home economics in a college or university; have completed one year of post-graduate work in chemistry, physics, or some biological science, and have had one year's experience either in college or university teaching of home economics or as home demonstration agent. Under the second subject applicants must submit at examination a thesis of from 2,000 to 5,000 words upon some subject of special interest to home economics workers in connection with which they have carried on original investigations.

SAY MARTENS GOT JEWELS OF ROYALTY

131 Gems Taken from Sailor in July Were Addressed to the Soviet "Ambassador."

DELIVERED TO SECRETARY

Federal Agents Declare Soviet Maintained Effective Courier Service—Find Red Payroll.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Traffic by Bolshevist agents in precious stones supposed to have formed part of the famous jewels of the Russian royal family has been unearthed by Federal authorities.

The 131 diamonds found on Neils Jacobsen, a Swedish sailor, by customs officials in New York July 23, it became known today, were inclosed in a package addressed to "Comrade Martens." Using this as a lead, Federal officials began an investigation which, they declare, has definitely connected Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled Soviet Ambassador to the United States, with the traffic. Disclosure of the fact that the package was intended for Soviet agents in this country was withheld by customs authorities when Jacobsen was arrested, although the details as to the seizure of the jewels were then made public.

Jacobsen, officials said today, identified during the course of the investigation a photograph of Santer Nuorteva, former secretary of Martens, as a person to whom previous packages had been delivered.

Gave Him Time to Clear Himself.

Introduction of the alleged incriminatory evidence of the traffic in precious stones between Soviet representatives in this country and abroad at the last hearing in the last deportation proceedings against Martens resulted in postponement of further hearings until Aug. 30 to enable the self-styled Ambassador to obtain evidence, if possible, in refutation of the charges.

Counsel for Martens already has asked that the Government commission be sent to Stockholm to investigate the system in which he is accused of being implicated. Begun six months ago, the smuggling is described by Government officials as the most perfectly organized courier service between Bolshevist agents abroad and in the United States that has been discovered.

Enclosed about the diamonds taken from the Swedish sailor, Jacobsen, whom officials exonerate from any complicity in the illegal proceedings, was a quantity of Communist literature, including an "appeal of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale at Moscow to the I. W. W." This manifesto declared:

"Unless the workers of other countries rise against their own capitalists the Russian revolution cannot last."

Jacobsen deposed before the customs authorities, according to Department of Justice officials, that he had been engaged in similar missions for six months, having been originally approached in Gothenburg, Sweden, by a Swede named Foglemark. From Foglemark he is said to have received the promise of $15 for the carrying of each package. Each package was delivered, it was alleged, by a Swedish customs guard, Erickson, to the sailor.

Delivered Packages Here.

According to officials, Jacobsen on each trip to the United States delivered the packages in New York to a Mrs. Keinanen, who lived first at 113 West Eightieth Street and afterward in West 129th Street. Jacobsen's position recites that she in his presence turned over the packages to a "short, stout man." This man later was identified by the sailor as Santeri Nuorteva, former private secretary to Martens, who recently escaped from the United States and later was deported to Russia from England.

A customs guard, dressed as a sailor, accompanied Jacobsen to the West 129th Street address on July 23 to deliver a dummy package to Mrs. Keinanen. However, she had removed her residence, but inquiry developed that another woman, Mrs. Senda Escala, a Finn, had been delegated to receive the expected packages from Jacobsen.

Upon refusal, however, to deliver the package to any but the "short, stout man" who usually received them in the presence of Jacobson, the woman agreed to telephone for him.

The telephone number called, according to the evidence, was identified by officials as a Flatbush number in the residence occupied by Martens. In response to the call and in the absence of Nuorteva from the country, M. Martens, identified as a secretary of Martens, appeared to claim the package.

Obtaining a search warrant, the house of Martens was searched and among other documents was found a letter addressed to "Esteemed Comrade Martens," and signed "Boris."

The letter, dated June 21, at Trondjena, Norway, contained this paragraph:

"He told me he is in the same position; that he has no money, but he has some stones he will endeavor to send you at the first opportunity."

The "he" to whom Boris referred was not identified in the letter.

Discovery of what is said by officials to be the payroll of Martens has been made by Federal authorities.

The alleged payroll was found in Martens' residence in Brooklyn during the recent search of the house.

The name of J. G. Ohsol, said to have been a former employe of the Federal Trade Commission here, was identified by Government officials in the list of thirty names on the supposed payroll. Mr. Ohsol, Federal trade officials said today, formerly was employed by the commission as an examiner and left the service last March 17.

Names were listed on the putative payroll under seven divisions: Diplomatic, Soviet Russia, office, commercial, economic, financial and technical.

Deny Gems Are Crown Jewels.

The intimation contained in the testimony taken in Washington in the deportation proceedings against Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the "Soviet Ambassador to the United States," that the 131 cut diamonds seized here on the person of a Swedish sailor on July 22 were part of the Russian crown jewels, and that they were sent for the purpose of supplying Martens with funds to carry on Soviet propaganda, could not be substantiated by any information obtained so far by the Federal officials.

Mitchell Safron, a clerk in the Soviet offices at 110 West Fortieth Street, was arrested after Mrs. Keinenan, who is out of town, had left word that any packages coming for her were to be sent to Safron.

Assistant United States District Attorney John E. Walker said that he had no information indicating that the attempt to smuggle in the diamonds was of any graver importance than any of the other attempts to smuggle that have been detected during the last year. He laughed at the stories that the diamonds were any part of the crown jewels of Russia, and said that the whole matter was so commonplace that it would probably not be laid before the Grand Jury, unless it increased greatly beyond its present importance.

Martens, seen yesterday in the Soviet Bureau, said that the attempt to implicate him in the smuggling case would fail. He said that the Labor Department had made the smuggling charge after it had failed to prove the charge that he was an anarchist and was plotting to overthrow this Government by force. He said that the imperial jewels of Russia were locked up in Russia in the care of the Soviet Government.

STEAMER MONTARA ASHORE.

Grounds Eight Miles Off Louisburg, but Crew Lands Safely.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 13.—The American steamer Montara went ashore early today, eight miles East of Louisburg, and has been abandoned by her crew, who landed safely, according to wireless messages received here today by the Marine and Fisheries Department.

The first message, received from Louisburg, said that the Montara, a vessel of 2,562 gross tonnage bound from Philadelphia to Botwood, N. F., was asking for immediate assistance.

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 13.—The steamer Bras d'Or, revenue cutter Restless and cruiser Margaret were dispatched from here today to the assistance of the American steamer Montara, abandoned on a reef five miles east of Louisburg. A thick fog hung along the coast when the steamer grounded early today.

Vincent Mullins, local representative of the Marine and Fisheries Department, was puzzled by the action of the crew in abandoning their ship, as no sea was running. He expressed the opinion that the vessel may have backed off the reef and sunk in deep water.

The freight steamer Montara, abandoned today on the Nova Scotia coast, hailed from this port. She was formerly the Williamette and carried a crew of twenty-seven men, commanded by Captain Bary.

She was built in 1881 at Chester, Pa., and was 315 feet long. She is owned by the Pyne Company, Inc.

TWO DIE BY ELECTRICITY.

Man Seizes Live Wire, Boy Stumbles on Third Rail.

George Zeese, 22 years old, an ink salesman, of 558 East Twenty-third Street, died a lingering death when he seized a live electric light wire under the boardwalk at Long Beach yesterday afternoon. A throng of bathers heard his shouts for help, but before electricians were summoned he was dead. Apparently none in the crowd knew how to save him.

Zeese was passing under the boardwalk in front of the Trouville when he noticed a wire hanging from the boardwalk, which is nine feet above the sand at that point. With several companions he had just left the water and was still wet. It is believed he tried to remove the wire to a place where pedestrians would not be in danger. In his right hand, which clutched the wire, was found a rubber bathing cap, still wet, which he had thought would act as a non-conductor.

Edward Lawler, 11 years old, of 1,913 West Ninth Street, Brooklyn, was killed yesterday when he stumbled and fell on the third rail of the Sea Beach line on the bridge over Coney Island Creek. With his cousin and several other boys the lad had spent the day at Coney Island and they were on their way home "cross lots."

Tanker Goes Two Weeks With Sails.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—A tug from New York picked up the tanker of the Texas Company, Texaco No. 145, today off Atlantic City and towed her to New York. She dropped anchor off here last night. Her Captain reported that she had been making headway under improvised sails for two weeks. Her home port, painted on the stern, was Port Arthur. She carried a crew of twenty-six men. She refused proffered assistance.

M'GRAW CASE TO GO BEFORE GRAND JURY

MANAGER'S BEATING SEVERE

Lambs Give Names of Witnesses of Club Fight—Slavin Still Improving.

District Attorney Swann said yesterday that he would lay before the Grand Jury early next week the facts in connection with the discovery early last Sunday of John C. Slavin, comedian, unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the apartment of John J. McGraw, manager and part owner of the Giants. The District Attorney said:

"First, the courtesy was extended to McGraw to call at my office of his own accord. Then he was requested to come here, and now he has refused admittance to my assistant and to a county physician. Therefore, I have decided not to pay any further attention to him. There is no other alternative but for me to present the matter before the Grand Jury.

"I have given instructions to have the witnesses in the case appear before the Grand Jury early next week. There will be no letup in the case."

Assistant District Attorney Albert B. Unger, with Dr. Benjaman Schwartz, chief assistant to the Chief Medical Examiner of New York City, called at the McGraw apartment during the day, asked to see McGraw, only to have the door of the apartment slammed in their faces, according to their accounts. Mr. Unger said that all the witnesses in the case would be subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury next Tuesday. Mr. Unger said that no Grand Jury subpoenas would be issued for McGraw or Slavin. Yesterday's subpoena was left with the Superintendent of the building.

Slavin's condition has continued to improve steadily. Physicians at St. Luke's said he might be able today to tell the story of his Saturday night and early Sunday morning adventures.

Mr. Swann Gets Facts.

The complete tale of the injuries of McGraw, suffered on Saturday night, when, according to The Lambs' Council, he was the aggressor against William H. Boyd, Broadway leading man, with most disastrous results to himself, was unfolded by the District Attorney's office yesterday. It was said that McGraw was laid up with several lacerations of the scalp, bruises of the face in general and two black eyes in particular, and other injuries. That there had been a slight concussion of the brain also was thought possible. Mr. Swann in person learned these particulars of McGraw's disabilities in a telephone conversation with Dr. William F. Bender, 25 Fort Washington Avenue, after he had received a letter from Dr. Bender which said:

I have been attending John J. McGraw at his home, 301 West 109th Street, since Sunday last. He is in no condition to leave his home. He may be confined there for some time.
DR. WILLIAM F. BENDER.

This is the first official inkling received of the seriousness of the injuries to McGraw. Assistant District Attorneys Unger and Marro said it was apparent Dr. Bender's letter was a response to the unsuccessful effort of a process server from the District Attorney's office to serve a "request" subpoena on McGraw on Thursday.

Dr. Bender was quoted at the District Attorney's office as having seen McGraw at the Polo Grounds on Sunday afternoon and persuading him to return to his aparement and to go to bed under a physician's care. That, it was said, was why all attempts by newspaper reporters to reach McGraw had failed.

Urged Hospital for McGraw.

Dr. Bender told Mr. Swann that he had advised McGraw to go to a hospital. McGraw refused, he said, but consented to go home after the doctor had told him the seriousness of his condition.

It will be recalled that McGraw was quoted as saying that he had been "hoofed"—which means that he charged that he had been kicked when he was down—during the mix-up that led to his injuries. It has been impossible for a TIMES reporter to verify that statement even as coming from McGraw. It is a fact that all statements from The Lambs, both official and otherwise, agree that McGraw was the aggressor, was most insulting, and that he was chastised by William H. Boyd, after he had said unforgiveable words to Boyd, in the apparent belief that Boyd was some one else.

The Lambs' sympathy for Boyd is best expressed in the unofficial but reliably sponsored report that Boyd still is retained as a member, while McGraw again is under suspension, pending further investigation. No sympathy at all is expressed for McGraw in the actors' fold.

Lambs Name Eight Witnesses.

The Lambs sent to the District Attorney yesterday their assurance that they would asst in every way possible in his investigation. They included in their note the names of eight witnesses who it was said probably were present at the mêlée in the Lambs. The eight were William H. Boyd, John C. King, Robert Woolsey, John C. Slavin, Winfield Liggett, Charles Purcell, Christian Scott and Louis Mandel.

Acting Captain Michael Quinn, in charge of the Fourth Detective Branch, said last night that a milkman and another witness whom he had found and examined had asserted to him that Slavin received his injuries in front of the McGraw home when he fell on his head on the sidewalk after being pushed into a taxicab. Quinn said the milkman stated that he heard Slavin insisting on accompanying someone upstairs to his apartment, that he saw Slavin shoved back into the taxi, and that then he saw one of the three men enter the apartment house. The milkman, according to Quinn, was sure that the man who went into the apartment was McGraw.

Broadway says the affair is going to "blow over." The District Attorney says it is going to blow "wide open."

DENY FINDING SMALL'S BODY

Paris Morgue Has No Record of Toronto Theatre Man.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Both the Paris morgue and the police today reported they had no record of Ambrose J. Small, a millionaire theatrical man of Toronto, who mysteriously disappeared on Dec. 2 last, and whose body was reported in Toronto dispatches yesterday as having been identified here.

The identification was said to have been made by Louis P. Verande, a French impresario, whom Small was reported to have met in Canada.

The Canadian High Commissioner and the British Embassy stated today they were unable to locate M. Verande.

BLAST KILLS 6, HURTS 3.

4 More Believed to be Dead from Explosion Near Graham, Va.

GRAHAM, Va., Aug. 13.—Six persons were killed, four others are thought to have lost their lives and three were injured in a premature explosion at a limestone crusher at Pounding Mill, near here, today.

The explosion was caused by the ignition of a fuse by a spark from a drill, setting off three charges of dynamite which were being loaded for use tomorrow.

The known dead and injured were taken from the débris, but the bodies of four others are thought to be under the tons of rock which fell into the pit.

JERSEY PLANS TO PAY WAGES TO PRISONERS

Scheme of Commissioner Lewis Provides for 15 to 35 Cents a Day—Warden Lawes Approves.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—Expectation is that a scheme for paying prisoners of State institutions engaged in State work at the rate of from 15 to 35 cents a day soon will be adopted by New Jersey.

The plan is that of Burdette G. Lewis, Commissioner of the Department of Institutions and Agencies, former Commisioner of Correction in New York City. Th proposed rates of compensation have been compiled by David I. Kelly, Calvin Derrick and Charles H. Clayton, Directors of Divisions of the Department of Institutions and Agencies.

Commissioner Lewis, in discussing the new payment plan, which means cash in addition to all deductions for board and maintenance, said that New Jersey was breaking new ground and that the eyes of penologists of the nations would be on Jersey to observe how the new plan works.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing said last night that Commissioner Lewis's was a "fine stand" and an "excellent idea," "based on practically, and not upon sentimentality."

"It is the coming method," the warden continued. "And it looks to me as if it will be only a short time before it is adopted in New York State. State Superintendent of Prisons Charles S. Rattigan is in favor of some such plan, and the Prison Survey Commission appointed by Governor Smith to investigate prisons has reported favorably on such an idea.

"It is not a new idea, however. For instance, the inmates of the prison at Stillwater, Minn., are absolutely self-sustaining. The income to the institution runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. They make binder twine and agricultural implements. The prison at Jackson, Mich., has the same system with the canning industry added.

"In both these places they are able to go into the open market in competition. In New York State prisoners are paid only 1½ cents a day regardless of the character or amount of work. It is a great step forward that Commissioner Lewis is taking. But he always was a progressive. We hope that we will not be behind him.

"At present in this State prison labor cannot compete in the open market. Prisoners' products only may be sold to other State institutions."

B. R. T. MEN LOOK TO SMITH.

May Appeal to Governor if Conferences Here Prove Futile.

Leaders directing the fight of the B. R. T. employes for a closed shop, higher wages and better working conditions will carry their case to Governor Smith, if they fail in conferences they have requested with Mayor Hylan and Federal Judge Mayer, it became known last night. They already are planning to go to Albany on Tuesday unless they receive assurances from Judge Mayer on Monday that a satisfactory operating agreement will be entered into at the expiration of the present one at midnight on Aug. 28.

The committee which may go to Albany is headed by William D. Mahon, International President of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Workers of America; James Sheridan, President of the Brooklyn local; P. J. Shea of the Executive Board of the Amalgamated, and Louis Fridiger, general counsel.

A committee of the men yesterday made an appointment with the Mayor for a conference Monday at 10:30 A. M. on Receiver Garrison's refusal to negotiate a modified agreement. A letter also was sent to Judge Mayer asking an appointment at his "earliest convenience."

"The men are all talking strike and unless their more important demands are granted it will be very hard to hold them in line," said one of the leaders last night. "We all hope that a strike can be avoided."

FIND COMPACT IN MURDER.

Husband Killed by Wife Gave Her Right to Punish Him.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Viola Brinkman, who shot and killed her husband, John H. Brinkman, in a hotel here yesterday, was the principal witness at the Coroner's inquest today. A warrant charging murder was served on her. Mrs. Brinkman said she would make no statement until she hears from relatives in Asbury Park, N. J.

Mrs. Brinkman, who is 47 years old, shot her husband as he was about to enter his room in the hotel. Letters found in the hotel after the shooting indicate that the couple were estranged. To the police Mrs. Brinkman claimed there was another woman in the case.

The Brinkmans were married twenty-four years ago, and their home is in Newark, N. J., where they have an adopted son. Police have obtained a letter said to have been signed by Brinkman nearly four years ago, saying in effect that if Brinkman is at any time found or seen in the company of another woman his wife, Viola C. Brinkman, may resort to any means to punish him, that he would deem her justified in so doing and make no complaint against her.

AID FLORENTINE VICTIMS.

Eight Killed, 100 Hurt in Explosion—Americans Shelter Children.

FLORENCE, Aug. 12.—Ambassador and Mrs. Robert Underwood Johnson, who have been staying near Florence, have visited the scene of the terrific explosion on Wednesday and have interested themselves in the welfare of children who are being sheltered by American relief workers at Camarata.

Ambassador Johnson, who is President of the American Relief Committee, left money for the restoration of the tent in which those injured by the explosion are patients.

Eight persons were killed in the explosion, and 100 were more or less seriously wounded. Damage totalling many million lire was done.

CZECHS UNITE FOR DEFENSE

Join With German Socialists to Preserve the Republic.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 12.—The executives of the Czechs and German Social-Democrat parties today drafted a joint manifesto to labor to defend the integrity of the Republic against the Magyars and also declaring for neutrality in the boycott against munitions.

It was said to be the first common action taken between Czechs and Germans.

INDICT GUATEMALAN AGENT.

Vice Consul General at New Orleans Held Under Mann Act.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—The Federal Grand Jury here today indicted Dr. Joseph M. Lima, Vice Consul General of Guatemala, for violation of the Mann act.

The indictment alleges that Dr. Lima transported a woman from Greenwood, Miss., to New Orleans in November, 1919. Bond was fixed at $5,000.

Asks 13-Cent Fare to Jamaica.

The receivers of the Manhattan & Queens Traction Corporation filed a petition yesterday with the Public Service Commission asking for permission to increase to 13 cents the fare from Manhattan via the Queensboro Bridge to Jamaica. The receivers notified the commission that the employes of the road had threatened to strike unless they received a 25 per cent. increase in wages.

INTERCITY RADIO CO. WINS GERMAN TRADE

Emil J. Simon Gets Important Service Contracts with Berlin Government.

CAPITAL OF ONLY $65,000

Radio Corporation Head, Abroad on Similar Quest, Reported to Have Been Too Late.

The success of a transatlantic and transcontinental race to obtain important contracts for wireless service between the United States and Germany became known yesterday, when it was learned that Emil J. Simon, radio engineer and head of the Intercity Radio Company, had reached an agreement with the German Government for interoceanic service embracing the big German sending and receiving stations and similar stations in this country. E. J. Nally, head of the Radio Corporation of America, has been abroad for some time on a similar quest. It was intimated yesterday that he was not successful.

The Radio Corporation of America has an agreement with the German Government whereby it accepts mesages for Germany at all of its offices and transmits them to that country, receiving and distributing here messages which are filed in Germany. The announcement that Mr. Simon had arranged for a transatlantic service surprised Radio Corporation officials.

It was said at the Radio Corporation offices that Mr. Nally went abroad some time ago to arrange contracts with the German Government covering an interchange of messages, but nothing has been received from him regarding the contracts arranged by Mr. Simon. At the offices of the Intercity Radio Company, 217 Broadway, it was said Mr. Simon would be in New York in a week or so, but meantime neither confirmation nor denial of the closing of the German contract would be made.

The Intercity Radio Company operates plants in Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland. Three separate companies have been formed under the laws of the States of Michigan, Illinois and Ohio with nominal capital, all of which has been furnished by Mr. Simon, the President of each organization. The stations have been working for only a few months. The total capital of the companies is only $65,000.

Mr. Simon, who is only 32 years old, is the inventor of a number of radio devices used by the United States Government on submarines, torpedo-boat destroyers and airplanes during the war, during which he devoted his ability to Government work. He has been associted with the De Forest and other wireless interests. It is understood he formed his intercity radio companies in the three Middle West States because of their "blue-sky" laws, which prevent stock jobbing.

It was suggested yesterday by W. A. Winterbottom, Traffic Manager of the Radio Corporation of America, that the contract closed by Mr. Simon possibly would not prevent a similar arrangement being effected by Mr. Nally.

BOLT HITS POWDER MILL.

Plant Blown Up and Houses Shaken for Miles Around.

WAYNE, N. J., Aug. 13.—Lightning struck the Corning mill of the E. I. du Pont powder plant here at 3 A. M. today. The building, a one-story brick, about 80 by 40 feet, was blown up, and the 100,000 pounds of powder in water in the building, undergoing the "wet-dry" treatment, was destroyed.

Window panes in the neighborhood were broken and houses shaken for many miles around. The shock was distinctly felt in Paterson. No one was injured.

CUTS VACATION TO SAVE DOG

Pastor Forced to Return Home to End Grieving Pet's Fast.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERSIDE, N. J., Aug. 13.—To save the life of a pet dog which was apparently grieving to death over his absence the Rev. Norman B. McConnell, pastor of the River Side Methodist Church, had to return from his vacation. For two weeks after the clergyman had left for a Summer rest the dog refused to eat. A veterinarian decided that the only trouble with the animal was grief for its missing master.

Efforts to tempt the dog with choice morsels of meat failed and the animal refused to leave its owner's doorstep. When the dog had been reduced to practically a living skeleton a friend wrote to the pastor and the latter returned at once. The dog feebly expressed delight when he appeared, broke its long fast and is recovering strength.

SAYS GERMANS WILL DIE OFF

Professor von Gruber Asserts Allies' Terms Mean Death to 15,000,000.

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (Associated Press).—"I consider it inevitable than ten or fifteen million of our people will die out, as we no longer can provide for them because of the theft of our colonies, our merchant fleet and our possession abroad, the destruction of our industries and the seizure of our natural resources," is the reply of Professor Max von Gruber, a noted hygienist, in refusing the request of his Munich colleagues that he sign an international appeal on behalf of German tubercular children.

Professor von Gruber, who is well known for his pan-German inclinations, declares he finds it "incompatible with German honor" to appeal to the very nations who, he charges, "imposed the hunger blockade which undermined the vitality of the German people."
